Cop Saves Fish On Way To School

Birmingham, England—There was Derrick Strahan, driving his goldfish to school. As they drew near the school for spastic children where Strahan's wife teaches and where he was going to show the children the goldfish, Derrick pulled up sharply at an intersection. A basket containing a bowl, water and the goldfish fell off the front seat, and the goldfish flapped around on the floor.

Strahan bent down to rescue the fish and its bowl. His foot slipped off the brake and the car rolled on—into another automobile that a policeman was parking.

The policeman, described in court as "decent and humane," first attended to the unhappy goldfish. He got water for the goldfish.

Then he charged Strahan with careless driving. Strahan was fined $5.60 Thursday.

Abbott worked at carpenter work when he first came here, but for the past 26 years has been employed by the Medford Irrigation district. Hamilton added.
