REMOVE WASTE- NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's a secret millions have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the wonderfully different chewing-gum laxative.

FEEN-A-MINT is different because you chew it. It's different, too, because it removes mostly waste—not good food! FEEN-A-MINT does not work in the stomach, where food is being digested. That's why it does not take away a lot of the good food you need for energy.

Doctors know that FEEN-A-MINT works chiefly in the lower bowel...removes mostly waste, not good food! And it's non-irritating, too.

So to feel like a million, chew delicious FEEN-A-MINT. 16 tablets, 35¢—also small and economy sizes.

X Marks the Spa

by Dick Emmons

UNLESS THE CALENDAR thoughtfully provided me by my bank (the one with all the car-payment dates printed in red ink) is completely wrong, the time has come to start planning our Summer vacation.

Our average vacation is a two-week trip, which I spend worrying about whether they're getting along better without me at the office, and my wife spends worrying about whether she turned off the gas. I remember all too vividly how we planned last year's hegira to the hinterlands:

It was my wife who brought the subject up while I was watching television. "Listen to this!" she blurted just as a Bad Guy was drawing a bead on Wyatt Earp's back. I jumped a foot out of my chair.

"Come to Karefree Kottages!" she read. "'Glorious days on the golden sands of Lake Whatchanoobee! Star-filled nights of splendor around the glowing campfire!' That's for me!"

Earp moved in the nick of time and I snapped off the set. "It may be for you, but I have been formulating a slightly different plan for me," I answered. "This year I am going to stretch out in the hammock in the back yard for 14 days solid, moving only to change the position of my pillow or dab a bit more lotion on my arms."

"Stay right here at home, eh?" she murmured, a hard, level look coming into her eyes. "Well, I suppose it would have its advantages."

"You mean it?" I gasped.

"Certainly. In 14 days you could paint the house, put in that patio I've been asking for, tidy up the basement, and maybe even put up new screens on the back porch."

For a fee which would have made the Waldorf blink, we reserved a Karefree Kottage that very night by mail and, as the weeks fled by, my wife shopped merrily for swimming suits, gay beach towels, sand toys, and inflatable water animals.

Finally the day arrived when we nosed our car off the highway and
