

Showdown Planned Friday On Deportation of Finlander

San Francisco — Federal Judge Edward P. Murphy called for a showdown next Friday on the now celebrated case of ex-Communist William Heikkila and his week-long deportation by the Immigration Service.

Murphy will tackle both sides of the thorny situation during Friday's session.

He told District Immigration Director Bruce Barber and Assistant Director Stanley Olson Friday he had no recourse but to demand they show cause why they should not be held in civil contempt for deporting Heikkila while an appearance was still pending.

Back From Helsinki
At the same time, the judge will consider Heikkila's request that Murphy change his judicial order of last Jan. 14 which declared Heikkila had reached the end of his legal rope in his 11-year battle against deportation.

As Murphy planned the showdown, Heikkila returned to San Francisco after his short visit to Helsinki, Finland. His arrival was a direct contrast to his departure a week earlier when five Immigration agents grabbed him as he left work and whisked him off to Vancouver, B.C. by plane.

As the one-armed, 52-year-old draftsman came down the ramp from a Pan-American plane Friday he was greeted by hordes of newsmen, photographers, radio and television personnel, in addition to attorneys, friends, his wife and other relatives.

'Proud' Of His Past
Heikkila admitted he belonged to the Communist Party from 1929 to 1939, but said he had "no contact" with the party since then.

"I am proud of what I have done in the past," he told newsmen. "I am neither Communist nor anti-Communist. My ideas are my own. If people don't like what I have done, I can't help it."

Both sides in the dispute said they welcomed Friday's hearing before Murphy.

"That's what we wanted," said Allen Brotsky, an attorney who met Heikkila at the airport. "It will give us an opportunity to see if someone willfully broke the order of the court."

Barber also approved the action.

Wheels of Justice
"I believe this will give the Immigration and Naturalization Service . . . the opportunity to establish in the calm atmosphere of the courtroom the true facts . . . that the arrest of Heikkila in San Francisco by officers of this service was carried out in a lawful manner and did not violate any of the alien's rights to due process."

The judge expressed belief that Barber had "acted in good faith" and had an "admirable record" in his federal post.

"Perhaps Barber and his supervisors and aides became more than fed up with 11 years of futile effort to deport this man," Murphy added. "The wheels of justice, I believe, will eventually catch up with Heikkila."

4-H CLUB NEWS

Antelope 4-H Club
The Antelope 4-H clothing club held a workshop meeting at Jo Anna Malloroy's home April 19.

From 10 a.m. to noon the older members were at a meeting in Jackson county courthouse. Miss Marelou Garner and Miss Mary Pat Lucy taught us many things on applying makeup, modeling and wearing accessories.

At our meeting we planned the mother's tea. We decided to have it at Paulette Anderson's home on May 4.

The next meeting will be held at Karen Jossy's home on May 7.

Inspections of Private Forest Lands Under Way

Salem — Examination of privately owned forest lands in 10 counties of the state for the purpose of determining their eligibility for classification under the state's deferred forest taxation program as provided under the forest fee and yield tax law is now underway, according to Darryl Storm, state forestry department official.

Storm said that the counties involved include Columbia, Coos, Curry, Lane, Linn, Tillamook, Josephine, Klamath, Jackson and Multnomah. In order to be included in eligible lands they must consist of either cutover or otherwise denuded forest lands or lands carrying an immature non-merchantable stand of reproduction.

Field men of the department will make an examination of all lands proposed for classification and the various owners of approved tracts will receive official notification at a later date of the public hearings which are to be held in the various counties next spring, Storm added.

Final Classification
"Final classification," said Storm, "is in the hands of the state tax commission. Once classified, the lands carry an annual forest fee of 5 cents per acre in western Oregon and 2½ cents in eastern Oregon, with a yield tax of 12½ per cent of the unit value of any products harvested from the land."

"It is this deferred tax position that offers an inducement for the private landowner to retain title to his land and engage in tree growing. His main tax bill comes due when he is best able to pay. In other words, when the timber is harvested."

Storm added that landowners who are interested in the classification of lands should get in touch with the Salem office of the state forestry department or the closest field headquarters. Lists will be closed by Sept. 1.

Pre-School Clinic Set at Phoenix

Phoenix — A pre-school clinic sponsored by the Phoenix Parent Teacher association will be held Wednesday, April 30, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the Phoenix Community club building.

The clinic is conducted by the Jackson County public health department, and is for all children not under health supervision by a family physician. All children who expect to enter school this fall are required to have a physical examination.

Immunization shots will be given, according to examining physician, Dr. E. A. Merkel. Jackson county public health information is available by telephoning Mrs. H. D. Beer at Spring 2-5802.

Spark plugs must give from 1,000 to 2,000 sparks a minute in 1,500 degree temperature and also withstand explosive pressures as high as 500 pounds per square inch.
