

Haunting Whistle Will Be No More

Buffalo, N.Y.—No more will that haunting train whistle in the night be heard on the Pennsylvania Railroad's northern regional lines. Beginning Dec. 1, all of the Pennsylvania's trains in the region will be powered by diesel engines. Some 300 diesels took over the chores which once required approximately 800 steam locomotives. Since World War II steam has been disappearing gradually from the Pennsylvania's rails. Arrival of new diesels, end of the lake season and the downward trend in business brought complete dieselization of the region months ahead of schedule.

Grange News

Shady Cove Grange
Shady Cove Grange met Saturday for a potluck supper in the Shady Cove school cafeteria. Guests from Sams Valley Grange were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Fitzgerald, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Radoski. Guests for Eagle Point were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Jones and Mrs. Agnes Hubble, and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Lewin of Phoenix Grange. A special program for the evening included Bill Jess, Malcom Karr and Roscoe B. Hatch. Jess is president of the Rogue Basin Flood Control and Water Resources association and chairman of the Jackson County Water Resources commission. Karr is investigating engineer of State Water Resources, and Hatch is from the Corps of Engineers of the Army. They spoke on "Flood Control and Water Storage" on Rogue river in our district. There were about 150 persons present, coming from Prospect, Trail, Sams Valley and Eagle Point as well as local. At the coffee hour which followed in the cafeteria more questions were asked, such as, could this storage water be used for city water or for industrial purposes. The answer was "yes" — and then they gave the details. The speakers thanked the committee in charge for their work in getting an audience for them. The Shady Cove Grange hopes to have the speakers back again when they have more to report to the people of this area. Mrs. Della A. Littlefield, Publicity Chairman

Bellview Grange

Bellview Grange 759 celebrated the burning of the mortgage and the wind-up of their financial problems in relation to their recent building program. One hundred fifty six members, friends, and visiting Grange members met at the Bellview Grange hall Sunday, April 25, for a program, during which the mortgage papers were officially burned. Grange Lecturer Frances Worth, was the mistress of ceremony and presented an interesting program consisting of the history and highlights of Grange activity since its origin in 1930. Edwin Dunn, who is one of the charter members, told of many amusing interesting facts and happenings which had transpired over the years in relation to Grange and community affairs. Of the original 41 charter members the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Archie Kincaid, Louis Pank, Bertha Baughmann and Bertha Wallace. Grange Master Frank Malin, assisted by Dunn and Ralph Mickle, who were co-signers of the note, officially burned the note. Members were sorry that Henry Enders, who was also a cosigner of the note, was not able to be present. Malin introduced the honored guest, Ralph Mickle, who had carried the actual load of responsibility in the building program.

An appropriate vocal number, "Bless This House," was given by Lois Windsor, soloist accompanied by Miss Margaret Ramsey at the piano. One of the visiting Granges, Roxy Ann of Medford, presented an amusing skit. Bellview Grange was honored to have all but one of the Jackson County Pomona Grange officers present, also State Steward, Roscoe Roberts. At the close of the program, ladies of the Bellview Grange served cookies, punch and coffee.

All members of Bellview Grange wish to take this opportunity to thank all who participated in the raising of funds to help pay off this indebtedness. Frank L. Malin, Master

Awards Presented At FFA Banquet in Eagle Point School

Eagle Point—The third annual Parents and Son banquet was held by the Eagle Point chapter of Future Farmers of America Wednesday in the Eagle Point Elementary school gymnasium. There were 218 parents, teachers and friends present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Jim Bunker and invocation was led by Howard Wilde. Dinner was served by students from Mrs. Stewart Hopper's home economics classes. Dinner was prepared by the cooks in the cafeteria of the grade school. Adin Hester, state president for 1957-58, of Canby, Ore., was speaker. Awards Presented Two awards were presented to the FFA Greenhand by Safeway stores. Awards and checks were presented Steve Carroll, first, and John Cox, second. They were presented by Hester for Safeway stores. The FFA Service award was presented Warren Pestka, by Advisor Nat Etzel. Honorary degrees were presented by chapter officers, Jim Bunker, president; Howard Wilde, vice president; Bill Hubbard, secretary; Art Gardner, treasurer; Carl Weisbrod, reporter, and Bill Bradshaw, sentinel. Lester Bradshaw, Dan Morton and Nat Etzel were escorted to the president's station by Bill Bradshaw and were given honorary pins and plaques. Honorary members for 1956 were Glenn D. Hale and Earle Jossy and for 1957 were Bill Bigham and John Ousterhout. The presentation of establishment in farming award was presented by Bennie Hefley, president, on behalf of the Eagle Point Jaycees. Roger Surgeon, for farm mechanics; Bill Hubbard, for farm and home electrification; Art Gardner, for soil and water management; Jack Esp, for farm safety, each received plaques. Bill Gilman, was presented the rotating award and individual trophy for the dairy farmer award, by Bob Bitterling, director of the Milk Producers League. Howard Wilde, was presented the rotating award for public speaking by Cliff Moore, master of the Eagle Point Grange. Jim Bunker was presented the rotating award and individual trophy, for the chapter star farmer, by Don Geren, president of the Eagle Point Lions club.

Vote for James M. MAIN

for CIRCUIT JUDGE

JAMES M. MAIN is qualified by his broad background for Position No. 1
EDDIE OLSON Says —

"I am a mechanic by trade and neighbor, friend and fishing partner of 'Jim' Main for many years. He is a man whom I respect, trust and like. I feel that this, plus his past judicial experience, qualifies him as judge for circuit court position No. 1."

Zoo Hopeful of Emu Hatching

Memphis — The Memphis Zoo is hoping for its first hatching of an emu, a beautiful flightless relative of the ostrich. Zoo Director Raymond Gray said the eggs are usually laid at night, to be found by attendants the next morning by which time they are chilled or frozen. Last year, two eggs failed to hatch, one being too soft and the other too hard.

"I was making my usual tour of the zoo before going home when the emu caught my attention," Gray said. "The bird was standing rather stiffly upright, mouth open, and seemed to be concentrating. As I watched, she laid this beautiful egg."

Gray said the egg is about five inches long. "It's greener than grass, not a pastel, but almost a moss green. It is a perfect egg, not too hard, and not too soft. It is unlike a chicken egg in that it is elliptical, not bigger at one end than the other."

The egg is being carefully turned in a warm storage room at the zoo and will soon be put into an incubator. "If we hit the humidity right, it is quite possible the egg will hatch," Gray said.

Gray said the incubator is a must. The zoo's peafowl, which are allowed to run loose, have a habit of laying eggs along the edges of sidewalks. Zoo attendants keep a sharp watch when making their rounds and any eggs found are turned over to the incubation department.

"Occasionally, we miss one," he said, "and sometimes the mother peafowl manages to hatch the egg herself. We always take the young ones and put them in a wire cage. Even if it is fully feathered, a baby peafowl left to roam around on the ground will get wet and die."
