A foot in the door... with vitamins

If a peddler rings your bell and tries to sell you some vitamins, here's something you should bear in mind. He's a trained salesman. He'll sound convincing. But chances are he's not a physician or a pharmacist. He's no judge of your health, and there's no way he can know what sort of vitamins or nutritional supplements you need—if you need any at all. So, it's just common sense to get professional medical advice before you spend your money.
