McLoughlin Jr. High

McLoughlin Junior High... The ninth grade play-day was held on May 12. Ninth grade girls from Hedrick came to McLoughlin to join in the sports. The girls drew numbers to assign them to the various games. Baseball, badminton, tennis, track games, shuffle-board and ping-pong were played. After an afternoon of activity, the girls gathered in the cafeteria for a potluck supper.

The annual Daughters of the American Revolution test was given May 13 to outstanding students in the seventh grade American history classes. The student making the highest score will have his name engraved on the DAR plaque.

The ninth grade girls' tennis team defeated the Hedrick girls May 14. Singles winners for McLoughlin were Nancy Hinman, Mary Kay Harris, Karen Simcox and Linda Hess. Doubles matches were won by teams of Mary Kay Harris and Karen Simcox, and Nancy Hinman and Linda Hess. Score was 6-0 for Mac.

The eighth grade boys' single tennis tourney has been completed. Bob Darby defeated Wallace Huffman for the championship.

The Mac netters met the reserves from the Eagle Point High May 14, and suffered the first defeat of the season. Due to the illness of John McKinley and Wayne Weaver, Hedrick loaned us Craig Miller and Fred Loris, so that we would have enough players to hold the match. Winning in the singles for Mac were Bill Hobbs and Craig Miller. Both doubles matches were won by Eagle Point. Final score showed EPHS reserves with 5 points, and McLoughlin Junior High with 2 points.

The object of their concentration was the annual math achievement test. Mrs. Ernest James, math instructor, issued the test during each regular class session.

Students were graded on the number of problems they worked correctly. Their semester grade will depend largely on these tests.

Students of the fifth period American Problems class are completing their career reports. This is a timely report, for, as seniors, they will be considering some avenue of occupation after graduation from high school.

An extensive research was made on a particular occupational field. The project included personal interviews, a written paper and an oral report.

The occupational report was one of the several projects competed by the seniors to fulfill qualifications for the course.

The Senior picnic, the event which has been looked forward to for 12 years, finally came last Friday. Forty-nine seniors, equipped with boats, water skis, surfboards, bathing suits, and loads and loads of food, eagerly made their way to Gardner Lake.

The party returned about 9 p. m., wornout from the day's fun.

Supervisors making the trip were Mrs. Donna James, John Marler, and Mr. and Mrs. Skipworth.

The annual style show featured by the home economics department was presented on Thursday, May 8. As a prelude, a mock style show was presented by Sue Walker, Pat Imhausen, Lola Good, Nedra Harris, Sandra Skinner, and Dana Halass.

The theme of this year's style show was "Around the Clock." Styles appropriate to the hours of the day were introduced. Guests were seated at small tables placed about the gym floor.

Mrs. Evelyn Polas directed the show; Alice Hendrickson was the narrator, and Joyce Hunter was the accompanist.

Hedrick Junior High

Edited by Jim Frake. Staff: Kathy Allen and Ken Wise

Diane Lewis of HJH won the city wide Women's Christian Temperance Union public speaking contest May 12. Competition was with MHS and McLoughlin Junior High. The type of speeches given were readings which were memorized. Contestants were MHS, Jim Lacy and Dean Goddard; McLoughlin, Rahala Patch; HJH, Diane Lewis, Jerry Gastineau, and Stan Dowson.

Thursday, May 15, was the scene of two important events awaited by the ninth grade at Hedrick Junior High. The first was the Frosh assembly directed and produced by Carolyn Finch and Jim Frake. "The Frosh Blackouts of 1958" was the theme with more than 13 acts based on quick black out setups.

Following the assembly Cassie Thompson and Mike Monroe presented the awards (signs) to the lucky ninth graders, having the prettiest eyes, legs, hair, etc. Following this Mike Monroe spoke to the assembly, giving a summary of this year's events for the ninth grade. As ninth grade president, he presented his thanks and farewells to HJH. To end the show, the freshmen sang the HJH alma-mater and marched out singing the HJH fight song.

The second scene was seen in the pools of Twin Plunges in Ashland. The ninth grade assembly kicked off the departure for Ashland about 1:30 p. m. Thursday. Eighty degree weather, bermuda shorts, and lots of fun were combined to produce an afternoon and evening of fun and excitement. After swimming, hot dogs and all the trimmings were the talk of the pool. Lunch was prepared and planned by Carol Olson, chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Sneed, advisor, and the home economics classes at HJH. Relays, baseball, tennis and lots of fun were featured throughout the afternoon and evening.

The HJH band, under direction of Ron Bartlett, was among the many to be able to watch the proceedings at the "Band Clinic" held at MHS with G. C. Baimon conducting the MHS band on May 14. The band played more than 20 different selections. Baimon, a leader and composer well known throughout the United States, conducted the band in his manner and style in order to illustrate different types of musical reading and styles used by the larger bands. Many band teachers also, along with the MHS band, directed by Irving Mirick, were the guinea pigs for the clinic.

May 7, was the date for the seventh grade play day. Seventh grade girls from Howard, Lone Pine and Central Point schools were entertained by the Hedrick seventh grade girls. Games such as volleyball, soft ball and field events were played. After-

Head Lice Problem Said Uncontrolled

Portland — City and county health officials said Friday a local infestation of head lice was out of control. Dr. F. Sydney Hansen, county health officer, said it appeared that even DDT was not entirely effective against the parasites. Dr. Phyllis Davis, city director of school hygiene, said the louse seemed to be a different type than any with which her department was familiar.

Dr. Hansen appealed to the State Health Department for help and said his office was so swamped with "people coming and asking if they have lice—and most of them do—that we can't get any other work done."

Also the eighth and ninth grade girls attended McLoughlin Junior High May 12 and 14, for their annual play day. Refreshments were also served in the girls' gym.
