

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CUSTOMER had been waiting forty minutes at a restaurant without being able to attract the attention of a waiter. Finally he grabbed one by the coat tails and demanded, "How about something to eat here?" The waiter yanked himself loose and sneered, "Who's got time to sit down?"

That fellow they found with two black eyes and a big lump on his head was the "humorist" who walked into an antique shop seven mornings in a row and called out cheerfully, "What's new?"

They tell of a hunter named Shephard Who was eaten for lunch by a lephard. Said the lephard, "Egad, You'd be tastier, lad, If you had been salted and pephard."

In the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

The state of Oregon held a primary election Friday. It turned out to be a very quiet affair. If there was anything out of the ordinary about it, it was the fact that NOTHING OUT OF THE ORDINARY HAPPENED.

In this presumably cock-eyed world, that is rather interesting. FOR the governorship of Oregon, two glamorous young men — Democratic Nominee Robert Holmes and Republican Nominee Mark Hatfield — will oppose each other at the general election next fall. Both were clearly the choice of their party. Both won their nominations decisively.

In the campaign that lies ahead, let's hope they put less stress on glamor and more stress on the economic facts of life. One can't help wondering at times if in our politics we don't tend to put TOO MUCH stress on glamor and TOO LITTLE stress on hard facts. This isn't a DREAM world, you know. It's a world in which realities play a big part. I think we need to remember that. Too much dreaming and too little hard-headed business administration are responsible for a lot of the things that bother us in this modern age.

SO— Let's hope these two personable young men formulate platforms and policies — not just programs designed as slypaper to catch votes, but serious statements of their beliefs and their intentions. I can't help thinking we need to get back nearer to the original two-party system concept of a CONTEST BETWEEN PRINCIPLES. One trouble with our politics is that it has been trending too much toward PERSONAL contests.

That leads us in the direction of a GOVERNMENT OF MEN, rather than a government of laws. As one looks around the world in these days, it is hard to escape the conclusion that a government of men is a dangerous thing. We need PRINCIPLES to see our stakes by.

SPEAKING of principles, it seems to me this is one of our big problems: HOW MUCH CAN WE AFFORD TO SPEND FOR GOVERNMENT?

We can have relatively inexpensive government or we can have very expensive government. What we have depends largely on what our political people think we want and will VOTE FOR. If they think we want big government and big spending, they will give us big government and big spending. That much is certain. It is proved by past experience.

THAT poses the big question: What DO we want? In trying to answer it for yourself, keep this fact in mind:

What government spends, it takes out of the pockets of the taxpayers. That is to say, when government takes a dollar out of your pocket you no longer have that dollar to spend for yourself.

HMMMM. Reading back over this stuff, it sounds pretty heavy. Let's close on a lighter note. The teletype tells us that city and county health officials in Portland report that a local infestation of head lice is out of control. Dr. F. Sydney Hansen, county health officer, says it appears that even DDT is not entirely effective against the parasites. He says his office is so swamped with "people coming and asking if they have lice—and most of them do — that we can't get any other work done."

EVEN head lice, you see, has become a public problem in these modern days, to be handled with public money.

In the older days of our nation it was a PRIVATE problem — and it was solved with the aid of a fine-tooth comb.
