Chrome Purchases Ordered Stopped At Depot in GP

Grants Pass—General Service administration in San Francisco Monday notified the Grants Pass purchasing depot to make no more commitments for chrome purchases and to refuse any uncommitted offerings, according to Depot Manager Dan Beyer.

As of last week, a backlog of about 9,000 long tons remained unfilled under the support program, he said, but heavy receipts at the San Francisco depot swallowed up the entire quota.

Beyer said he would continue to receive some 400 tons on which he had previously given commitment to purchase to local producers. However, he said, the sudden closure will mean that some local producers will be caught with ore they cannot dispose of.

Meanwhile, the California-Oregon Chrome Producers organization has made plans to voice their approval of establishing a ferro-chrome plant in southern Oregon.

More than 50 persons attended a meeting of the group in Cave Junction recently at which President Bruce Amley, Medford, called for letters from chrome mining representatives favoring such a plant. The group is attempting to keep chrome on the government market.

Manley noted six points which a cooperative processing plant will achieve. They include creating a new industry in southern Oregon, giving the chrome miners an opportunity to continue operating, bolster a faltering economy, enable our miners to meet foreign competition and still pay American wages, and conserve the minerals and stop high-grading the mines. Such a program also will keep the foreign operator on some kind of reasonable price list since processing plants are moving into foreign countries.

Endorsed

The program has been endorsed by Oregon senators and representatives in Washington, providing the persons involved express an interest in such a cooperative effort themselves.

Plans for financing a ferro-chrome plant still are in the planning stage, Manley noted. It could be done from private funds, or on a cooperative share basis, by contracts for specified shipments of ferro-chrome on which banks will loan money, or it could be handled as the government has subsidized uranium plants and the nickel plant in Riddle, Manley said.

Problems of U.S. Marshal in Alaska Reviewed at Conference

Not snow, nor ice floes, nor slides, nor thaws stop the "last frontier" law enforcement officers of the Territory of Alaska, where the last of the United States marshals, the Matt Dillons of the North, hold forth.

Chief Deputy U. S. Marshal James H. Chenoweth of the territory's third judicial division, here from Anchorage to attend the Western States crime conference, told of the rigors of weather, isolation and great distances that are all part of the day's work of the territory's strong arms of the law, particularly the forces of the municipal agencies, the department of territorial police and the office of the United States marshal.

Travel and large expenditures of the carefully-watched law enforcement budgets, the marshal explained.

In one case he mentioned, apprehending a half-breed Indian who had shot and killed his cousin in a brawl necessitated traveling 7,000 miles by plane, 450 miles in a small boat and 150 miles on foot. Bringing the murderer to justice was a $2,000 effort, and when the criminal was tracked down, his first reaction was relief that he was found by the police, and not his native brother.

Indians Not Ready For Trusteeship To End, They Say

Warm Springs — Termination of federal trusteeship over the confederated tribes of the Warm Springs Indian reservation is out of the question for many years.

That opinion was emphasized by tribal leaders and the tribe's attorney, Owen Panter of Bend, at a meeting of the Interim Committee on Indian Affairs at the agency this week. Panter and tribal spokesmen presented a united front in opposition to the federal termination policy set forth in a congressional resolution enacted five years ago.

Former Yale Grid Star Held By Japanese Police

Tokyo — Japanese police today arrested American businessman Joseph Crowley, a former Yale football star, on suspicion he fatally injured his brother-in-law, Connecticut socialite T. A. D. Jones.

Jones, 45, son of the late Yale coach Tad Jones, was found dead in his Imperial hotel room May 8 with a cut lip, a blackened eye and other body bruises. An autopsy disclosed he died of a cerebral hemorrhage caused by an "outside force."

Crowley's American-born Japanese attorney, Arthur K. Mori, said the arrest was a "last ditch" attempt by Japanese authorities to question Crowley. He said he doubted there was enough grounds for an indictment.

An estimated 300 persons have joined the membership of the Southern Oregon Child Guidance Clinic association during the first seven weeks of the two-month membership drive.

True Knowledge of God's Love Is Way to Peace

True knowledge of God's love for man is the unfailing way to find lasting home, peace, and security, John D. Pickett of Chicago, said Monday evening in a Christian Science lecture here.

Mrs. Melvin Hall, chairman of the drive, said it is hoped that more than 500 join before the drive ends May 31. A total of 1,500 letters explaining the purposes of the clinic and seeking memberships have been sent throughout the valley.

He said that the understanding of God's love for man is available today. It has proven that divine love can heal problems of marriage, business and world affairs, as well as those of sickness and sin, the speaker reported.

Mrs. Melvin Hall, chairman of the drive, said it is hoped that more than 500 join before the drive ends May 31. A total of 1,500 letters explaining the purposes of the clinic and seeking memberships have been sent throughout the valley.

The speaker explained the meaning of prayer as it is understood by Christian Scientists, emphasizing that prayer is the only means of healing taught in Christian Science.

The $1 membership fee entitles members to receive a quarterly newsletter and other reports, but "also represents your interest in providing a resource to children and parents facing problems," those in charge said.

"The speaker's subject was 'Christian Science: Certain and Complete Healing Available for All.'"

After five years operation, the clinic has served hundreds of children and parents. The $1 fees may be sent to the clinic offices, 307 Leverette building, or to Mrs. Grace Cowning, Mrs. David Legg, Mrs. Leland Mentzer or Mrs. Allyn Monroe, Medford; Mrs. Harvey Woods, Ashland; Dr. Loren Messenger, Talent; Mrs. L. C. Taylor, Phoenix; Mrs. Wilton White, Central Point; Mrs. Clarence Davies, Eagle Point; Mrs. Lewis Dusenberry, Shady Cove; Mrs. Albert Bamforth, Rogue River; Mrs. Stanley Brown, Gold Hill; and Mrs. Ed Ramsay, Applegate.

Lottery sales now total $1,400,000 annually in Tunisia.

and new construction completed or now in progress at churches throughout the district.

The report showed a 136 membership increase during the year for a total membership in Oregon of 5,639 with a Sunday school average attendance of 7,709, an increase of 145.

Fourteen churches made the evangelistic honor roll of the department of evangelism of the church, it was reported. Included is Mt. Pitt Avenue Church of the Nazarene, Medford.

Nearly 500 persons have registered for the district society and assembly meetings.

Dr. McGraw, superintendent of the Oregon Pacific district, presided at the meetings today and through Friday. In his annual report of the church's progress during the last year he noted that two new churches, Seaside and Brookings, were organized and mentioned the remodeling
