Christians and Jews To Celebrate Major Holidays

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Correspondent
Christians and Jews throughout the world will celebrate major religious holidays this week-end.

The Christian holiday, which falls on Sunday, is called Pentecost or Whitsunday. The Jewish holiday, which begins at sunset Saturday, is called Shavuot.

Although Pentecost has held an honored place on the Christian calendar for several centuries longer than Christmas, and Shavuot was an ancient festival before the first Chanukah, both of the older holidays have fallen into neglect in modern times.

Today there are many Christians who do not know what Pentecost is all about, and many Jews who have only a vague idea of the meaning of Shavuot.

Actually, Shavuot has religious significance for Christians as well as Jews. It commemorates the giving of the Ten Commandments.

Date Fixed
According to Jewish tradition, Moses received the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai seven weeks after the children of Israel began their exodus from captivity in Egypt. Hence the date of Shavuot always falls exactly seven weeks after Passover.

Tradition says that the first Pentecost found the leaders of the little Christian community—the 11 apostles—gathered in an upper room in Jerusalem. The second chapter of Acts is not that specific; it simply says they were all with one accord in one place.

"And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

"And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues . . ."

Many modern Biblical scholars believe that this vivid account was intended to be symbolic. They say the apostles underwent a spiritual experience so moving that they afterwards used the most graphic metaphors to describe it. Fundamentalists take the passage as a literal description of what happened in the upper room.

Executive Saves Child in Airliner

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—An Atlanta executive who snatched a 3-year-old boy from the open door of an airliner over North Carolina said Saturday he was "okay until I thought about it afterward."

C. Marron Clark, in Richmond on business, said he was sitting across from the door and "kind of watching" little Bucky McNair run up and down the aisle of the DC-4.

"Just like a flash," Clark said, "he made a sharp turn, reached up and grabbed the door handle. He put his weight on it and the door opened. That's when I grabbed him."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Conrad Buchanan McNair of Mason, Ga., was seated forward in the cabin attending her 3-month-old son. She did not know about the close call until a few minutes after it happened.

Clark said the door opened about a foot, "but it was enough for him to go down. He was right on the edge."
