Orange Sunshine Dessert
Orange desserts are delicious. This one is light and fluffy as a snowflake; tastes better. It combines orange juice, marshmallows, whipped cream, vanilla wafer for eight servings.

1 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
14 marshmallows, cut in half
3 tablespoons sugar
1 cup cream, whipped
2 1/2 dozen vanilla wafers
1 orange, peeled and sectioned

Combine orange juice and peel; heat to boiling. Add cut-up marshmallows and stir until dissolved. Cool. Add sugar to whipped cream and fold into orange mixture. Chill. Line a 5x9 inch or approximate size pan with waxed paper allowing the ends of paper to extend over the edge. Line bottom and sides of pan with vanilla wafers (not crumbled). Pour in filling and chill. To unmold, lift out waxed paper and remove. Garnish with orange sections.

Avocado Shimmers
Avocado slices shimmer in this lemon gelatin two-tone mold for a party salad of distinction. Dissolve 1 package lemon flavored gelatin in 1 cup hot water; add 1 cup cold water. Cool until syrupy; then divide gelatin in half. Pare and halve an avocado. Remove seed and cut avocado half in cubes. Later, slice the cubed avocado, 1/2 cup sliced celery, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Fold 1 cup chive cottage cheese into the second half of the gelatin and spoon on top of first gelatin mixture. Chill until set. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves garnished with avocado slices dipped in lemon juice. Olives on the side.

Next time you cook some of those large dry lima beans, try seasoning them with orange marmalade, maple syrup or crushed pineapple.

World Trade Week being celebrated in our west coast ports throws a big splendid spotlight on the importance of world trade in our everyday eating habits as well as on the vast tonnage that moves in and out of our coastal waters.

Just for a bit of family fun, take a look at your own kitchen shelves and see how many imports you reach for when you're making a meal.

Coffee is far away the number one food (so its a beverage) import; most of it coming from Brazil, Colombia and Central America for roasting, blending, packaging in paper, tin and glass for distribution throughout the west. Tea comes in from Ceylon, Indonesia, India.

Other imports include coconut from the Philippines; cocoa beans (chocolate) from Africa, Brazil, South America, British West Indies, Central America; sugar from Cuba, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Philippines; cheese from France, Italy, Switzerland, Denmark, Argentina; nuts from Brazil, India, Greece and Spain; bananas from Central America, Jamaica, Cuba; spices from Ceylon, India, Zanzibar, Malaya, Indonesia; pepper from Indonesia, Africa, India; vanilla from Madagascar, Mexico, Haiti; pineapple from Hawaii and the Philippines; green olives from Spain . . . and many, many others.

Food exports from California ports go fresh, canned and frozen citrus fruits, dried fruits, fresh grapes, raisins, sardines, mackerel, chick peas, evaporated milk, canned shellfish, tuna in cases by the million, refined vegetable oils . . . and many more.

From Pacific Northwest go vast wheat tonnage, apples, pears, walnuts, filberts, canned salmon.

Best meat buys. Home-grown and distributed meats featured in local markets include frying chickens and large tom turkeys. All lamb cuts are reasonable; merit your trying new ways with lamb. How about a lamb pot roast? All roasting cuts may be pot roasted but the shoulder is most popular for this purpose. Pork shoulders both smoked and fresh are special. Beef for braising, stewing, tenderizing is reasonable in cost; fancy cuts down a little.

Vegetable Buys. Name it and you probably can find it but the best buys are asparagus, cabbage, carrots, small artichokes, long white potatoes, small heads of lettuce, cauliflower, rhubarb, spinach, radishes, green onions.

Fruit buys are bananas, avocados, grapefruit, lemons, strawberries, fresh pineapples.

Pro-West Party Wins in Japan

Tokyo — Japanese voters returned the pro-Western government of Premier Nobusuke Kishi to power with a majority almost as huge as he held before, election returns showed Friday.

With votes counted for all but 8 of the 467 seats in the House of Representatives, Kishi's Liberal Democratic party won 262, the Socialists 163, the Independents 12 and the Communists and a minority party one each.

The election was held Thursday. The diet, composed of the House of Representatives and the House of Councillors, will elect a premier, almost certain to be Kishi. He was expected to form a new cabinet that would stick to an anti-Communist, pro-Western policy.

Eisenhower Favors Alaska Proposal

Washington — President Eisenhower threw his support to the Alaskan statehood bill Friday but House foes of the measure continued to obstruct debate with quorum calls.

Rep. John P. Saylor (R-Pa.), a leading supporter of the bill, told the House he was authorized to announce that the President favored passage of the bill in its present form.

The House resumed debate on Alaska statehood today with supporters claiming the opposition was about to capitulate.

Rep. Wayne Aspinall (D-Colo.) said "The opponents know that filibustering techniques don't work in the House of Representatives. Now we can get on with an orderly debate and proceed to an early vote on the merits of the bill."

"IT IS ILL JESTING WITH THE JOINER'S TOOLS, WORSE WITH THE DOCTOR'S"

— ("Author's Name Below") —

In this "Do It Yourself Age" we now have many amateur plumbers and carpenters. Should they fail to accomplish their task, not too much harm is done, — just some spoiled materials and wasted time.

Attempting to be an amateur doctor can often cause serious harm. The wrong treatment at the beginning of sickness can give an ailment the opportunity to gain a firm foothold, making a disease difficult to cure. Be safe. Don't jest with sickness. Consult your physician quickly.

Thornton Invites Smith to Debate

Salem — Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton Friday challenged former Gov. Elmo Smith, Albany, to a public debate on Thornton's investigation of the Oregon Liquor Control commission in 1955.

In Albany, Smith said he had not seen Thornton's letter of challenge and was "not interested" in debating him on the matter.

Thornton said Smith was quoted in a Portland newspaper, the Oregon Journal to the effect that his investigation was "a witch-hunting expedition for political purposes."

Efforts said "Aborted" In reply, Thornton said: "My efforts to secure a public disclosure were aborted by the state administration, some law enforcement officials who have since resigned or who have been removed from office, as well as certain others. These conditions have since been corrected by Gov. Robert D. Holmes and the new administration."

Thornton, a Democratic candidate for congress, said that at the time of the investigation officials and employees of the commission "had been accepting presents and hospitality from liquor interests, including clocks, silverware, whiskey by the case, portable radio sets etc."

The attorney general said there was a "public demand" for the investigation.

Smith replied to Thornton's challenge, "the investigation of the Liquor Commission and the grotesque fiasco of the prosecution of the Portland vice investigation is a matter of public record."

"It seems to me," Smith continued, "that of the scores of indictments the net take for the taxpayers has been conviction of one prostitute and a district attorney on a misdemeanor. I suggest that the public refer to this record."

The former governor also scored Thornton for releasing his challenge to newspapers before Smith had seen it, calling it an "unethical practice."

Registration officers will be closed Friday, May 30, for Memorial Day. The offices also are closed on Saturday.

Adult staff members at Camp McLoughlin, Boy Scout camp at Lake of the Woods, are graduates of the week-long National Camping school of the Boy Scouts of America.

Burma is one of the world's chief sources of rubies.

Program features of a modern-day Boy Scout camp now include marksmanship, fishing, archery, and orienteering—all under the leadership of a trained staff.

Salem — Oregon's county school superintendents will gather here next Monday and Tuesday for their annual spring conference.

Camping and Cooking merit badges are required for the Boy Scout who earns the Eagle Scout rank, the highest advancement award in Scouting.
