Red Cross Indoctrination Course Set for Tuesday

Indoctrination day for new Red Cross volunteers will be held Tuesday, May 27, at the Red Cross chapter house, 60 Hawthorne avenue.

The meetings will start at 10 a.m. Tuesday with Manville Heisel, chairman of the chapter, welcoming the group. To date 26 persons have volunteered to assist with the Red Cross program in the county. This is the largest class to join in the past four years.

During the day, chairmen of the various committees within the county chapter will describe the services done by each. Some of the work will be shown in films while others will speak on their committee.

Included on the program will be Mrs. Joseph Burba, blood program; Mrs. R. G. Bardwell, Gray Ladies to Camp White; Mrs. O. A. Eden, disaster; Leroy Williams, first aid; Mrs. John S. Day, junior Red Cross; Mrs. Harry P. Poston, Gray Ladies to community; Mrs. Grace Fiero, canteen; and Mrs. Lester Adams, public information.

Luncheon will be served at noon by the Red Cross canteen committee. During the afternoon session Mrs. I. R. Florey, will speak on nursing services; Dr. William Roberts, water safety; Mrs. Maurice Spatz, staff aids; Mrs. Frank Fairweather, home services; and Mrs. Fred Rehling, motor service.

Mrs. E. A. Littrell, chairman of volunteer services, will preside at the day's activities. Also attending will be Mrs. Martin Luther, chairman of recruitment; Mrs. Frances Flynn, representative to veterans hospital, and the Rev. John Thompson, Ashland Trinity Episcopal church.

Approximately 350 volunteers are active in the Red Cross in Jackson county. Volunteers are still needed. Interested persons may contact the Red Cross office or attend the Tuesday meeting. The meeting will close at 3:30 p.m.

Charm Course Announced by Medford School

Mrs. Frank B. Hopewell and Mrs. C. H. Buffington will teach a course in charm and modeling to be established by Robertson School of Business this month. The school will become affiliated with a national-wide chain.

The two women have just returned from San Francisco, where they completed a concentrated teachers' course at Coronet of California school. Both have been professional models. Mrs. Hopewell with Powers of New York City, and Mrs. Buffington in Washington, D.C., and Portland. Mrs. Hopewell attended Blue Ridge college, and in addition, attended a drama school two years, had three years of voice training, and studied dancing two years. She was a model two years.

Mrs. Buffington studied two years at Stephens college. She taught charm and modeling at the Patricia Lee school in Portland.

The Medford school will not have as its principal goal the training of professional models, according to Mrs. Leslie Robertson of the Robertson School of Business. Although the school will offer modeling as part of the course, its real aim will be to train women to be "model career girls, model wives and model women," she said.

A number of business educators are adding charm schools to their curricula. Mrs. Robertson said, and she has recently attended conferences concerned with this phase of career preparation.
