Fire-Weather Forecasting One Of Recent State Developments

One of the most important points in developing forest fire protection in the future will be the success of the fire-weather forecasts, according to Edward Schroeder, deputy state forester.

Schroeder discussed the fire-weather service, one of the state's most recent programs in forest fire protection, at meeting of the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association Friday night at the Rogue Valley Country club.

The program concerns the relation of fire behavior combined with forecasting, he said. Basically, it is how fire will act under certain weather conditions. Using the Klamath basin as an experimental area, the accuracy of forecasting lightning fires was raised to 93 per cent last year, he noted.

Cooperation
The state department of forestry cooperates with the U. S. weather bureau in the service.

In connection with the program, he said, the state also is working with the weather bureau in tracking storms by radar, and the effective dispersal of storms by use of dry ice. The latter program, he pointed out, is expensive, and research is in its early stages.

Schroeder also discussed the use of trained overhead teams, tank trucks, dropping chemicals on fires, and helicopters in fire protection.

Overhead Crews
Trained overhead crews, he noted, can bring a large fire under control quickly. He complemented the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association, and governmental agencies in cooperating with the annual fire fore-

Medford Students Get Scholarships

Corvallis—Sandra Kay Buxton and Stephen Edward Hoag of Medford High school are among 125 Oregon high school seniors selected to receive scholarships at Oregon State college for 1958-59 under sponsorship of the state system of higher education. The scholarships are worth $138 toward tuition next fall.

State scholarships are awarded each year to a limited number of promising seniors from various high schools of the state and to outstanding students already enrolled in college.

The scholarship quota for each institution of the state system is 2 per cent of its total enrollment the previous year. Because OSC had an all-time record enrollment this year, the number of scholarships it is offering for 1958-59 is the largest in history.

Miss Buxton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Buxton, 2478 Sunny View. She plans to enroll in chemistry.

Hoag is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hoag, Trail. He plans to enroll in science.

News About Books From the Library

By the time you read this column, we hope, two new double-faced bookstacks will have been set up in the Medford Public Library, Jackson County library headquarters.

The metal stacks, silver green in color to match the pair of free-standing stacks already in use, will provide shelving space for the entire fine arts collection, better supporting shelving, too, for heavy, oversized art and music books. Their total capacity is from 1,200 to 1,400 volumes.

By permitting the removal of the fine arts books from the wall shelving where they formerly have been housed, the new stacks also will relieve the seriously overcrowded science and technology sections and permit expansion of subject collections in these fields.

Difficult to Estimate
It is difficult to estimate the cost of shelving each volume in the collection of a public library, or the cost of the daily handling and shelf-reading necessary to keep the books in proper order so that any volume can be found when it is required.

This, of course, is in addition to the cost of approximately $1.25 beyond its purchase price for classifying, cataloging and mechanical processing of each book. All of these items must be considered in the decision either to purchase and add a volume or to retain one already in the collection which seems to have outlasted its usefulness.

Among the 111 new volumes added during the past two weeks, including 60 new adult and 30 new junior titles, considered well worth their place on the shelves, were the following:

The West: Forty Years on the Frontier, Stuart; The Banck of Idaho, Madsen; Graphic Description of Pacific Coast Outlaws, Shinn.

Biography: Land Without Justice, Dijas; Best Foot Forward, Hodgkinson; Beyond My Worth, Roth; Saint Bernadette Soubirous, Trochu.

Law: Law of Credit, Greene; Law for the Family Man, Jessup; Law of Support, Kuchler.

Hobbies: Know Your Heirlooms, Ormsbee; Jewelry

Swimming Classes Scheduled at Y Starting June 9

Beginning and intermediate swimming instruction for children in the 6-7 age group will start Monday, June 9, at the Medford YMCA, 522 West Sixth st. Registration may be made in person at the YMCA Monday through Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Two 10-lesson courses are scheduled for the first series, with mixed classes to meet daily for 45-minute periods, at 9 and 9:45 a.m. Each class will be limited to 20 children, and registration will be on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Assigned to Classes
Both instructors, Bob Jones and Wilson Gilinsky, will be assigned to each class, in addition to a volunteer leader. Children are under constant surveillance while taking part in the program, and strictest safety standards are observed, according to Jones, YMCA executive secretary.

Classes will be held in a heated indoor pool, with water temperature at 80 degrees. Swimming water is tested daily by county health authorities and has consistently met drinking water standards, Jones said.

Parents may observe, but are not required to be present while children are learning to swim.

For the benefit of 6 and 7-year-olds who know how to swim, there will be a special advanced class in swimming and diving. Registration for this class may also be made in person.

A LETTER OF THANKS FROM YOUR Y.M.C.A.—

The YMCA membership and board wishes to take this opportunity to extend to its friends, and particularly the merchants of Medford, sincere thanks for the assistance on the eighth annual YMCA Auction held last Saturday in the 'Y' gym.

The proceeds were gratifying and the willingness by many to assist in this program for youth of the valley will be remembered with great enjoyment during the summer months.

The United Medford Crusade and this Auction make it possible to keep youth activity fees at less than 1/2 of their actual cost to those who participate in the Y.M.C.A.
