Newcombe Gets Fine

Chicago—(UPI)—Los Angeles Vice-president Buzzy Bavasi slapped a $300 fine on burly right hander Don Newcombe Saturday for breaking the club's curfew.

The fine was the severest ever meted out against the lanky fast ball pitcher, who in 1955 was fined a day's pay for refusing to pitch at batting practice.

"I can't understand Don," Manager Smokey Alton said. "The club is going bad and he stays out all night."

Alton said he and Bavasi met with Newcombe in their Chicago hotel room at 10:30 a.m. to discuss "Newcombe's problems," then told him he was fined $300 for his Friday night escapade.

Newcombe, who arrived at the ball park about an hour later, went through a furious workout. When he finished he was a picture of fatigue and perspiration.

"I have nothing to say about anything," Newcombe said in the dugout. "I did wrong and that's all there is to it."

Four Southern states, the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama, account for more than two-thirds of the total value of board woven goods in cotton manufacturing in the United States.

and walked only one on the mound, while at the plate he chipped in with three hits and a sacrifice fly.

Loser Ronnie Kline hardly had time to settle himself before the Braves rapped him for three straight homers on as many successive pitches in the first inning. Hank Aaron walloped his 12th and Wes Covington followed with his seventh.

All told, the Braves collected 18 hits, with Aaron and Johnny Logan getting three hits apiece as well as Spann.

Robin Roberts hung on for his fifth victory of the season as the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-4.

Ken Boyer's 12th inning homer gave the Cardinals a 10-9 victory over the Giants and knocked San Francisco out of the league lead.

Boyer connected for his eighth homer off Stu Miller. The Giants led 8-1 after five innings but starter Ray Montz couldn't hold the margin. Hal Smith's three-run homer off Mike McCormick in the seventh put St. Louis ahead, 9-8, but the Giants came back to tie the score in the eighth when Willie Mays singled home a run.

Ray Jablonski and Orlando Cepeda homered for the Giants. Larry Jackson was credited with the victory.

Race Could Result in Junior Loop

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International
Casey Stengel's moaning but the other managers are laughing because maybe—just maybe—there will be a pennant race in the American league this year after all.

Just a week ago a grim gag was being told in the AL dugouts that "The Yankees might clinch the flag my Memorial Day." But instead that holiday produced a doubleheader loss by the Yankees to, of all people, the Washington Senators, 13-8 and 7-2, to run their losing streak to four games.

The San Francisco Giants, leading the National league, were similarly jolted in 7-6 and 7-1 losses to the St. Louis Cardinals.

But, even though that cut the Giants' lead over the Milwaukee Braves to a single game, it wasn't a shocker like the Yankees' humiliation by the Senators. While the Yankees were rolling up wins, Stengel kept talking about the 1935 Yankee team that won 18 straight games then lost nine straight—now maybe somebody will listen to him.
