Woman Attends Fifth Assembly of Methodists

Mrs. C. R. Adamson, Oregon Conference secretary for Wesleyan Service guilds, recently returned to Medford after attending the fifth assembly of Methodist Women in St. Louis, Mo. More than 10,000 delegates crowded facilities in the great Kiel auditorium and kept many hotel and church meeting rooms busy with conferences and discussion groups, she reports. The purpose for the assembly was "Christ's Message for Today" and noted speakers from all over the world spoke. Fourteen plenary sessions each day supplied panels, and authoritative speakers on the two sections for study: "Our Witness" and "Our Mission." Following the plenary sessions each day, 49 discussion groups worked and presented findings for the formation of statements on the subject. These statements will be published in "The Methodist Women" official magazine of the organization, which is edited by Mrs. C. A. Meeker, formerly of Medford, who was busy throughout the Assembly with a corps of reporters.

Red Cross Enrolls Volunteers

Sixteen new Red Cross volunteers attended the annual orientation class of Jackson County chapter, American Red Cross, held recently at the chapter building on Hawthorne street. Mrs. E. A. Little, chairman of volunteer services for the chapter, presided. Manville Heisel, chapter chairman, welcomed the group and Glenn Klein spoke on "Inter-Agency Activities for Jackson County." Mrs. Harry P. Poston, chairman of Gray Ladies in the community, spoke for that corps and Mrs. John S. Day, chairman of Junior Red Cross and Mrs. Joe Hearin, co-chairman, showed a movie "All Together" describing the activities of Junior Red Cross. Mrs. Helen A. Wilson, executive secretary, spoke for home service, and Mrs. R. G. Bardwell, chairman of Gray Ladies to Camp White, explained the activities of her corps. Mrs. Edna Stoehr, co-chairman for staff aides, described the work of that corps. Mrs. Grace Fiero spoke for the canteen service, of which she is chairman, and the canteen corps served luncheon for the group at noon. The afternoon's program was opened by Mrs. Lester Adams, co-chairman of public information, and LeRoy Williams, first aid chairman, showed a movie.

Showers predicted! You can still be off to the party in a make-it-yourself raincoat. Blooming all over with pastel daisies. Made of Sanforized heavy cotton, the coat was treated for water repellency by a dry cleaner.

Help Yourself To Happiness

This column is one of the best of marriage and family problems which appears weekly in this paper. It presents problems of everyday living and attempts to bring you the most correct opinion in this area. By consulting clinical psychologists, sociologists, and homeopathic practitioners, we hope to assist you in your quest for happiness. Readers are invited to present their problems. All queries will receive individual attention and will be accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope directed to Mrs. Emma Lester, U.S. Department of Education, The American Institute of Family Relations, 1241 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 26, California.

When A Man's Work Affects A Family Move
"Pack everything," cries Lee, "we're moving! I'm promoted to district manager with a boost in salary—we have to live in Boston. You'll love it, Ruth!"
But Ruth is sure she will not love it. In fact, she is sure she won't even like it. She cannot bear the idea of leaving her little house, her neighbors, her relatives, the children at school, the club, the church—and her job down at the library.
"You go," she insists to Lee. "You go alone, and I'll wait here for the children's school year. And I can't leave my work at the library—I owe something to my profession..." Months pass. Lee continues to urge Ruth to join him, at first insistently, then at longer and longer intervals. Finally his letters contain only a check and a note about the weather or his bowling score. Then, one day when Lee demands a divorce, Ruth is thunderstruck. And when he tells her he has found a woman who understands him, she is outraged.
"You break up our marriage," she cries, "while I try to do my part by holding my job here!"
The demands of her husband's job program often present difficulties for the employed wife. But should she pass up a promotion for the sake of Jill's profession? Or should they move and to gether look for a substitute activity for Jill?

Generally speaking, it is easier for a woman to find and adjust to another groove than for a man. His professional standing requires constant attention, consistent striving, and a strong follow-through. He lives in an ever more competitive world, there lives a woman, and to achieve standing he must "and to business," striving to advance with diligence and persistence.
In almost every case except where a sacrifice of something more than good times with old friends and relatives are involved, a woman can best help her husband to succeed by packing the baby's play pen, her pots and pans and her own professional skill, when the husband's boss says, "move!"

Are You Good Married Material?

Getting married is not difficult. Every minute of every day, thousands of people get married. Most of them find they are in love, and most of them really believe that their marriages will succeed. But within a few years—or not a few months—a large proportion of these couples will be in the midst of marriage difficulties that lead to failure and divorce.

Chilean To Speak

Mrs. Neomi Reyes of Chile will speak at the monthly family night dinner of First Presbyterian church set for Wednesday, June 4, at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Reyes came to the United States as a representative of the Presbyterian women of Chile and will attend the national meeting of Presbyterian women's organizations to be held at Purdue university, West Lafayette, Ind., this month. Mrs. Reyes, wife of a Presbyterian pastor, is visiting churches and communities to observe church life in the United States and share the story of the work of the Evangelical church in Chile, it is stated. She has served for two years as president of the Presbyterian Women's association of Chile and is now president of the Evangelical Women's Federation of Chile.

Workshop Planned For Garden Club In Central Point

Central Point—Members of Central Point Garden club will meet Wednesday, June 4, at the home of Mrs. E. H. DeGarmo on Head road. The meeting will begin with a workshop at 9:30 a.m. and for this workshop, the members are to bring arrangement materials and a sack lunch. The workshop will serve as a practice for the club's flower show which is to be held June 12 and 13 in the Crater High gymnasium. This year's show is under the theme, "Bounties of the Earth," portraying the verses from the first chapter of Genesis. During the business session the officers for the coming year will be installed. These officers, elected at the last meeting at the home of Mrs. Leo Ghelardi, are Mrs. Everett Young, president; Mrs. John Wisely, vice president; Mrs. Wallace West, recording secretary; Mrs. Eugene Orr, treasurer; Mrs. Grant Day, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joe Huffine, librarian and Mrs. Charles Jantzer, historian.

Oyster Casserole

New York—A delectable oyster casserole makes a good company dish. Arrange layers of toasted bread cubes, oysters and celery alternately in a casserole. Make a medium-thick white sauce and season with paprika, dry mustard, horseradish, Worcester'shire sauce and a dash of lemon juice to sharpen the flavor. Pour the sauce over the oyster combination and top with bread crumbs. Bake until bubbly and brown on top.
