

Housewives Rally Against Senator's Appeal for More Homemade Bread

DETROIT—(UPI)—"I'd rather die than have to take time to bake my own bread," was one woman's answer to a call for American housewives to man their ovens in a fight against "adulterated store-bought bread."

An anonymous delegate to the 67th annual convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs said she just didn't have time to bake her own bread, and tongue in cheek, said "I'd rather die first."

Answer To Charge

Her answer came to a charge by Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R-N.D.) that women are too busy with parties and entertainment to watch over the health of the family. The 79-year-old congressman said the wheat used in store-bought bread was the "poorest of the wheat," and generally bemoaned the fate of modern Americans who come home to face this bread.

Mrs. Stanley O'Hair, South Bend, Ind., said she never took the time to bake her own bread because it might not be edible and she had faith in the "vitamin-enriched" bread on the market.

Why Take Chance?

Other general reactions were, "Why take the extra time, when time can be spent to better advantage otherwise?" "My children are healthy" and finally a perhaps valuable cross-challenge—"Doesn't this representative of the people have better things to worry about than whether American families are eating home-baked bread?"

Wisconsin Dentist Describes Horrors As Tornado Strikes

By DR. G. J. NEUMANN
As Told To UPI

Colfax, Wis.—(UPI)—God, it was awful.

I was in World War II and I've seen a lot of people die but when you see your own townspeople killed it's something different. It's really awful.

It was, I recall, just a little bit after seven when the storm hit. Suddenly it became black as midnight. I looked out of the window. A huge white sheet of mist was moving in on the town.

Students Protest Release of Water

Portland—(UPI)—A petition signed by 500 David Douglas high school students Wednesday urged a government agency or private organization to alert the public to dangers of rapidly rising rivers due to water released from dams.

I'll never forget what it sounded like. It was like blasting in a quarry. It went "thoom-thoom" like the ground was going to open up and then there came the rain and the hail.

The petition followed the drowning death May 17 of David Reed, a sophomore at David Douglas. Reed drowned in the Clackamas river when trapped by rapidly rising waters released from a dam. The petition suggests posting of all roads and trails leading to water which could be affected by dam releases.

As soon as the tornado had passed I grabbed my first aid kit and joined Colfax's two other doctors, an M.D. and a veterinarian, to help the injured.

Grover Cleveland, the 22nd and 24th president of the United States, once was a teacher in the New York City Institution for the Blind.

Like a Battlefield

I saw a man lying in the street with a two-by-two wooden plank driven through his chest. He was dead. I ran toward two other persons. They were dead, too. It was like a battlefield.

Summer temperatures in some places in the U.S. are higher than is usual in the tropics, according to the National Geographic Society.

I ran from house to house. People huddled in their basements. Adults cried, children screamed. A number of persons were incoherent and in a state of shock. It was so sudden. It was so awful, God.

Nieman Awards Given Newsmen

Cambridge, Mass.—(UPI)—Eleven American newsmen have been awarded Nieman Fellowships at Harvard University for the next college year, it was announced today.

Four foreign journalists, including one woman, have been named Associate Nieman Fellows.

The Americans include six reporters, two editorial writers, one telegraph editor, one science news editor and one magazine editor.

This is the 21st group of Nieman Fellows to be appointed for a year of resident study at Harvard under a bequest from Mrs. Agnes Wahl Nieman in 1937 in honor of her husband, Lucius W. Nieman, founder of the Milwaukee Journal.

Norman A. Cherniss, 32, editorial page editor, Riverside, Calif., Press-Enterprise.

Harold T. P. Hayes, 32, associate editor, Esquire Magazine, who began his career with the Untied Press in Atlanta, Ga., in 1949.

Wallace L. Turner, 37, reporter, Portland Oregonian.

Jet Trainer Crash Kills Two in Alaska

Anchorage, Alaska—(UPI)—A T-33 jet trainer from Elmendorf Air Force Base crashed 17 miles northwest of here Wednesday, killing both men aboard.

The dead were identified as 1st Lt. Paul M. Moore, 24, Cozadale, Ohio, and 1st Lt. Richard H. Boyce, 28, Seattle.

Ike Would Give Economic Aid To Satellites

Washington—(UPI)—President Eisenhower said today he wants discretionary authority to give economic aid to Iron Curtain satellites but opposes putting such a provision in the foreign aid authorization bill pending in the Senate.

The chief executive's position was reported by Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland after the regular weekly meeting of GOP congressional leaders with the President.

Knowland said Eisenhower is in favor of such discretionary authority but believes it should be handled as separate legislation and not as an amendment to the foreign aid measure now being debated in the Senate.

Knowland said he will continue to oppose the plan even as separate legislation. But he conceded that it would have a better chance of passage if handled separately from the foreign aid bill.

Knowland has said he does not "buy, and will not support" the idea that economic aid should be advanced to nations bound to Russia under the terms of the Warsaw Pact.

Grasshopper Horde Threatens Crops in Southwestern States

By United Press International

Several billion grasshoppers swarming through four southwestern states today threatened to cause millions of dollars of crop damage.

Kansas Gov. George Docking asked Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson Wednesday to declare portions of Western Kansas an emergency disaster area.

Agriculture officials said one of the greatest grasshopper infestations in Texas panhandle history looms as 500 to 600 'hoppers roam every square yard of fields and pastures.

They said four or five grasshoppers per square yard can devour as much grass as cattle can eat during normal grazing.

Hordes of 'hoppers were also reported spreading through Colorado and Oklahoma.

So far, the grasshoppers are small enough so they can be controlled by spraying fields. But, Kansas farmers are hoping their crops, especially wheat, ripen rapidly so harvest, three weeks away, will be over before the 'hoppers get too big.

No Alarm Seen Yet

Ellsworth Sherman, Garden City, Kan., one of the state's largest wheat growers, said he could see no cause for alarm—yet. He said the grasshoppers are numerous, but small.

But Alvin E. Lowe, agronomist at Kansas State College's experimental farm at Garden City, said the little 'hoppers are growing so fast they may become "very serious" by harvest time.

Alarmed Texas Panhandle farmers and ranchers, seeing their chance at the first money crops in seven years, have called emergency meetings to fight the infestation.

Mexican Crash Victims To Be Flown To States

Tijuana, Mexico—(UPI)—The bodies of 16 U.S. and Canadian victims of Monday's Mexican Airline crash near Guadalajara will be flown here late today.

The bodies, moved to Mexico City Wednesday night, will be brought here in a chartered airliner expected about 1 p.m. (p.d.t.)

Richard Phillips, U.S. consul in Guadalajara, said press plans call for the transfer of the badly burned bodies to a U.S. mortuary, probably in Chula Vista, Calif., where additional efforts at identification will be made.

The bodies of only 7 of the 14 Americans and 2 Canadians killed in the crash have been identified so far. An effort will be made to return the identified bodies to their families.

All Aboard Killed

The Mexican airliner crashed into a mountain peak minutes after taking off from Guadalajara, bound for Mexico City. All 45 persons aboard were killed.

The American passengers whose bodies have been identified, all Californians, are Corinne Morrison and Audrey Smith, both of La Jolla; Gladys Irano, of Pacific Beach; R. Raul Gonzalez, Los Angeles; F. L. Ulmer, San Diego; and Michael Torres, 5-year-old son of Luisa Van Kories, San Francisco.

Mrs. Van Kories and a traveling companion, Gail Telling, Hollywood, perished in the crash but their bodies have not yet been identified.

The seventh identified body is that of Roy Barnes, an American crewman of the plane, who lived in Mexico City.

Bulk Petroleum Carrier Rate Up

Salem—(UPI)—Public Utility Commissioner Howard Morgan announced today that motor carriers of bulk petroleum have been granted a request to increase rates by 12 percent in Oregon starting June 15.

Rates on residual oil commodities and asphalt will not become effective until July 15, however.

The last rate increase for most petroleum commodities was in 1948.

The PUC also granted permission for the carriers to reduce the estimated weight of distillate oil commodities to cut shipping costs.
