

RHUBARB—Billy Loes, Orioles pitcher, shoves umpire Larry Napp after the ump ruled that Aspromonte was safe at home in a run-down play by Loes in the fifth inning of the Washington-Baltimore game in Baltimore. Loes was ordered from the game, suspended indefinitely, fined $100 by Manager Richards and the incident will be taken to the commissioner.

Neuberger Plan for Northwest Power Agency Opposed

Washington — (UPI) — A private utility executive charged today that a proposed new federal power agency for the Pacific Northwest would be "dangerous" to the welfare of the region.

J. E. Corlette, president of the Montana Power Co., told a Senate public works subcommittee that the suggested agency would be a "thinly-disguised version of a Columbia Valley authority with broad powers over the people and resources of the Northwest."

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.), has introduced a bill to establish a Columbia River Development Corp. It would administer water resources of the entire area.

Serious Threat Seen
Corlette told a subcommittee hearing, presided over by Neuberger, that creation of such an agency would pose a "serious threat to the entire nation." He said the proposed federal corporation would be similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority "which has completely destroyed the investor-owned utility companies of that region and which now is straining to expand its areas of control and domination."

Corlette said it would be "impossible to expand this valley authority principle to the Columbia River basin without applying the same theories to every river basin in America."

But Neuberger said the Northwest needs the agency to provide low cost federal power which would attract new industries to the region. He said Montana and Oregon have the "lowest per cap-

Mailman Honored By His Patrons

Chicago — (UPI) — A postman who has been ringing twice for 35 years in the same neighborhood had his work interrupted by a delegation of his patrons who presented him with $300.

Walter S. Dennis was delivering mail to Mr. and Mrs. William R. Woodcock when they asked him to step in for coffee. Once inside, a dozen women representing 250 families presented him with the money.

Mrs. Woodcock said Wally is a real good friend "who has done more kindnesses than anybody can count."

The presentation came just two days before Wally retired from the postal service after serving three generations of some families in the neighborhood.

Father-Son Teams On Stock Exchange

Chicago — (UPI) — Seven father-and-son combinations, representing a total of 211 years service, hold memberships on the Midwest Stock Exchange.

One of the fathers is David Skall, who was president of the Cleveland Stock Exchange at the time of its merger with the Chicago Exchange in 1949.

The family team with the most combined years as Midwest members is Ralph W. Davis and his son, Scott, with 45 years. They are partners in their own company.

River Scanned for Scientific Treasure

Kanab, Utah — (UPI) — Archeologists from the University of Utah have begun combing southern Utah tributaries of the Colorado river in hopes of rescuing scientific treasures before they are lost forever beneath waters of the Glen Canyon reservoir.

University scientists and the National Park Service have undertaken a $110,000, 10-year study of the fossil and relic-rich area where Indian tribes once roamed.

Dr. Jesse D. Jennings, head of the university's archeology department, said crews working with a portable laboratory already have uncovered a number of prehistoric dwellings.

Construction of the Glen Canyon Dam, undertaken earlier this year as part of the multi-million-dollar Upper Colorado river storage project, is expected to reach completion in seven years. The reservoir, with its eventual 28 million acre-feet of water capacity, will back water 186 miles up the Colorado and 71 miles up the San Juan river.

Wisconsin Pine Believed Largest

Newald, Wis. — (UPI) — A towering white pine in Nicolet National Forest near here is believed to be the largest of its kind in the United States.

Discovered by a forest ranger 12 years ago, the giant has been named in honor of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The MacArthur pine is 140 feet tall, has a circumference of 16 feet and 8 inches and a crown spread of 48 feet. It is believed to be well over 250 years old.

Estimated to contain 8,000 board feet of lumber, the huge pine could provide enough material to build a 24x30-foot home. At current rates for white pine lumber, which comes in several grades averaging $200 a thousand board feet, the MacArthur pine is worth $1,600.

'Noisy' Faculty Part of Tradition

Madison, Wis. — (UPI) — A "noisy" faculty is part of the University of Wisconsin tradition, according to Dr. Fred H. Harrington, assistant to the president.

Harrington said the faculty wants to help decide policy and has the right to do so by state law. This attitude is also passed along to the students, he said.

"They are not as easily ordered around as the bulk of those in the United States," he added. "Because of this, Wisconsin student leaders have a more difficult task than most."

He told a group of campus leaders to "expect to be criticized" but added that it was sometimes desirable to "tell them off."

Tarantulas Make Fine House Pets

Chicago — (UPI) — Lillian A. Ross, an associate of the Chicago National History Museum, says tarantulas make fine house pets. She's had one for eight years.

"She is called Hortense and was given to me by the Lincoln Park Zoo," Miss Ross said.

"Hortense will sit placidly in my hand, occasionally moving a leg to adjust herself more comfortably. She likes cockroaches for dinner, although she will not turn up her nose at a bit of chopped beefsteak or a meal-worm."

New Way to Extract Opium

San Francisco — (UPI) — Scientists have discovered a new way to extract opium, quinine, strychnine and other drugs from plant material, it was announced here.

Doctors at the University of California School of Pharmacy said they have been experimenting with the new method which is simpler and more accurate than the standard techniques in use since the 1890's. The new method is faster and gets more drugs from the same amount of plant materials, they added.

Essentially the new method consists in combining a resin with the plant material. The positively charged hydrogen atoms of the resin switch places with the molecules of drugs that are also positively charged. The drugs are then washed out of the resin with ammonia.

The experiments with the new drug extraction method were conducted by Dr. Einar Brochmann-Hanssen. He said the new method has produced a 10 per cent greater yield of drugs than earlier methods and has done the job in as little as half an hour, compared to a day-and-a-half required by older chemical extraction processes.

Brain Stimulation Satisfying to Rats

Los Angeles, Calif. — (UPI) — Electrical stimulation to certain parts of the brain can be as satisfying to a rat as a good meal of cheese, scientists report.

Dr. James Olds, former associate research psychologist at the University of California here, said that this and similar brain studies on rats may prove to be the key to treatment of human mental illness.

Olds said findings in animal research indicate that it may be possible in the future to control the reward system of the human brain by medicine and thereby adjust the behavior of psychiatric patients.

Salem — UPI — Nearly 800 Oregon drivers had their licenses suspended in May.

Oregon courts reported a total of 13,369 traffic violation convictions for May. Driving while intoxicated accounted for 250 license suspensions.

Mental Exercise At Breakfast Urged

Los Angeles — (UPI) — If you have to solve problems in your work it may help to take a few "warm-up" mental exercises at breakfast time, two UCLA psychologists suggest.

The psychologists, Irving Maltzman, Lloyd Brooks and Stanley Summers, have found that a group of subjects who first were asked to solve several simple problems proved to be considerably faster in solving a bigger problem presented afterwards.

The habit of warming up the mind made problem-solving easier even though the warm-up exercises had nothing to do with the subject matter of the problems to be solved.

"Problem-solving is something that requires an uncommon response," they said. And it is possible to train people into the habit of uncommon responses, they added.

Kim Novak's Sheets Bring $200 at Auction

San Francisco — (UPI) — The lavender sheets that Kim Novak, movie star, slept between on her recent visit here were sold at auction Wednesday night for $200 in an annual fund raising project of KQED, the Bay Area community television station.

The sheets went to a necktie dealer who will cut them into strips for ties. Bids were by telephone.
