Open House Ends Year For PTA

Eagle Point—Open house and achievement night were held in conjunction with the final meeting of the year for the Eagle Point High School Parent-Teacher-Student association.

A style show was presented by Mrs. Hooper's home economics classes, with Miss Margaret Cearley as commentator. Clothing made this year by the students was modeled.

Boats, chairs, tables, miscellaneous furniture and various metal-working items were among the shop displays. Some of these projects required a full school year to complete, plus extra out of school hours, explained Don McGovern, shop instructor.

Incoming officers were installed by Mrs. John Huffman, first vice president of the County Council of PTA. New officers include Mrs. Charles McClure, president; Mrs. Delbert Spain, parent vice president; Gail Shoppert, teacher vice president; Mrs. Burton Jensen, secretary; Herman Higday, treasurer; and Miss Beverly Tresham, student, as historian. In the absence of Mr. Shoppert, Bert Simmons acted as stand-in. William T. J. Andrews, retiring president, was presented a past-president's pin during installation ceremonies. Mr. Andrews hold the distinction of having been the first man president for this unit.

Mrs. McClure and Miss Tresham gave brief comments on their attendance at the convention for the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers, and thanked the membership for sending them as delegates.

Glenn Hale, superintendent of Eagle Point schools, announced that the county school reorganization committee has approved the consolidation of Eagle Point School District 9 and Elk-Trail School District 45 and that petitions were circulated in Eagle Point and in the Elk-Trail districts asking the district boundary board to submit to the legal voters of the districts, the question of consolidation of the two school districts. Mr. Hale explained that the high school students of Elk-Trail are practically all in attendance at Eagle Point now, and that the Elk-Trail grade school students would continue to attend the elementary school in their community.

The chorus, under the direction of Charles Martin, music instructor, entertained with two selections as part of the program. Mr. Andrews thanked the mothers who had helped complete the robes worn by the group.

Norman Wyers' biology classes held open house in the classroom where projects of the students were shown. Plant growth, animal cross-breeding, seed development experiments, assemblies of animal skeletal structures; elaborate relief maps; and flower collections were among projects representing the climax of a year's work.

Mr. Simmons led the flag salute; programs were made by Stewart Hopper, and mothers of students in the Freshman class were hostesses.

Strawberry-Orange Marmalade Suggested

New York—(UPI)—Fresh strawberry time is marmalade time. Combine 4 cups fresh berries, 2 large oranges and 2 large lemons, quartered and pitted. Cover and let stand 12 hours.

Drain, reserving juice. Chop fruit, add juice, heat to the boiling point and boil 1 hour. Add sugar, reheat to boil and cook 6 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, stir and skim for 5 minutes.

Pour into 6 clean, hot, sterilized jars, and seal with paraffin.

Spring Fruit Compote

Spring fruits such as pink rhubarb, strawberries and fresh pineapple are compatible in flavor, color and texture. Rhubarb will hold its shape during cooking if you let it stand in sugar several hours before cooking. A good rule to follow is 1/2 to 3/4 cup of sugar for each pound of rhubarb. The flavor is intensified by steaming without adding water. Place the sugar and rhubarb in the top of the double boiler over boiling water. Turn the flame back to medium so the water won't boil away. Cover the rhubarb and cook for 20 minutes. This rhubarb sauce is deserving of your prettiest serving crystal.

Easy Hot Sandwich

New York—(AP)—A quick, nourishing lunch for a cool day features grilled baked bean olive sandwiches. To serve four, mix one 1-pound can of baked beans with 1/3 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives, and 1 teaspoon each of prepared mustard and grated onion. Spread on 4 slices of toast and broil 3 to 4 inches from the source of heat three to five minutes.

Potato Storage

Store potatoes in a dark place. Handle them carefully. Store varieties separately. Since a mixture will make proper cooking difficult. Buy only enough for current needs since they are readily available at reasonable cost; are perishable.

Children Honor Mothers at Tea

Fifty-six mothers attended a tea given in their honor recently by children attending Miss Pat's Kindergarten on the Jacksonville highway. Graduation services were held and each child received a diploma and a booklet containing photographs taken throughout the year.

Children entertained the mothers with a program of songs and dances, and at the close each mother received a corsage made by her child. The classroom was decorated by the children, and the table decorations and programs were also made by the four and five-year old children.

Gold Star mothers were presented gifts as a special reward. These were Mrs. H. Lejenaar, Mrs. Gene McCallister and Mrs. William Marshall. Mrs. Phyllis Isaacs, assisted by Mrs. Winston Walsler, directed the children in the art and program work.

Assisting with refreshments were Mrs. Mack Jones and Mrs. Martin Gates. The school is now accepting registration of children for the fall kindergarten session.

That Tired Feeling
"I'm so tired I could drop," complains Jane, "and I never used to be that way before Mother Smith came to live with us. I don't really work hard enough to exhaust myself; in fact, Mother Smith says I'm a slack housekeeper."

Mother Smith, indeed, said many things: Jane was a poor cook, a poor wife, a poor manager, a poor church member. Poor, poor Jane! She had never before felt so inadequate, so completely a failure as a human being.

"No matter how hard I try," she finally told herself, "I'll never measure up to my mother-in-law's standards. I'm tired, bone-tired, of trying."

Emotional tension is directly reflected in body reaction. Chemical changes occur with emotion, just as in physical effort. Jane's exhaustion was just as real as if she had spent the day painting the house or spading the lawn. She was tired because she was in emotional conflict with her mother-in-law.

jeeted by playmates is "too tired to go out and play." America, where much of life is met on an emotional basis of competition, criticism, and rivalry, is a land of emotional fatigue. Big business recognizes this and offers us a popular soft-drink for "the pause that refreshes." A brand of cigarettes offers us a "Lift without a let-down." A confectioner urges us to try a candy bar "for that tired feeling."

That tired feeling of ours, in short, may have not a physical but also an emotional basis. We must try to trace its origins. If they are physical, a change of schedule and a trip to the physician may be in order. If the fatigue persists, a skilled counselor may be able to help us to help ourselves.

Cut tops off big cup cakes; hollow out. Fill with ice cream; replace tops and freeze. Serve plain to eat out-of-hand or on plates with a sauce for fork-eating.
