Suzy Parker's Marriage Denied

St. Augustine, Fla. — (UPI) — Writer Pierre de Sale visited injured actress Suzy Parker Monday night and then denied he was her husband.

"I'm not married," he said. "I've never been married."

Miss Parker has been confined to a hospital with two broken arms since a Saturday car-train accident that killed her father, George Lofton Parker, 63.

There have been rumors since the wreck that she was secretly married to the French-born writer, but the reports had been unconfirmed.

Miss Parker identified herself at the hospital as Mrs. P. de Sale. De Sale said apparently this was because she was in a "semiconscious state" at the time.

"Miss Parker is a dear friend and my only reason for being here is my concern for her condition," de Sale said.

Board of Health Studies Survey of Coming Problems

Portland — UPI — State Board of Health members had under study today a survey of needs and resources designed to provide an idea of problems coming up in the next three years and ability of the state to meet them.

The study was made at request of Gov. Robert D. Holmes. Staff members will continue the study and present findings at a Board meeting in Portland next month.

Board officials indicated that present resources cannot provide all the new services demanded.

For example, members said the demand for preventive mental health services had more than doubled during the past two years. They also said the dental health record in Oregon was "one of the nation's worst" with three-fourths of children under 16 in need of dental service. They said only 33 of 231 communities in Oregon had "identifiable" preventive programs of which 18 involve fluoridation of water.

In addition, the study indicated one of every four Oregon school children needed some type of eye care, much of which needed follow-up by public health nurses. More than four per cent of school children tested need hearing treatment.

TB Cases Decline
The study said TB cases had declined in rate but that there still were a large number because of increased population.

It added that "very little" is being done about home accidents, and that about 12 per cent of the population was estimated to need some type of rehabilitation services to make them entirely self-sufficient.
