

In the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

More about France—which is presently the world's hottest trouble spot:

Adlai Stevenson tells the graduating class at the University of Michigan that the United States can help keep France from foundering during the next six months by extending IMMEDIATE ECONOMIC AID during the present governmental crisis.

HMMMMMM. Let's take a look at the ledger.

In the past 13 years we have poured a little better than 11 BILLION DOLLARS into the French economy. By doing so, we have helped to keep taxes down in France. That is to say, during these 13 years Americans have paid HIGHER taxes so that the French would be enabled to get along with LOWER taxes.

HAS it paid off? I wouldn't know.

But, as nearly as one can judge by reading the news, Americans seem less popular in France than they were 13 years ago.

That tends to confirm the belief that ONE CAN'T BUY FRIENDS.

THE French—meaning the REAL French, not the French politicians—are wonderful people. They have proved that over the centuries.

But—Like everybody else—They can be spoiled by too much indulgence.

I THINK this might be a good time to quote again Lincoln's statement that "you cannot help men PERMANENTLY by doing for them what they could do for themselves."

GOING on with the news: Senator Henry (Scoop) Jackson of the state of Washington proposes a six-month suspension by the United States of above-ground nuclear tests after the current series in the Pacific is completed.

He says the move would facilitate negotiations with Russia for an OVER ALL ban on future tests of nuclear weapons.

IT SOUNDS wonderful. But here's a thought: Suppose we ban nuclear weapons—meaning atom and hydrogen bombs and such. Suppose the Russians ban them also. Suppose—if you can stretch your imagination that far—they keep their word and do away with atom and hydrogen bombs. Would that end HORROR war?

I WONDER. There would still be left poison gas, nerve gas, germ warfare and all the other scientific horrors to consider. Suppose the commies tricked us into doing away with nuclear weapons and then overwhelmed us with gas and germ weapons. It's so terribly hard to do business with somebody whose word you can't trust.

Officials Launch Intensive Search For Young Bride

Norman, Okla. — (UPD) — Oklahoma authorities launched an intensive search today for a 19-year-old bride of less than a month who is missing and believed kidnaped.

Her husband, Dennis Batterman, 18, was closeted with Cleveland County Attorney Hez J. Bussey and a state Crime Bureau agent for two hours Wednesday.

Bussey, who said that the couple had been married only 13 days when they last saw each other, said he questioned Batterman at length, trying to get additional information which would help law enforcement officers in their stepped up hunt for missing Carol Ann.

Waiting for Bus
The former Chicago girl was last seen May 31 as she waited for a bus in front of a Norman motel where she and her husband were staying.

The youthful serviceman was expressionless Wednesday when he emerged from Bussey's office.

Bussey said "The longer Mrs. Batterman stays missing, the less chance there will be of her being found alive."

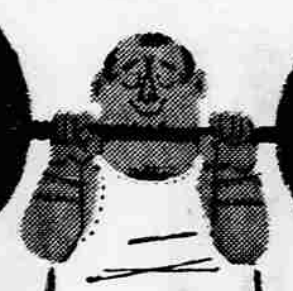

Oklahoma law enforcement officials were alerted today to watch for a light-colored pickup truck which pulled up near the woman moments before she was last seen.

A service station attendant said he did not see Mrs. Batterman enter the truck, but noticed she was gone shortly after the vehicle pulled away.
