

DAV Auxiliary Convention Opens; Tea Honors Mothers

Mrs. Archibald Zeek, Newport, Oregon department commander of the Disabled American Veterans auxiliary, is presiding over sessions of the 1958 department convention being held here this week.

Yesterday the auxiliary held joint opening ceremonies with the men's group at the Moose hall, and also participated in a joint memorial ceremony. Business sessions were held at the YMCA, during which representatives of other veteran and patriotic groups in Jackson county were introduced and welcomed.

Highlight of yesterday's program was a tea given at the Red Cross building for Gold Star mothers and other relatives. Mrs. Zeek and Mrs. George Simmons, member of the auxiliary to Jackson County chapter of the DAV and convention chairman, poured for the tea. Mrs. Everett Grissom, president of the local auxiliary, presided during a program and Mrs. Harvey Cassman presented each Gold Star guest with a pin made from shells by auxiliary members. About 40 attended. Program numbers included an act by Mrs. Adeline Wheldon's dancing dog, and accordion numbers by Sharon Simmons. Past commanders of both posts and auxiliaries of the state attended a breakfast at

Gilman Family To Attend Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilman, 940 Ross lane, and other members of the Gilman family were to leave this morning for Seattle where they will attend the wedding of the Gilman's son, Robert R. Gilman, and Miss Dorothy Elaine Blackburn of that city. The wedding will be held in University Christian church, Seattle, Saturday, June 14. Also attending the ceremony will be the bridegroom's brother, Daniel, his sister, Mrs. Stanley Cramer and her children, Lorrie and Stevie, Yreka, Calif., and his grandmother, Mrs. Christine Borge, 441 West Ninth street, Medford.

Roxy Ann Court Entertains Grand Officers at Meeting

Roxy Ann court, Order of Amaranth, received an official visit from the grand royal matron, Mrs. Willis Mack of Columbia court, Astoria, and the grand royal patron, Hugh Templeton, Clackamas court, Milwaukie, at a special meeting, Saturday, June 7 in the Medford Masonic temple. Other grand officers and many members from various courts in the state and Yreka, Calif., attended.

After the opening ceremonies the two grand officers were escorted, introduced and seated on the throne with the presiding officers, Mrs. Marshall Day, royal matron and Fred Purdin, royal patron.

A deputy supreme royal matron, Mrs. William Pritchard, Portland, and a deputy supreme royal patron, Ora Cole, Seaside, were escorted as well as Jack Schultz, Klamath Falls, and Jack Kennedy, Medford, past grand royal patrons.

Grand officers also honored were Mrs. John Dobson, Newport, associate matron; Ted Dahlgren, Portland, associate patron; Mrs. Stanley Levack, Portland, conductress; Mrs. Hugh Templeton, Milwaukie, page; Mrs. Oliver Breedlove, Portland, fraternal correspondent; Mrs. Lorene Buley, Eugene, wisdom; Earl Rowley, Portland, commissioner; Mrs. May Simmons, Portland, standard bearer; Mrs. Ed Norton, Eugene, and Mrs. Jack Schult, Klamath Falls, assistant lecturers of Oregon and Carl Gilbert, Ashland, assistant lecturer of California; Clarence Harwood, Medford, committee member; Mrs. Irma Griggs, Mrs. Ira Canfield, Henry Halvorsen, Oliver Breedlove and Stanley Levack, representatives.

Royal matrons and patrons from 15 courts in all parts of the state and Yreka were introduced as well as past royal matrons and past royal patrons from many courts. The ritualistic work was inspected which included the initiatory degrees conferred on a large class of candidates. Honorary memberships were presented to the grand royal matron and grand royal patron in Roxy Ann court by Jack Kennedy, past grand royal patron. Both spoke words of appreciation for courtesies of the evening.

Entertainment was provided by Nick Gier, Medford, and Charles Moore. Grants Pass, who gave accordion solos. Both young men are students from the Muzzioli School of Accordion.

After the court was formally closed, members and guests

To Festival

Mrs. Paul Selby and two daughters, Miss Karalee and Miss Patty Selby, left this morning for Portland to attend the final two days of the annual Portland Rose festival. They will see the floral parade Saturday, the parade being the highlight of the week long program.

adjourned to the dining room for a reception. Mrs. Ira D. Canfield and her committee decorated the room and tables with orchids. Mrs. Vernon A. Turpin and her committee served refreshments with Mrs. Lloyd Caton at the punch bowl.

Sunday morning members and guests of Roxy Ann court were served breakfast under the supervision of the associate matron and patron, Mrs. Frank Little and Stanley Jones.

The royal matrons and patrons, the associate matrons and patrons, and the conductress associations of the state held their monthly meetings following the breakfast in the Masonic temple.

Help Yourself To Happiness

This column is one of a series on marriage and family problems which appears weekly in this paper. It presents problems of everyday living and attempts to bring you the most expert opinion in this area. By combining clinical experience, research, and common sense, we hope to assist you to help yourself to happiness. Readers are invited to present their problems. All queries will receive individual attention and should be accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope directed to Mary Harris Selfert, M.A., Department of Education, The American Institute of Family Relations, 5287 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 27, California.

She Married Him On The Rebound

Patty is engaged to a handsome young physician. "An ideal couple," says the world approvingly, "so similar in tastes and background!" Then the young physician meets a childhood sweetheart and breaks his engagement with Patty. Patty is ashamed, certain that everyone will know and ridicule her inability to hold her man. She will show the world she doesn't care! When she meets Dan, an older, inverted, and plodding teacher—as different from her fiancé as possible—to the surprise of everyone, including the plodding Dan, she marries him—on the rebound. Now, she may again hold her head high! She has shown she doesn't care about a broken engagement!

It is probably true that one is never so ready to enter a new love affair, as at the time an old one has to be given up. Love is habit-forming, and life without it seems inconceivable. Therefore, the rejected lover is apt to marry the first person who happens to attract the attention after a breakup, with the frequent result that he ends by loving the experience of love more than the partner involved. "She married him on the first bounce," says society, "so you can expect their marriage to flop. It couldn't be real love." Genuine love is not speedily replaceable. It is a definite attitude toward a specific person, involving the whole personality. The rejected person sometimes endows the new individual he is attracted to with all the qualities of the lost love, and with enthusiasm born of despair tells himself, "I've at last found my ideal! Come on, let's get married and show the world!" Marriage on the rebound is at best a hazard. Emotionally the partners are under too much tension to exercise good judgment. Subconsciously they may be roundly cheating themselves—and each other. Wait, advises Dr. Roswell H. Johnson of the American Institute of Family Relations, wait until you can again trust your heart and your head to cooperate intelligently.

Cornelius Janzen Receives Degree
