

Medford Class of 1933 Celebrates Anniversary

Members of the 1933 graduating class of Medford High School held a reunion Saturday, June 21, the event being a dinner dance at Rogue Valley Country club. Seventy-five persons attended. The class numbered 143 students, and many are now living in widely scattered parts of the world.

Coming the longest distance for the event was David Moore, who came in by plane from his home in Casper, Wyo. Also present were all the class officers. They were Mae Rae, now of Vallejo, Calif., Conway Latham, who lives in Roseburg, Ore., Mrs. Richard Wray, who was Leah Miller and Bernal Slead, treasurer.

Teachers who attended were Mrs. Elizabeth E. C. Jerome, and Mrs. Lester Taylor.

Clyde Fichtner served as master of ceremonies. He introduced each person attending and asked each to speak briefly of his life since graduation. Mrs. Barbara Lowry, member of the committee on arrangement, had written a special song for the occasion and this was sung by the group, along with other songs which were popular during the years the class had been in school.

Women attending the party were presented gardenias, and the men boutonnières. Each graduate wore a badge with his name and his picture taken from the Crater of 1933. A display of old copies of the school newspaper and year book proved interesting.

During the evening the class voted to hold reunions every five years. Serving on the committee which planned the 25th anniversary gathering were Mr. and Mrs. William E. Knips, Mr. Fichtner, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hogue, Mrs. Lowry, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shurtliff, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wray, Mrs. Golda Grady, Mrs. Marion Ayres and David B. Lowry.

A number of letters were read from graduates unable to attend the reunion. One was from Maxine Bohnert Aupperle, now an actress and television writer living in La Habra, Calif., and another from Cmdr. R. S. Roberts now stationed at SEATO headquarters, Bangkok, Thailand.

Mrs. Richard S. West, the former Zoe Dell Lantis, wrote that she had just returned from a trip around the world and Rychard Slight, now living in Fairfax, Calif., wrote to say that he could not attend since he had a television assignment in Hollywood that week end.

Larry Neal, Ashland student, will speak for a meeting of Medford chapter, Oregon United Nations association, to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Girls Community club. Young Neal will report on the Intercollegiate Leadership institute held in Finch college, New York City, earlier this month and which he attended. The institute is sponsored by the Collegiate Council of the United Nations.

Moving of Family Listed As Cause of Broken Home

By MARY PRIME
United Press International
New York—UPI—Moving leads to broken marriages, says a social worker.

"We now have the largest number of marriages in history of couples who have no visible reason for getting along together. It's remarkable so many of these marriages have lasted," said Joseph Anderson, executive director of the National Association of Social Workers.

"Forty or 50 years ago, the boy almost always chose the girl next door. Their families knew each other, they had the same tastes, came from the same class, the same religious groups. These things held the marriage together.

"Then came two world wars and the depression which caused mobility. People moved to different parts of the country, chose mates with whom they had nothing in common. So now there isn't the support for marriage and the family," said Anderson in an interview. He has been married for 23 years, yet has done his share of changing addresses.

A native of Lorain, Ohio, Anderson lives in Scarsdale, N. Y. He was director of tenant and community relations for the Federal Public Housing Authority in Washington, D.C. before taking this post in Manhattan.

He also directed emergency relief for two counties in Pennsylvania and headed the Recreation and Informal Education Division of the Federation of Social Agencies in Pittsburgh.

This year, 35 million Americans, or 21 per cent of the population, are expected to change residences, he said. About 23 million persons will move to a different home in the same county; seven million will move to a different county in the same state; and five million will move to a different state.

To avoid instability, couples should be aware that moving into a new community can affect their marriage. Anderson recommends that couples seek out groups which they would find in their hometowns. They should become active in church and civic organizations, and take on responsibilities in the PTA and scouting, he said.
