Hoffa Sees Big Business Trying To Destroy Labor

Seattle, Wash. — (UPI) — James R. Hoffa, president of the giant Teamsters Union, has warned that big business is making one last big effort "to destroy the labor movement."

However, the Teamsters president declared that the effort by big business "will fail and labor will continue to thrive."

Hoffa made the speech Wednesday to 700 delegates to the Western Conference of Teamsters Convention.

Victory for Movement
Hoffa, who was acquitted of wire tapping charges Monday, told the Teamsters he appreciated the way the membership was able to "take the headlines and editorials and how you have believed what I said in Miami was true — that I was not guilty of charges placed against me."

The union leader said his acquittal was a "victory for the entire Teamsters movement."

The Teamster president announced a complete reversal in financial policy for the union.

Borrowed Money
Hoffa told the delegates that only because the Teamsters union was able to borrow money was the international union able to keep going with current expenses. "We intend to operate on our own money rather than paying interest to outsiders," he said.

Commenting on Teamster difficulties with the AFL-CIO, Hoffa said that the Teamsters Union continues to be the most powerful union in the world, "in or out of the AFL-CIO."

He cautioned against using their power unwisely with the possibility "of pricing ourselves right out of a job." He pointed out that the trucking industry is not the only source of transportation in the world.

Scappoose Man Hurt By Fall Into Mower

Scappoose, Ore. — (UPI) — Morris Lyle Jobin, 25, Scappoose, suffered serious injuries Wednesday when he fell from a tractor into a mower while cutting hay near here.

Doctors said Jobin lost part of his left arm and that they hoped to save the other arm. Police Chief Bob Wiss of Scappoose said Jobin apparently landed in the blades of the mower when he fell from the tractor, which jackknifed and toppled on top of him. He said Jobin was trapped under the machine for some time before he managed to free himself and get help.

Rogue Drowning Victim Recovered

Gold Beach — (UPI) — The body of a drowning victim, Israel Ostrow, 37, Worcester, Mass., was discovered Wednesday by mail boat pilot Dale Johnson.

Ostrow drowned in the Rogue river Sunday afternoon, when a 14-foot boat which he was rowing capsized about 10 miles upriver from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ostrow had arrived at a lodge for a vacation only a few hours before the mishap.
