

BEAVER—Bearded men picket the White House in Washington, protesting what they allege is the Israeli Government's "anti-religious campaign." One of the group identified the demonstrators, mostly rabbis, as members of the World Union or Orthodox Jewish Communities with headquarters in New York City.

Movies Bring Big Demand for Books When Showing Here

Movies mean more business for the Jackson county libraries. Every time a movie based on a famous book shows in Jackson county theaters, there is an immediate demand for the book at most branches of the library, according to Librarian Helen Webster.

Recently when "A Farewell to Arms," the screen adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's novel of love and war, played locally, the library had many requests for the book.

Another Hemingway novel, "The Sun Also Rises," is the basis for the film of that title currently being played in local theaters.

Other current movies which have brought a burst of interest from Rogue valley residents in the books on which they were based include "The Bridge on the River Kwai," "Raintree County," "Marjorie Morningstar," "The Young Lions," "Sayonara," and "Old Yeller."

"That little note at the beginning of the movie, 'Based on the novel by Ernest Hemingway or James Michener or Ross Lockridge,' almost never fails to bring requests for the book," the librarian said.

Reading of literary classics especially has been stimulated by film adaptations in recent years, according to Miss Webster.

Surge of Interest
The current movie version of Dostoevski's best-known novel, "The Brothers Karamazov," has brought a surge

New Automobile Models, Steel Prices Have Business Guessing

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

New York — (UPI)—Business men are trying to guess on two immediate developments that may have an influence on the economy.

One is the reception the new automobile models will get and the other is how much, if anything, will steel prices be boosted.

There is growing optimism on the automobile picture. Automobile companies are stepping up their time for bringing out the new 1959 models. Some of them will be coming off the assembly lines by the middle of September.

That means there will have to be buying of many things—steel, glass, leather, brass, copper, tires, and myriad other items that go to make the automobiles of today.

A steel price rise may or may not become a reality. Most of the steel experts believe a price rise is a "must" because they assert there isn't enough leverage to absorb increased costs. Workers get an automatic rise in pay under their two-year contract on July 1st. They also get a boost on the cost of living index rise.

Last Resort
It is known that steel makers will raise their prices only as a last resort — after they have gone over all the figures again.

They frankly do not want to run afoul of the Washington investigators.

Hence their interest today in an article entitled "The Manipulated Price Rise" by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) published in the June 28 issue of "The Nation."

Down in Wall Street the word is that Senator Kefauver will be highly disappointed if the steel companies do not raise their prices so that he can blow up a big investigation.

If the steel companies raise their prices on July 1, Kefauver said in the first paragraph of his article, "it will be under circumstances difficult to justify, and the results are certainly not calculated to hasten economic recovery for the country as a whole."

Afraid of Noise
From this remark, the steel industry concludes a price rise would probably set off a bigger bellow than usual in Washington because of the political capital that might be extracted from the noise.

The steel companies have been revamping their production facilities to produce steel at reduced costs, and the ex-

Dallas To Keep Segregation in Public Schools

Dallas, Tex. — (UPI)—The Dallas school board has skirted the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling to integrate all schools by voting that the city's 141 public schools remain segregated during the next school year.

School board president Dr. Edwin L. Rippey announced Wednesday "the school board has instructed the superintendent of schools that there shall be no alteration of the present status regarding segregation of the races within the schools of this district for the school year beginning in September, 1958."

Ruling Applauded
The board's unanimous ruling was received with applause.

Another resolution asked Andrew J. Thuss, the school board's attorney, to begin new litigation to resolve differences between Federal and state law.

The Dallas school system has been caught between a federal ruling which requires integration with all possible speed and a state law which forbids school integration without a popular ballot.

Texas law stipulates that a petition, signed by 20 per cent of the voters, must be passed in order to abolish the dual school system.

The state ruling says any school which desegregates otherwise will lose state accreditation and be subject to $1,000 fine in addition to automatically losing state funds.

Transit Permit Will Be Extended

Portland — (UPI)—City Commissioner William A. Bowes said Wednesday the city will accept a short term extension for Rose City Transit company's operating permit until Oct. 31, to avoid an immediate shutdown at the July 5 deadline.

Bowes directed the city attorney's office to prepare an ordinance embodying the permit extension for full council action next week.

The U.S. had the world's largest oil tanker fleet, about 45-ocean-going vessels, in active service in 1955.
