Susanne Homes' Portrait Given to SOC By Mrs. Galey

Ashland—A pensive photographic portrait of Miss Susanne Homes, the first Jackson County woman to be elected to public office, has been presented to Southern Oregon college by Mrs. Henry C. Galey of Ashland.

Mrs. Galey graduated from Ashland High school in May, 1894, one year later than did Susanne Homes. Both Mrs. Galey and Miss Homes became school teachers in the Ashland public schools. Both women attended and graduated from the old Ashland State Normal school, Miss Homes graduating in 1896.

The picture of Miss Homes will be hung in the lounge in the north wing of Susanne Homes hall, the SOC women's dormitory whose name honors Miss Homes.

Taught Several Years
Miss Homes taught in several rural and town schools in Oregon and at Ashland High school for several years. The lure of adventure and travel called and Miss Homes answered by going to Alaska to teach. When she returned from the North she went on to further study at Oregon State college and the University of California.

In 1920 Miss Homes was elected superintendent of schools for Jackson county, an office she was to hold for 12 years. She was the first woman in Jackson county to be elected to any county office and discharged her duties in such a manner as to be instrumental in the improvement of educational procedures in southern Oregon. She pioneered many teaching methods and devices that are now regarded as standard in Oregon schools.

In 1926 Miss Homes was named president of the Oregon State Teachers association. While she was county school superintendent she met and married Floyd Carter, a civil engineer, and they made their home in Jacksonville. She died in September, 1944.

The picture which Mrs. Dodge presented to Southern Oregon college is a Bushnell portrait. In a high-necked shirtwaist blouse, Miss Homes is posed reading a book.

About 80 of Connecticut's high schools have driver training courses.
