

House Debating Foreign Aid Bill

Washington —(UPI)— The House began debating a $3,078,092,000 foreign aid appropriation bill today amid indications it won't seek to restore funds slashed from the program in committee.

The measure as recommended by the Appropriations committee to the House was trimmed $872 million below the sum requested by President Eisenhower. The bill provides money to carry on foreign military and economic aid in the 12 months starting today.

Sources close to the bill hinted the House may pass the bill as is, leaving efforts at restoration to the Senate where prospects were brighter. A defeat of money-adding amendments in the House, they argue, would reduce the chances for jacking up the funds in the Senate.

The President was believed likely to broach the foreign aid matter in a meeting with the Republican congressional leaders today.

Wedding Delayed; Nothing But Trouble

Spickard, Mo. — (UPI) — Robert Stafford, 21, set out from Waterloo, Iowa Monday with his sweetheart, Mary Peverill, 22, in a truck loaded with 480 bushels of corn. They planned to go to Versailles, Mo., to get married, but they never got there. Stafford had seven tire blowouts en route and then in Spickard his truck crashed into the post office.

Miss Peverill suffered a leg scratch and the post office floor was littered with corn kernels two feet deep. Stafford decided to postpone the wedding date.

National Forest Personnel Completes Guard Training

Seventy fire control personnel recently completed the 1958 Guard training camp in the Rogue River National forest.

The school was held at Camp No. 2, 10 miles east of Butte Falls during June 18, 19 and 20, according to Carroll Brown, forest supervisor.

Those taking the course were personnel from 17 lookouts and 12 guard stations. The rest were crew members. Basic training included map reading, use of instruments in fire detection, smokechasing, small fire suppression, crew action on fires, use of pumps and tank trucks, safety and general guard duties.

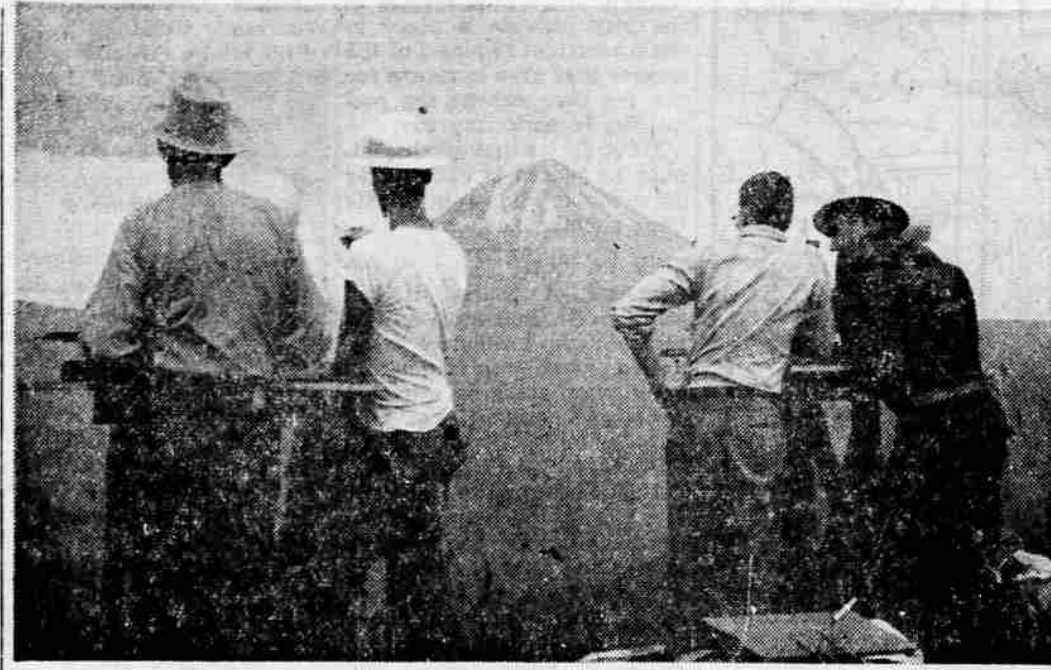

Assigned to Station
Upon completion of training the men were assigned to their stations for the summer. Lookouts, guard stations and suppression crews are being manned to detect and control forest fires.

Fire overhead training was given on June 17 to 35 forest service foremen at Camp No. 2, Brown said. Subject included fire behavior, fire fighting organization, methods of fire suppression and fire safety.

Instructors at both sessions were Rogue River district rangers and their key assistants. Training sessions were directed by S. T. (Tenny) Moore, fire control officer.

HIGHWAY-SKYWAY

Boston — (UPI) — Massachusetts soon will have a combination highway and skyway. Four helicopter landing areas will be built alongside Route 128, Boston's circumferential highway. The idea is to provide a modern means of transportation for the multi-million dollar industrial plants that line Route 128.

LOCATING SMOKE—A group of trainees of the fire fighting school in the Rogue River National forest learn how to locate source of smoke. Two groups are shown grouped around azimuth circles and plotting tables by a guard station. Mt. McLoughlin is seen in the distance.

FIGHT FIRE—A back pump is demonstrated during the recent fire school sponsored by the Rogue River National forest officials. One man sprays water on a small blaze while members of the school clear the ground with axes and shovels. Seventy fire control personnel attended the 1958 Guard training camp.

MOPPING UP—A group of trainees during the recent fire school in the Rogue River National forest clear brush from the ground and pile dirt on the source of a fire. Small fire suppression was included in the basic training at the school. Upon completion of training the men were assigned to stations for the summer.

Primitive man invented the mosaic when he arranged pebbles on the floor of his cave, says the National Geographic Society. Ancient Sumerians expanded the technique, cementing bright stones to a base. By 1,000 B.C., Egyptians were fashioning mosaics in the form of glass jewelry.

Total investment of Americans in property and endowment of privately supported institutions of education, religion, health and welfare increased by an estimated $1,400,000,000 in 1956.

Coins believed to date from 100 B.C. have recently been unearthed in Pakistan.

Irvin Goodman Dies in Portland

Portland — (UPI) — Irvin Goodman, 61, prominent Portland attorney, died Monday of a heart attack.

Goodman was well known as a murder trial lawyer. He headed the defense in 28 murder trials. Only two of his clients were executed. They were Turman and Utah Wilson, hanged for the murder of JoAnn Dewey.

Goodman, who was born in Portland, was survived by his widow, Ora and two brothers. He was educated at Reed college and the Northwestern College of Law.

Recent estimates show there are about 40.5 million married men in the U.S.

Mamie, Ike Observe 42nd Anniversary

Washington — (UPI) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower planned to observe the 42nd anniversary of their wedding quietly today with any celebration strictly private.

The President's schedule called for a busy day at his desk. Mrs. Eisenhower had no public appearances scheduled.

As usual, gifts exchanged by the Eisenhowers were kept secret.

The Eisenhowers were married July 1, 1916, in Denver, Colo.

Japan Launches Full-Scale Rocket

Japan — (UPI) — Japan successfully launched its first full-scale rocket at least 30 miles into the sky Monday, it was announced today.

Professors Hideo Itokawa of Tokyo university and Masao Takaya of Osaka City university jointly pronounced the rocket a "success" and said the data they had obtained from it would be sent to the International Geophysical Year headquarters.

Three Rescued as Yacht Takes Water

Honolulu — (UPI) — Three crewmen were rescued Monday from the yacht Mollilou 90 miles north of Oahu en route to the mainland after the vessel began taking water.

The Coast Guard cutter Winnebago removed skipper Robert Sloane, 23, Costa Mesa, Calif., and his crewmen Richard McKane, 27, Newport Beach, Calif., and David Kaanapu, 24, Honolulu.
