

JACKSONVILLE Officers Assume Duties

By BETTE HOSKINS
 Jacksonville — The last Jacksonville Garden club meeting until September was held June 24 at the home of Miss Claire Hanley with the new officers taking over their duties.

Mrs. Harold Reed, president, appointed her new committees for the term 1958-59. Miss Hanley reported on the Garden club convention she and Mrs. R. T. Nichol attended at Eugene, where Mrs. Nichol was installed as Siskiyou district director, Oregon State Federation of Garden clubs. She in turn appointed as her officers Mrs. W. W. Winghamam and Miss Claire Hanley.

There were three members with perfect attendance records for the term 1957-58. They were Mrs. Harold Reed, Mrs. Paul Goodward and Mrs. Ray Coleman. There were 18 members and six visitors present at the meeting.

Guests were Mrs. Ona Paul, Mrs. Cliff Moss, Mrs. Tom Burnfield, Mrs. Motchenbacher, Mrs. Walter Sutherland and Mrs. Maud Port, a former member, now of Eugene. Mrs. H. Reed and Mrs. R. T. Nichol assisted the hostesses, Miss Claire and Martha Hanley. Mrs. W. W. Winghamam and Mrs. Harold Reed poured. Mrs. Reed stated that she intends to stress horticulture at the meetings next year.

Charles Welch reports another mountain climbing expedition this week. Last Sunday he and his father, Robert Welch, joined a group of 18 climbers, all from the Mazama Mountain Climbing club, led by Thaddeus P. Gable and his son, Harold, of Portland.

The event was a mass assault climb up Mt. Hood with groups of climbers challenging the mountain from all sides. Welch stated he and his father were in the group approaching from the south side of the mountain, leaving Timberline lodge at 1:30 a.m. and arriving at the top at 10 a.m. The temperature recorded at the top of the mountain was 20 degrees. It was necessary, due to snow, sleet and fog, for the climbers to take a compass course and be roped together on the trip down the mountain. They got back at 5:30 p.m.

Charles also reports encountering a crater on the side of the mountain which emitted very strong sulphur fumes and in the process of sitting on a rock to take a picture discovered that the rocks in the area were all uncomfortably warm.

Mrs. Pearl Jordan, accompanied by her son, David, and his friend Robert Ellis, Mrs. Robert Lamb of Medford and Susan Buntjer, a niece of Mrs. Ellis, returned this week from a month's vacation trip.

Mrs. Jordan visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hewitt and other relatives in Hanna, N. D. en route home they stopped in Emmett, Idaho, where Mrs. Lamb visited friends and relatives. Sightseeing included Crater of the Moons in Idaho, the Painted Canyon in the Badlands in Dakota, Yellowstone National park in Wyoming. Susan remained in Calvin, N. D., where she will spend the summer with her grandparents.

The Henry Jordan family, residents here for several years, are moving this week to Sacramento, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Coleman of Klamath Falls spent a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coleman recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Nunan of Ventura, Calif., were recent visitors in Jacksonville. They called on old friends, including the H. K. Hanna's.

Nunan and Judge Hanna attended St. Mary's college in Oakland in 1901. The Nunans were en route to British Columbia and Alaska and also visited friends in Medford and made a trip to Crater Lake National park.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Halstead and son, Scott, of Olympia, Wash., called on the Jack Longs last week. Halstead was a former resident here and visited other friends in southern Oregon while they were here.

Mrs. Roger Keener, the former Helen Serry, now of Rosemeade, Calif., was a visitor in Jacksonville recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Eaton and two grandchildren of Antioch, Calif., were afternoon visitors at the home of Mrs. Eaton's brother, Milton James, one day last week.

Mrs. Edith Schrammcke, a former resident here, born in England, is on a month's tour of Europe and the Holy Land. She and a friend, Mrs. Bell Cline, of Medford, are making the guided tour.

Mrs. Jessie Walker of Portland is a guest this week of Mrs. Jennie Walker and her daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Babcock.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wall last week were Mrs. Wall's sister-in-law and brother of Yuma, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Omer Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wall entertained 45 relatives and friends last Friday night with a home made ice cream party honoring their son, Russell, who is home on leave from the Alameda Navy base. He expects to return to his station after the July 4th holiday.

Mrs. Rose Rippey recently attended funeral services for her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Pence, of Bass Lake, Calif. Services were held in Fresno. While there Mrs. Rippey visited another sister, Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, who returned here with her for a week's visit, after which Mrs. Rippey accompanied her back to Fresno and spent another week there before returning home last week.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hamaker this week have been Mrs. Hamaker's brother and family, M/Sgt. Mike Rock, his wife and children Michael, Terry, Sandra, Lo Rea, and Robin Lynn, all of Lincoln, Neb., where Rock is stationed at an airbase. While on leave they have also visited Rock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Rock, former residents of Jacksonville, now of Agate Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Watts and Mrs. R. Darting of Central Point. Mrs. Watts is Rock's aunt and Mrs. Darting his grandmother.

News About Books From the Library

"What is the Jackson County library, and what is its relationship to the Medford Public Library?" is a frequent inquiry.

The Jackson county library is a service rendered to rural residents of the county by the Medford Public Library under a contract between the Medford public library board and the Jackson county court. At the present time this service is supplied chiefly through nine community branch libraries in Butte Falls, Central Point, Eagle Point, Jacksonville, Gold Hill, Phoenix, Talent, Shady Cove and Table Rock.

As soon as financial support permits, it is planned to extend the service by means of bookmobile routes and direct mail to readers who live beyond convenient access to the community libraries.

Anyone Entitled

"Then who is entitled to borrow from the Jackson county on the Medford public library?" Anyone, in short, residing within the county can obtain a library card and make full use of the nearest branch agency or the headquarters library.

For those residing in the area from which the library derives its financial support the service is free; residents of the districts which have elected to operate separate library systems rather than to support the county library service pay a small fee in lieu of tax support. Vacationers and other transients may also have library cards under special arrangements providing for them.

Two hundred thirteen volumes were added to the library during the month of June, bringing the total number in the collection to just under 44,000, all of which are available through county branch agencies.

Forty-one of those added this month were the gifts of Ethel M. Thompson, Mrs. Fred Landers, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Crawford, Arthur H. Thompson, Mrs. Florence Bailey, Mrs. Ken Newland and Mrs. Elmer Renzwick.

Eighty-one new titles were received during the month, of which a partial listing has already been published in this column. Others are as follows:

Home Building: A Treasury of Contemporary Houses, Architectural Record; 82 distinctive houses from Architectural Record, Architectural Record; Practical Houses for Contemporary Living, Graf; Perfect Home Idea-Book, Perfect Home magazine.

History: Then Came the Railroads, Clark; Rivers, Man and Myths, Brittain; Death of a Nation, Dowd; Exploring with Fremont, Preuss.

Other Non-Fiction: Prayers, Marshall; Doctors to the World, Morgan; Erika and the King, Lauchtag.

Serious Fiction: Black Grapes, De Stefani; The Time of the Dragons, Ekert-Rotholz; I'm Not Still, Frisch; The Hard Blue Sky, Grau.

Romance: Thy Wedded Husband, O'Connor; Roses are for Love, Newcomb; Make-Believe Mother, Gaddis; Change of Heart, Baldwin.

Western Stories: Man from the High Plains, Winterbotham; Edge of the Desert, Cheshire; Seven for Revenge, Keene.

Other Fiction: Elizabeth, by Name, Cook; Under the Winter Moon, Brooke; Mountain Stallion, Forster; As Music and Splendor, O'Brien; The Color of Murder, Symons; The Darling Buds of May, Bates; Miss Maggie and the Doctor, Troy.

Buried Treasure by Pinkney Gage

Earlier Edition of 'Evangeline' Has Value

Longfellow's "Evangeline" may be an indifferent poem, but if you ever come across a copy of the second or third edition—let alone the first—you might as well profit by it.

A book scout bought a copy of the second edition, published at Boston, 1848, for $20 and had no difficulty in selling it within a week for $40. Now he has an order for a first edition with an offer of $150 if the condition is good.

However, if he finds a first edition in good condition, he will be able to get considerably more than that.

The reason is that first editions of the famous poem, though not at all rare, are difficult to find in the original condition. Usually, they are either in poor shape or have been rebound.

The little book, measuring approximately 7 1/4 by 4 1/2 inches, was first published in tuckered boards by William D. Ticknor Co., of Boston, in 1847, that date appearing on the title page.

There should be 163 pages, and the publisher's list of advertisements should be dated Oct. 1, 1847.

Unfortunately, over the years some unscrupulous persons have attempted to forge a first edition. The way to tell whether a copy you find is genuine is by the small printer's ornament on the title page above the word "Boston." If the ornament consists of a dash with a square, rather than a circular dot, then the title page is not forged.

Another proof of the first issue is to be found in line one of page 61. If the letters "ng" are missing from the word "long," then you know you have a first issue of the first edition.

Any copy that doesn't have the original covers, or even if some of the pages are missing, will still have some value. In fact, special bindings sometimes increase the value of a book, if they happen to be of well-tooled and inlaid leather.

PEACHBLOW GLASS VASE OBTAINED AT $15 BARGAIN

A friend who recently made the glass and it was used for a vast variety of objects. In general, it is impossible to tell the source of a given piece, but in the case of the vase my friends bought because it was pretty, the probability is it was produced by a firm in Wheeling, W. Va.

The reason is that the interior of the vase, which stood about 14 inches high, had a white lining. In other words, the interior was made of a different type of glass from that on the outside which shaded from a light, creamy yellow on the bottom to a deep, vivid red at the lip.

Most pieces of peachblow glass, known to have been made by other firms, do not have the white lining.

But whether a piece has such a lining or not makes little difference in its value. The important thing is the beautiful coloring, the shading which gives it the name.

As for the reason why my friend's wife was so impressed—she was quite aware that the vase her husband gave her cost from $100 to $200 in most shops.

PERFORATIONS ADD EXTRA VALUE TO STAMPS

Such simple things as the number of perforations in two centimeters, along the side of a stamp and knowing the kind of a press on which a stamp was printed can mean a difference of hundreds of dollars to anyone.

An example is in the two-cent stamp put out in honor of President Harding after his death on Aug. 2, 1923.

Some of the black, two-cent stamps were printed on a rotary press and others on a flat bed press and others have 11 perforations and others have 10.

Whoever finds one of these stamps that was printed on a rotary press and has 11 perforations has an item with a catalogue value of $750, cancelled—the stamp isn't known in the uncancelled state—as against about 20 cents for the other kinds.

It is easy enough to tell whether one of the two-cent items has the high value. All one has to do is remember that the number of perforations refers to the number contained in a line two centimeters long. It does not refer to the total number of perforations on the side of the stamp. Therefore, the thing to do is to use a ruler showing centimeters rather than inches.

As for determining the kind of press on which a stamp has been printed, it isn't as difficult as it might seem. Stamps printed on a rotary press are printed from curved plates. The plates used on a flat bed are flat.

Rotary printed stamps, because of the curved plates, are either longer or wider than flat bed printed stamps, depending on the way in which the image of the stamps was curved on the plates.

The difference can easily be determined by measuring stamps of identical design but printed on the different presses. And in this case, too, it is well to use a ruler graduated in centimeters since the graduations are usually finer than on rulers showing inches.

Grange News

Bellview Grange
 At the regular Grange meeting July 1, Joyce Kerr's letter of thanks for her 4-H Scholarship to Summer School was read.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gillette announced that final preparations are being made for the Siskiyou 4-H prefair to be held at the Bellview Grange hall on July 10. Noon luncheon will be served to all who care to attend this annual event.

Visitors for the evening were Floyd Workman and Buzz Dibble, members of Southern Oregon Square Dance Callers association, who explained at length the enjoyment all can get from square dancing. As a result of their presentation, a square dance has been scheduled for July 12 at 8 P.M. at the Bellview Grange hall, and an invitation is issued to everyone to attend. Workman and Dibble will call at that time.

Lecturer Frances Worth's program consisted of an historical quiz in honor of Independence Day, and a comical skit in which John and Priscilla were remembered. Those playing the parts were Mrs. Bud Zimmerlee, Lawrence Jacobs, Lloyd Hoadley and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Malin. Mrs. Worth also announced that a new branch library is now open at 1821 Siskiyou blvd., and books not in stock there can be requested from the main library at any time at this branch.

During the social hour following the meeting refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gettling, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gosha, Mr. Henry Enders and Miss Nora Chamberlain.
