Misfortune Finally Catches Up With Hollywood Singer; Files Bankruptcy

Hollywood — (UPI) — Songstress Mae Williams, who outstayed polio but hasn't had a chance with Lady Luck, makes a command appearance today — in bankruptcy court.

Only three years ago, the 36-year-old blonde singing star began a comeback on the TV show "This Is Your Life."

"Today," she told United Press International, "the only articles of any value I have left, ironically, are a charm bracelet and a big gold horseshoe I got on 'This Is Your Life.'"

Mae's appearance before Federal Bankruptcy Referee Howard V. Calverly and her creditors marks the rock-bottom point of a career thwarted at every critical juncture by a stroke of bad luck.

"It really began to hit me in June of 1950, when I caught polio," she said. "I was on my way from New York to Miami with Janis Paige, who I was coaching for her opening at a club."

"Somewhere on the trip I got it. It paralyzed my whole left side. The doctors said I would never walk again."

Quick Relapse

However, she fought, and by December of the same year she thought she was ready for a comeback.

"I opened at the Copacabana in New York with Danny Thomas on Dec. 4. The next day I collapsed. The doctors said it was a relapse, and I couldn't get out of bed for 2½ months."

By June, 1951, however, she was pronounced cured, and she began to fight her way back again.

"For more than two years," she said, "it was a two-week engagement here and another one there. There was no fun. After the show, it was right home and to bed, like a prison."

"I felt like a baseball player with a sore arm — play for a while, then out on the jacket and keep warm."

In 1954 she got a break. She got her own show on a Los Angeles television station. It was called "Breakthrough," and she sang and told stories of persons who conquered seemingly unconquerable problems.

Disastrous Fall

Then, 30 days before she was expected to go network, it happened. She fell down a flight of stairs, fracturing two vertebrae and broke three ribs.

"They told me again I would never be able to walk, and this time they were right for four months," she said. "But I beat it."

She started singing again around Los Angeles, and then came the "This Is Your Life" show — and another comeback.

Is That So? By Eugene Burns, Ranger-Naturalist

Amman—In ancient times some writers felt there was an underground river linking the Jordan and the Nile. That was how they accounted for the fact that some of the fish in the Jordan are found nowhere else except in the Nile and other African rivers farther south.

Of these fish one of the most extraordinary is a type of catfish that lives in the Sea of Galilee and various springs — fountains as they are called — that rise on its shores. The fish does not live in the Jordan because of his preference for quiet waters and muddy bottoms.

According to well authenticated accounts, the fish leaves Galilee in the spawning season and goes up the small streams to the fountains where it lays its eggs in the warm shallow water.

Two observers who have seen this fish in its short migration report it as having the determination of the salmon. Even if the flow of water is dried up in places, the fish wriggles its way from mudholes to mudholes until it arrives at its destination. Furthermore, if interfered with, they squeak and make a sound not unlike a "cat at bay."

One naturalist who encountered a group of these fish on their overland journey tells of their "I selected six specimens, each over three feet long, slung them in a sack across my horse and carried them to camp nearly three miles distant. They were still alive and vigorous and continued so for two days

Four Thefts Are Reported to Police

Four thefts were reported to Medford police Monday and Tuesday.

Jerry Price Tobin, 1435 Euclid ave., told police Monday afternoon that a $25 Navajo rug and two wicker chairs worth $15 had been stolen from his home over the week end.

Marvin Clinton Minor, 328 North Riverside ave., reported the theft of $16 in cash from his trailer house.

Darrell LaVerne Fariss, 2870 Crater Lake highway, reported that while he was away fishing last week someone stole a 55-gallon oil drum containing 15 gallons of oil, a handpump and 15 feet of rubber hose, total value about $55, from a truck on his property.

Katharine Corison Kohler, 344 North Central ave., reported this morning that a Singer portable sewing machine had been taken from her home between Saturday morning and Monday morning.

The oldest orphanage still in use in the United States is Bethesda, near Savannah, Ga. It was opened in 1740 and was used as a Confederate hospital during the Civil War.

Hearings Slated In Washington on Freight Rates

Portland—K. C. Batchelder, traffic manager of West Coast Lumbermen's association, and William B. Adams, traffic attorney, will be in Washington, D. C., beginning July 14 to continue the fight to hold the rates on west coast lumber to eastern markets.

Southern lumbermen, through the Southern Hardwood Traffic association, have vigorously attacked the West Coast Lumbermen's association's request for a hold-down, or limited increase, to maintain a competitive position for west coast lumber in the current proceedings for general rate increases on lumber rates.

Full Membership

Hearings will be held before the full membership of the Interstate Commerce commission and both Batchelder and Adams will have an opportunity to cross-examine southern lumber witnesses, as well as present oral arguments on behalf of the west coast lumber industry.

Straight percentage increases, Batchelder pointed out, would put west coast lumber shippers at a disadvantage to their southern lumber competitors, for the rates from the greater distance from eastern markets.

The percentage increase being sought by the south, without the traditional hold-down which the West Coast Lumbermen's association has been able to have recognized each time freight rates are increased, would compound the differential and penalize west coast shippers.

The nation's first gold rush occurred in 1828 at Auraria, in northern Georgia. A U.S. mint was in operation nearby at Dahlonega, Ga., from 1838 to 1861.
