Dr. Eisenhower Starts Central American Mission

21-Day Trip for Good Will, Facts

Washington — (UPI) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower flew to Central America Saturday for a 21-day good will and fact-finding mission during which he generally will be hidden from public view.

Dr. Eisenhower, brother of the President, said in a statement at the airport that the trip will determine whether any changes are needed in U. S. policies and programs in the area.

He left aboard a military transport plane for Panama City, first stop on his tour, after conferring with the President at the White House.

Details Withheld
Details of his daily engagements and travel plans were withheld. The strict secrecy presumably was imposed by the White House to forestall any repetition of the spitting and stone-throwing demonstrations against Vice President Richard M. Nixon during his spring good will visit to South America.

Informed sources said, for example, that the Johns Hopkins University president will be kept "virtually invisible" during his stay in Panama.

A group of Panamanian students, said to be antagonistic to Panama's president, have asked to meet with Eisenhower. He told newsmen at the airport he would try to squeeze in a chat at the embassy during an hour when he is supposed to be changing clothes.

Indication of Trouble
Another indication that trouble may be brewing came from Guatemala where the newspaper Prensa Libre reported that "Trujillo elements" plan to demonstrate when Eisenhower arrives in Guatemala City.

White House Joins Drive for Program

Washington — (UPI) — The White House joined actively Saturday in attempts by senate military experts to draft a generally acceptable compromise on President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan.

Presidential Assistant Bryce N. Harlow, White House reorganization expert, paid week-end visits to senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and Chairman Styles Bridge (N.H.) of the Senate Republican Policy committee. Both are high-ranking members of the Senate Armed Services committee.

Harlow was understood to have discussed modifications of three controversial changes requested by President Eisenhower in the House-approved bill. The visits came in an atmosphere which appeared to be favorable for compromise.

Rogue River Firm Gets Contract for Renovation Work

Salter and Klien, Rogue River contractors, were awarded a contract for renovation work and an addition to Medford High school Friday night. Bids were opened by the school board.

Salter and Klien submitted a low bid of $356,770. Other bids were submitted by H. Barnett, Medford, $365,757, and Myers D. Jones, Medford, $385,624.

Work on renovation will start Monday, Leonard Mayfield, superintendent of Medford schools, said. High school renovation will be completed before school starts this fall, and the addition will be constructed following that.

Shop Rooms
The project will make available at least 15 more classrooms, including shop rooms, construction of which was started earlier this year.

The board also approved the sale of $1 million worth of additional bonds to finance construction projects. The projects include two new elementary schools, Wilson and Hoover, work at the high school and a multi-purpose stage and dressing room at West Side school.

The bonds were approved by district voters in an election Nov. 5, 1957. The two-year building program called for about $1,786,000 worth of construction.

The architect was authorized to proceed with plans for the West Side school work. Bids Scheduled
Bids will be opened Tuesday, July 29, for asphalt paving at Hedrick and Oak Grove schools, and experimental asphalt paving of areas under play equipment at West Side, Oak Grove, Wilson and Hoover schools. Mayfield was authorized to call for bids for fuel oil for Oak Grove, West Side, Lincoln and the school administration building.

Frank Bash was elected chairman of the board, and Bill Barker vice chairman Friday night. The board voted to visit new building projects July 29.

Sale of the oldest school bus, which will be replaced with a new vehicle, was announced.

Goldfine Accuses Group of 'Smear' Drive Against Him

Textile Millionaire Home for Week End

Washington — (UPI)—Bernard Goldfine, bristling with anger, bluntly accused House Influence investigators Saturday of conducting a "smear, pry and spy" campaign against him.

The New England textile millionaire told reporters as he left for Boston for the week end that the subcommittee was carrying on a "fishing expedition" in its inquiry into his relations with Chief Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

He issued his statement at Washington airport as he and his wife boarded a plane. He characterized the subcommittee, which has had him on the grid for five days, of acting like a "detective agency."

Predict Revelations
Goldfine was particularly incensed by the fact Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.), a subcommittee member, predicted that new revelations would come to light if the group could lay hands on Goldfine's business records.

Reading from a prepared statement, Goldfine declared: "That is exactly the point I have been making. This proves repeated statements that this committee is on a fishing expedition and looking into matters that are not pertinent or relevant to the inquiry at hand."

"A Congressional committee cannot, and should not, be permitted to take unto itself the role of a detective agency. The purpose of Congress is legislation and not to smear, pry and spy as has been the case up to now."

Charges 'Ridiculous'
Bennett called Goldfine's charges "ridiculous." Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said the Boston businessman was "entirely wrong."

There was also a reliable report that subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) has signed four subpoenas which would give investigators access to Goldfine's business records.

The subpoenas reportedly would demand that the industrial-financier give the subcommittee records of three of his firms — the East Boston company, its subsidiary, Boston Development company, and Northfield Mills.

Local Man Still Critical After Friday Accident

Others Injured Are Treated, Released

Donald Glenn Schrag, 27, of route 4, box 447B, Medford, Saturday night still was unconscious and in critical condition, according to Rogue Valley hospital attendants. He was injured in an accident Friday.

Schrag was the driver of a car involved in an accident with a Jeep station wagon driven by Richard Bridges Harrison, 30, of box 266, Phoenix. The accident occurred on Culver rd. a half mile from Phoenix about 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Others injured were treated at Rogue Valley hospital and released Friday. They were Harrison, his wife, Dorothy June, 29, daughter Sandra Kay, 15 months, and a passenger, Jesse Marion Chancellor Jr., 23, of 510 Marie st., Medford, according to hospital attendants.

Drive Toward Phoenix

State police said Schrag was driving toward Phoenix on Culver rd. when the car failed to make the curve. It ran off the road on the wrong side, skidded on a shoulder and struck the station wagon, police reported. The force of the collision knocked the station wagon on its side, officers said.

State police said no action against Schrag is planned at present because of his condition.

In another accident Clyde Dempsey Chandler, 26, of 2650 Old Highway 99, south, Ashland, was reported in good condition in Ashland General hospital Saturday, according to hospital attendants. He is suffering abrasions.

Pinned Inside Truck
Chandler was pinned inside the cab of his logging truck Saturday afternoon on the Dead Indian rd., about four miles east of Highway 66. A wrecker, scoopmobile and two hydraulic jacks were used to free him.

State police said the truck's brakes failed going downhill. As the truck rounded a curve, it turned over and skidded 153 feet on its top into a roadside ditch. Some logs were thrown as far as 200 feet, police said.

Chandler told officers he could have jumped but stayed with his truck because of heavy traffic on the road. The truck met two cars on the road and narrowly missed both of them, he told officers.

Recess Called in Smith Jury Trial

The trial of Roger Smith, 106 Crater Lake highway, was recessed Friday afternoon until Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. by Circuit Court Judge O. J. Millard.

The state concluded its testimony Friday at 3 p.m. after more than a dozen witnesses for the defense were called including Medford City Police Captain Clyde Fichtner, and a Jackson county sheriff's deputy. Defense attorney is George Rode.

Smith is charged with removing a safe from Southern Oregon Distributors, 710 South Grape st., on March 30. District Attorney Thomas J. Reeder presented the state's case.

Lake Boundary Maps Received by Court

Boundary maps of the Emigrant reservoir and vicinity and Howard Prairie dam and reservoir areas are posted in the Jackson county court room in the county court-house.

The maps show the proposed outlines of the areas when the Talent irrigation project will be completed, and includes proposed recreation sites. The bureau of reclamation maps may be viewed by interested persons.

RECEIVE PINS—Among the 43 employees of the State Highway department who were awarded service pins last week were Paul Robertson, left, Medford, and his brother, Lewis, Prospect, (center) who have served in the construction division of the department in this area for 32 and 34 years, respectively. Congratulating them, above, is District Maintenance Superintendent James F. Putnam. Paul Robertson's son, Wilmer, having been with the department for more than 10 years, also received a service pin. Lewis Robertson, who is two years older than Paul, began working out of Medford in 1924. Paul started in Prospect about two years later and in 1938 they switched jobs. Both men were 24 years old when they went to work for the department.

Burglary Suspect Escapes Police In Brookings Area

Brookings — (UPI) — A 22-year-old burglary suspect who escaped from a state policeman Saturday en route to police headquarters here was being sought by teams of police in the Harbor area.

Object of the manhunt was Gerald J. Clemmer of Lakeside, wanted for questioning in the burglary of a hamburger stand in Trinidad, Calif., Friday night.

Police said Clemmer was on foot and that all highways were being patrolled and adjacent areas combed. Airplanes were being used in the search, which is in rugged, isolated rimrock country.

He was not believed armed. Car Stuck
State policeman Bob Palmer said he came upon Clemmer and a companion, Paul Zytka, 15, also of Lakeside, with their car stuck on Winchuck river road near Brookings. He helped them free the vehicle, he said, but then noticed rolls of coins, cartons of cigarettes, a set of new tires and a new radio in the car. The back seat was also full of hot dogs, he said.

Palmer decided to take them back to Brookings and ordered Zytka to ride in the patrol car. He instructed Clemmer to drive ahead of the police car toward Brookings.

On a curve, Clemmer pulled over suddenly and fled into the underbrush, Palmer said. The policeman returned to Brookings with Zytka and the search was launched.

The search area is about 13 miles south of where an armed fugitive, Henry Hill, was shot to death last May attempting to break through a police roadblock.

Princess Margaret Arrives in Canada For Official Visit

Victoria, B.C. — (UPI) — Britain's pert Princess Margaret stepped smartly from a luxury airliner Saturday to be welcomed by thousands of cheering Canadians and American tourists to a month-long 4,000-mile official tour of Canada.

Margaret began her first official visit to the Dominion as the representative of her sister, Queen Elizabeth II. But she received a personal tribute of her own when British Columbia offered her an entire island, to be named in her honor and developed as a park.

The Princess made a 19-hour flight from London, with stopovers in Goose Bay, Labrador, and Vancouver, B.C. She crossed the Atlantic on a British Overseas Airways Bristol Britannia "Whispering Giant" turbo-prop piloted by Capt. James Percy.

Refueled at Goose Bay
The plane refueled at Goose Bay and then flew across Canada non-stop to Vancouver. Margaret slept through the Labrador stop.

At Vancouver, Margaret left the BOAC plane and boarded a Royal Canadian Air Force C-5 luxury transport for the short hop to Patricia Bay airport, north of Victoria.

Margaret has visited Canada before, but not as an official representative of the Queen. She made three stopovers in Canada while on other tours.

Her visit began officially with a message of welcome from Governor General Vincent Massey.

As required by protocol, defense Minister George Pearkes flew from Ottawa to represent the federal government and welcome her to Canada at Vancouver. Then she was greeted to British Columbia by the province's Lieutenant Governor, Frank MacKenzie Ross.

$6.75 Million in Construction Jobs Stopped by AGC

Tight Schedule Noted by Official

A stop-work order by the Associated General Contractors has halted approximately $6,750,000 in construction work on the Talent project.

This is the second time in less than three months that labor disputes have crippled the project. A strike by construction workers early in May lasted 12 days.

"Any delay now is just too bad," James A. Callan, construction engineer for the bureau of reclamation, said last night.

Pretty Tight Program
"We are on a pretty tight program this summer," he added. "If it lasts a week it would put us behind quite a bit. It would be doubtful if we could finish this year after that."

Callan said the two major jobs halted so far were "very critical" and due for completion this year.

The AGC's order was issued last week in reply to a strike by the Operating Engineers union. The strike began in southwest Washington Wednesday and spread into northern Oregon Thursday.

No Pickets Observed
No pickets have been observed in the Talent area. However, the AGC said in its order that, "a strike against one is a strike against all." It called on all AGC members employing operating engineers to halt operations.

Sherf Brothers, Sandkey and Birch complied Friday, idling approximately 180 workers on the Howard Prairie delivery canal. Cheney, Cherf and Associates stopped work yesterday in the Keene Creek area, including the dam, power conduit and two tunnels. About 110 workers were involved. The two contractors together employ an estimated 75 operating engineers.

A total of about $350 million in construction work in Oregon and Washington has been paralyzed so far. This includes the Swift dam on the Lewis river in Washington, two dams on Oregon's Clackamas river, and most major highway work in Oregon.

Highway Work Stops
M. C. Lininger and Sons, Medford general contractors, stopped work Friday on narrowing the center strip on Siskiyou Blvd. in Ashland.

Labor and management representatives are scheduled to meet in Portland Monday morning with Federal Mediator Leroy Smith. A meeting for nearly four hours Friday produced no results. The union is reportedly asking a 98 cents per hour package pay increase, retroactive to the start of the year, a hiring hall and a termination date of June 30, 1961, for the new contract. The old contract expired June 30 of this year.

The strike in May affected the same two contractors on the Talent project plus the Wismer and Becker and P. S. Lord combine, which held a $1,787,000 contract. This combine has taken no action so far in the present situation. The union eventually won a 50 cents per hour wage increase to be spread over three years.

Veterans Council Asks Closure on Vets Day

The Veterans Allied Council of Jackson county has asked cooperation of businesses and industry in Jackson county to close Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

In a resolution addressed to industrial organizations and business establishments, the Council urged that "Medford and Jackson county take the lead and set the good example for the rest of the state in carrying out the wishes of the President . . . in the proper observance of the one day of the year when we can join together to renew our faith in our country and those who have so nobly defended it at all costs."
