

Permanent Chrome Industry Possible with Bill's Passage

Permanent chrome industry may be possible for southern Oregon with establishment of a proposed cooperative chrome producers marketing association, according to Bruce J. Maaley, Medford attorney and president of the California Oregon Chrome Producers association.

All chromium ferroalloys purchased by the government shall be placed in a stabilization stockpile to be released only when such materials are in short supply in the United States. This would be determined by the secretary of the interior following consultations with representatives of domestic industries producing and consuming ferrochromium alloys.

Materials released from the stabilization stockpile shall be sold by the secretary only to meet deficiencies in the current use requirements of domestic industry or agencies of the Federal government, the bill proposes. Such sales shall be made to domestic consumers and producers, and to established independent dealers and distributors dealing primarily in materials produced in the United States and to agencies of the federal government, according to the provisions of the bill. None of this material shall be sold for export or for use in materials intended primarily for export, according to Manley.
