

Many Valley Members Attend Adventist Camp In Session at Portland

Services will be conducted as usual in the Medford Seventh-day Adventist church the following two weeks, though a large number of its members are attending the annual Oregon Conference camp meeting now in session at Gladstone Park near Portland.

One exception is the Missionary Volunteer meeting regularly scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Saturdays, which has been cancelled during the camp meeting period. F. W. Cook will conduct the 11 a.m. worship service Saturday and Eli Davis next Saturday in the absence of Pastor Elder John D. Trude.

A number of families from the Rogue Valley area are spending the entire ten days of the July 27 through 27 session at the camp where tents, cabins and trailer space are available. Others will attend only on week ends.

Pastor Trude has been named chairman of the music committee, which involves coordinating musical aspects of the ten day encampment. This includes congregational singing and special numbers presented in the auditoriums on the campgrounds.

Mr. Trude is helping pitch camp at the park along with other ministers of the 110 churches in the Oregon conference.

Those attending will hear reports from the recently concluded General Conference meetings held in Cleveland.

Harold Mackey, new pastor of Immanuel Methodist church, left Tuesday afternoon for Berkeley, Calif., to attend a workshop on Church and Community Studies sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ. Dr. Groves will meet with the building committee of the Cave Junction church to consider the next step toward the construction of a new parsonage. A preliminary meeting of the committee was held last Sunday afternoon following a potluck picnic at Grayback park. It was decided to get approval of a basic floor plan and submit it to the architect for detailed planning of a structure which would fit in with the design of the church plant.

The building committee is headed by John Smith as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Art Kellert, Mrs. Wesley Vahrenwald, Robert G. Smith, Hugh Foster, Dick Rians, Mrs. Vernon Larson and L. W. Archer.

Jehovah's Witnesses Plan for World Meet

By PATRICIA McCORMACK, United Press International
New York — (UPI)—The world's largest city already is bursting at the seams to house more than 150,000 visitors from 120 lands gathering for the world Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, beginning here July 27.

It will be one of the largest religious assemblies ever seen, so big that the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, legal corporation for the Witnesses, has leased the Yankee Stadium for the eight days of meetings. Transportation facilities also have been strained to bring the Witnesses to New York. They are coming by chartered ships, planes, trains, buses and cars from all points of the U.S., and most countries around the globe.

Preparations have been months in the making. As one indication of the problems involved in just getting delegates here, Worth Thornton, of the Watchtower headquarters staff, disclosed that 65 special planes were chartered to bring Witnesses from points as distant as New Zealand, the Rhodesias, the Far East and South America.

Two chartered ships will unload 800 delegates each from Europe. Block reservations have been made on other liners.

Travel arrangements for U.S. delegates were made through 45 travel committees from coast to coast. Eight special trains, about 500 chartered buses and 18,000 auto pools are involved.

Arriving delegates will be able to have questions answered by ministers manning information booths on the highways approaching the city and in the bus, rail and air depots.

Sign Directions
Some 30,000 signs will be posted about New York to direct all to Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds. And there will be a lost and found department which, the last time the Witnesses met in New York, "found" 50 children a day.

Once delegates get to Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, there's bound to be something refreshing about what they see on the playing field—no matter how weary the body.

Seven months in the making, the stages there are designed to look like something out of heaven's courtyard.

The one for Yankee Stadium has imitation mountains, a waterfall, a 5000-gallon pool, pink marble benches and will be flanked by formal gardens.

The Polo Grounds stage will have flagstone walks, bird baths, an old well with bucket, birches, evergreens and a 2,000-gallon pool.

A highlight of the Assembly will be a public baptism during which the subject, clad in bathing suit, is immersed in water.

The rite, according to Witness tradition marks the burying of a former course of life and the start of one of devotion to the Creator.

Phoenix Group Sets Teacher Conference

Christians Discuss Using Armed Forces in Disputes

By LOUIS CASSELS, United Press International
Can Christians conscientiously support the use of military force to resolve international disputes?

Pacifists answer that question with a categorical "no." Most Christian theologians, Catholic and Protestant, answer it with a heavily qualified "yes."

The debate has been going on for centuries. It is always intensified by events, like the current Middle East crisis, which force people to think of war as something more than an abstract possibility.

Although pacifists have historically been in the minority, they have one great advantage in the ancient debate: their position is much more simple, clear-cut and easy to explain.

Essentially the pacifist argument goes like this: Antithesis of Jesus
War is totally evil. It is destructive of human life and human values. In this era of nuclear weapons particularly,

Christians who are non-pacifists agree that aggressive or "preventive" war cannot be morally justified under any circumstances, and that even a defensive war is inherently contrary to Christian teachings. But they believe there are some circumstances in which a willingness to resort to force is the lesser of two evils.

Between Two Evils
Prof. Robert McAfee Brown of Union Theological seminary puts it this way:

Suppose you are walking down the street and see a thug beating up a defenseless man. You know that Christ has commanded you to love your neighbor. But who is your neighbor in this particular situation, and how are you to express your love? If you refuse to intervene in the struggle, you tacitly give support to the thug. If you intervene, you have to use force.

A distinguished Catholic writer, John Cogley, put the same argument in different words. Militarism is evil, Cogley wrote in the magazine Commonweal, but Christians must also recognize that American armed might "has kept us from destruction."

"What peace we have is the bitter fruit of mutual fear. Therefore I could not conscientiously advise the U.S. government to strip itself of nuclear defenses and as long as I want America to maintain these fearful weapons, I must share the moral burden of their possible use."

Summer Conferences
A number of people from the local church have been taking advantage of the program of summer conferences at Camp Adams, near Molalla. The Rev. Thomas McCamant was a counselor at the junior camp last week. Campers from Medford were Billy Foulon and Freddy and Sandra Aguirre. The Women's retreat was held the early part of this week and the Leadership camp is in session the latter part of the week.

The sermon by Mr. McCamant at the 10 a.m. service Sunday will conclude the series of "Where?" sermons. The topic will be: "Where Are You Going?" The Rogue valley camp of Gideons will be represented at the service by George McUne, who will also sing a solo.

There will be a meeting of the church council Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the parsonage. The chief purpose will be to discuss the fall program and schedule.

Church of Brethren To Conduct School

Daily vacation Bible school will begin at the Medford Church of the Brethren Monday at 9 a.m. The school will be conducted from Monday through Friday each week for two weeks.

Departments of teaching in four age group areas have been provided with the Judson press materials being used. The kindergarten, pre-school age, will follow the study, "Learning About Jesus," the primary topic will be "Tell Me the Stories of Jesus," the junior department, "We Would See Jesus," and the junior high classes will study the course, "Jesus the Great Leader."

The courses will be supplemented with two film strips, "Palestine in Jesus' Day."

Eastwood Baptist Continues Series

"Thy Will Be Done" is the theme of the sermon for the 11 a.m. service at the Eastwood Baptist church, North Keene Way dr. at Ridgeway. It is the fourth sermon in a series on "The Lord's Prayer" being given by the pastor, the Rev. Richard M. Jones.

Mr. Jones will also sing the baritone solo, "Consider the Lilies," and Mrs. Dean Anderson will be at the organ. The chancel choir will also sing.

The Baptist Youth fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. There is no evening service during the summer months.

Eastwood Baptist church is located north of Hedrick Junior High school and is affiliated with the American Baptist convention. Visitors are invited to all services.

SUNDAY TOPIC
Talent — "God Wondered" will be the 11 a.m. worship service topic Sunday at Talent Friends church by the pastor, A. Clark Smith.
