Central Point — Dr. and Mrs. Norman Kendall Tully are making their home at 348 North Seventh street, Central Point, following their wedding June 21 in Elliott Prairie at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Oathout. The bride is the former Esther Long of Salem.

The newlywed couple will be honored at a reception to-night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Faber, 415 Hazel street, Central Point, at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Harold Roberts, minister of visitation at First Presbyterian church, Medford, and former field assistant in national missions in the Synod of Oregon, officiated at the 11:30 o'clock ceremony attended by 35 relatives and friends.

The bride wore a rose-beige peau de soie sheath dress fashioned with shawl collar. Her accessories were white and she carried a bouquet of white orchids. Mrs. Oathout gave her in marriage.

Smiths Return From Trip North

Mr. and Mrs. Justin Smith have returned to their home in Medford after spending a month in Alaska. Two major events enlivened the Smiths' visit—the passing of the congressional bill approving statehood for Alaska, and the recent earthquake.

The Smiths spent considerable time with their son and daughter-in-law, First Lt. and Mrs. Justin Smith, Fairbanks. Lieutenant Smith is on duty at Elson Air Force base near Fairbanks. Mrs. Smith is the former Kathleen Guiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Guiley, 605 Park street.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were in Fairbanks when the news of passage of the statehood bill was received, and witnessed the jubilant celebration. A large golden "49" star was lighted on the top of the largest building, business was suspended and residents in a gay holiday mood thronged the streets.

The Smiths were particularly interested in the special editions of newspapers published and brought home copies of the Fairbanks Daily News Miner. Much material of historical interest had been prepared in advance, and the editions were large and colorful. Hundreds of copies were flown to Washington, D.C., they reported.

The visitors found that many residents, however, were opposed to statehood and these are prepared to campaign against the proposition until the special election planned for August.

The travelers were in Juneau at the time of the earthquake, and witnessed its effects, particularly on the glaciers and icebergs. Huge pieces of the glaciers broke off during the strong quake, and a number of tidal waves resulted, they report.

The Smiths made the trip by plane.
