

Miss Paulette Jardine (at right) in her Hawaiian muu muu and lei, presents an interesting contrast to Miss Pat Bigham in cotton pedal pushers and striped cotton blouse, typical clothing worn by Rogue valley teenagers in the summer time. Miss Jardine and her mother, Mrs. John Jardine (at left) with Mr. Jardine are guests in Medford of Mr. and Mrs. John Mansfield, 1615 Crater Lake avenue. Mrs. Mansfield honored the visitors at a coffee Friday morning at her home, and Mrs. Jardine spoke for a meeting of Medford Travel Study club last Tuesday. The Jardines, on a two month's tour of the United States, plan to remain in the valley for the opening night performance of the Oregon Shakespearean festival before going to San Francisco. Mr. Jardine, business manager of Hilo Memorial and Puuamale hospitals on the island of Hawaii, is a member of the Hilo Junior Chamber of Commerce, and his wife, a sales clerk for F. Kaehnen Ltd., is a member of the Hilo Jayceettes, of Hilo Business and Professional Women's club, Lady Elks, and Mauna Kea chapter. Companions of the Forest, a fraternal organization. Miss Jardine, a high school student, explained that muu muus are worn as lounging or party clothing, and during Aloha days are worn everywhere. There are many variations of the muu muu.

Visitor Speaks For Travel Club

Guest speaker for the last meeting of Medford Travel Study club, held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Beryl Lyon, was Mrs. John Jardine, Hilo, Hawaii. Mrs. Jardine, her husband and daughter, Paulette, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Mansfield, 1615 Crater Lake avenue. Mr. Jardine is business manager of Hilo Memorial and Puuamale hospitals on the island of Hawaii.

The Jardines are completing a tour of the United States. Both the Jardines and their daughter have lived all their lives in Hawaii.

Mrs. Jardine spoke to the club about the customs of the natives and of the Aloha festival in October. Part of the festival is the Fire Goddess sacrifice which takes place at the rim of Kilauea crater, said to be the home of Pele the goddess.

A dish made from the monkey pod tree which was planted by Mark Twain in 1866 was one of the articles Mrs. Jardine displayed. Miss Jardine, 16, modeled a number of muu muus. One she explained was a "grandmother muu muu" or tutu muu which translated means "big bag."

Bake fresh tomatoes in cream or grill them over the barbecue or picnic fire. Slice tomatoes into shallow baking dish or foil pan and sprinkle with instant minced onion, salt and a little nutmeg. Pour over some heavy cream (about ½ cup is right for 4 large tomatoes); dot with butter. Bake or grill until tomatoes are tender. Look for moisture-free onion in jars or foil packets at your grocers.

Recipe for Yoghurt Provided

Corvallis — Tart, smooth-textured yoghurt, a fermented milk product that Turks and Arabs thrive on, can be made cheaply and easily at home. Yoghurt has the consistency of cultured sour cream or heavy salad dressing, but fewer calories.

Roy Stein, superintendent of the Oregon State college dairy products laboratory, provides this recipe for home-made yoghurt.

Ingredients: 1 quart of homogenized, pasteurized milk or fresh raw whole milk; 2/3 cup instant soluble skim milk powder; commercial yoghurt or a starter from a previous yoghurt batch; and a candy thermometer.

Procedure: Mix the instant soluble skim milk powder with the quart of milk and heat in a double boiler to just under boiling temperature. Keep hot for 30 minutes. Cool to 110-115 degrees.

Add 1 tablespoon of yoghurt culture.

Pour mixture into sterilized wide mouth jelly glasses. Place glasses in a pan of water kept at 110-115 degrees. To maintain even temperatures, insert the candy thermometer in the pan, place in low oven with door open. Stein says that if the temperature drops, longer incubation will be needed, but if the temperature rises the organism may be killed, and the mixture will not ferment. Cover and let stand at this temperature for 5 to 6 hours. Milk should have a firm curd at the end of this time.

Refrigerate and chill. Makes 2½ pints.

Homogenized milk makes a heavier bodied, smoother textured yoghurt than natural milk, Stein says.

It isn't practical to make yoghurt at home, Mr. Stein feels, unless the homemaker has time to make it, and the family likes and eats a lot of it. Cost of making 2½ pints is about 35 cents. Other uses suggested for the health food are as low calorie salad dressing or garnish for vegetables.

Club to Celebrate Birthdays in July

Townsend club members having July birthdays will be honored with a birthday cake, Wednesday, July 23, according to the club president, Leon Rusko. A program will follow the business meeting.

At last week's auxiliary meeting, two visitors were present. A short business session was followed by readings and a song by a guest of the group. The meeting closed with a penny drill and music. Visitors are welcome to all Townsend club meetings.

Poached Eggs In a Spin

Here's a neat trick for a very special cook who likes and deserves compliments. Choose a saucpan that's at least 8 inches deep. Fill it 2/3 full of water and bring it to a fast rolling boil. Add one tablespoon of vinegar to the water. Break all the eggs you want to poach into a bowl. With a long-handled spoon, stir the water rapidly until a deep swirling funnel forms in the center. Drop the eggs quickly into the swirl, cover the saucpan immediately and turn off the flame. After five minutes, use a slotted spoon to fish out the perfect, oval shaped eggs and be prepared for applause.
