

Prescription Costs Up Pharmacy Survey Shows

Corvallis—It cost an average of $3.22 to buy a prescription in an Oregon drug store last year, according to a survey by two Oregon State college pharmacy professors.

This cost is up 24 cents over two years ago. The $3.22 price was 44 cents higher than the comparable national average.

Increased cost of prescriptions is due primarily to the greater use of antibiotics and newer, high-quality drugs. Increased cost of doing business was listed as a minor factor in the increased cost.

"People are getting better and more effective medicine and don't have to take so much of it," Dr. Leo Sciuchetti, professor of pharmacy said. About 70 per cent of the drugs used in prescriptions today were not available 10 years ago.

The study was made by Sciuchetti and Ben F. Cooper Jr., pharmacy professor. Prescriptions were collected by thank-you students during the Thanksgiving holiday.

Average price of the most sold prescription, tablets, was $3.17. Liquids, in second place, averaged $2.99; capsules, third, $3.36; and ointments, fourth, $2.35. Lowest average was for bulk powders, $1.74.

About 51 per cent of all prescriptions were priced at $2.50 or less, while two years ago 60 per cent were in the under $2.50 bracket.

Family Leaves For California; Guests at Cabin

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Toon, their daughters, Pamela and Priscilla, and their son, Bobby, have returned to their home in Fairfield, Calif., after spending two weeks in Medford visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Trent, 539 Pennsylvania ave.

Mrs. Trent is Mrs. Toon's mother.

While here, the Toons and the Trents motored to Roseburg, where they were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Randolph, 301 Vancouver avenue, Medford, at the Randolphs' cabin on the North Umpqua river.

The Randolphs and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Svensen, Crescent City, Calif., with their daughters, Karen and Marsha and son, Kenneth, have been vacationing at the cabin for the past 10 days.

Women Honored At Dinner Party

A dinner party held at the home of Mrs. Don Robins July 18 honored Mrs. A. O. Floyd and Mrs. Hans Rammin. Mrs. Harry Bryant was Mrs. Robins' cohostess. Members of the Jolly Stitches club were guests, and additional guests were Mrs. Don Anderson and Mrs. Virgil Sewley.

Gifts were presented to the honored women, and prizes for cards went to Mrs. Rammin, Mrs. John Russell, Mrs. Ralph Atwood and Mrs. Jessie Staggs.

The group will meet August 2 at the home of Mrs. H. R. Edward, Ross lane, at 6:30 p.m. for a picnic dinner.

Dance Planned Tonight at 'Y'

Medford YMCA will sponsor a dance for young people tonight at the "Y" building. Dancing will be from 8 until 10:30 p.m. and all young people are invited to attend.

Music will be provided by Purucker's store, and records will be given away during the evening.

Miss Sherryl Brattain is chairman of the dance.

Hot Mustard Sauce Good On Snap Beans

New York—UPI—Hot mustard sauce gives snap beans extra flavor and nutrition.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter or margarine in saucepan. Stir in 1 teaspoon flour, 1/2 teaspoon powdered dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon ground white pepper. Blend well. Mix 2 slightly beaten egg yolks with 3/4 cup milk and stir into mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice and pour over 1 pound cooked fresh snap beans. Serves 5-6.

Tasty Baked Peppers

New York—UPI—Baked whole green peppers make a tasty week-saver for busy cooks. Wash and dry large green peppers, place in baking pan in preheated moderate (375 degree) oven 45-50 minutes, or until tender. Serve hot, sprinkled with salt, pepper and olive oil to taste.

Avoid buying lettuce with rusty-red streaks or spots. Although not harmful, they spread throughout the head and spoil its appearance.

Methodists Leaving For Camp

Fifteen women from Medford and Ashland are leaving today to attend the 13th annual week end of Wesleyan Service guilds being held July 25-27 at Camp Magruder on the northern Oregon coast.

Mrs. Charles Adamson, Medford, Oregon conference secretary of the Wesleyan Service guild, is in charge of the program for the meeting which has as its theme "Forth in His Name I Go." She states that special emphasis will be on Christian witness in daily work.

Miss Marion Derby, New York, executive secretary of Latin America for the Woman's Division of Christian Service, will conduct the plenary session Saturday. Dr. Gertrude Boyd Crane, Pacific university, Forest Grove, will be on the program, as will Miss Laura Heist, Portland, returned missionary from India.

Miss Cora Mason, Ashland, Oregon conference secretary of spiritual life, Mrs. L. A. White, associate secretary of the Wesleyan Service guild of Eugene district, and Mrs. O. P. Taylor, conference secretary of status of women, will also be assisting with the program.

Others going from Medford are Miss Dixie Dixon and Mrs. Richard Stratton of Susannah Wesley unit; Miss Annette Gray, Mrs. Kathy Rhoads, Mrs. Dale Flowers and Mrs. Ann Gorby of the Ruth Esther unit; Mrs. A. C. James and Mrs. Mary Note of the Gladamson unit.

Those attending from Ashland, in addition to Miss Mason, are Miss Virginia Whittle, Mrs. Gerald Gunter and Miss Anita Sample.

Dakota Picnic To Be Sunday

The annual meeting of the Dakota Picnic association will be held at the east end of Touvelle State park, starting about noon on Sunday, July 27. On the committee for this year's picnic are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keierleber, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuest, Mr. and Mrs. Eric de Place, and Mr. and Mrs. John Carter. Music will be furnished by Mrs. C. R. Alexander and her band.

Events this year will include racing for the youngsters, a rolling pin throw for ladies, and various contests. There will be awards for the oldest woman, oldest man, longest married couple, newest married couple, youngest baby, largest family, and family or person traveling the longest distance to attend the picnic.

All former residents of North and South Dakota are invited to attend. All are to bring picnic lunch. Coffee, punch and ice-cream will be furnished by the association. A nominal charge per couple will be made to help defray expenses.

Bank in Texas Boasts Hostess On Roller Skates

Dallas —UPI—A young mother started a new idea rolling in bank merchandising. She became a bank hostess on skates.

Vivacious Mrs. Norma Coker, 18, spends 40 hours a week whirling about a five-lane drive-in bank handing out balloons and candy to children and directing traffic to the teller windows.

A former model, Mrs. Coker wears brief, colorful costumes for her job. In winter, she comes to work dressed in white Bermuda shorts and a sweater. In warmer weather, she wears a blouse and short, full skirt.

Mrs. Coker says the exercise and fresh air keeps her healthy. She enjoys her work, and the public likes her.

She also is a bookkeeper and secretary. After regular banking hours, she does secretarial work in the business office.

The skating hostess gets comments on her job from all over the world. One person from England said that "nowhere but in the United States, and nowhere in the U.S. but Texas, could such a thing be done."

Mrs. Coker got the job when she went to an employment agency looking for office work. The interviewer asked her if she could skate. Mrs. Coker said she could get around on wheels, so she was sent to the bank.

No Joke

But she thought it was a joke. "After all," she said, "whoever heard of a bank needing a roller skater?"

But the bankers weren't joking. They hired her.

Although she skates all day, Mrs. Coker is never too tired to go dancing at night with her husband, a fireman and weight-lifting champion. They prefer "jump music," she said.

The couple lives in a frame house in the city with their year-old daughter, but they hope to own a brick home, which she calls their "someday dream." Mrs. Coker keeps the wheels rolling at the bank to bring that "someday" closer, she said.

Mrs. Mable Goodwin Initiated by Corps

Central Point—Mrs. Mable Goodwin, Gold Hill, was initiated at the last meeting of Central Point Woman's Relief corps. Mrs. John Novak, president, conducted the meeting.

Members voted to purchase canteens for a number of wheel chair patients at Camp White.

Members having birthdays the last quarter were honored with a cake. Mrs. Novak and Mrs. Wallace McDowell served.

It was announced that pictures ordered by the corps have arrived and may be procured from Mrs. Maggie Behn.

Petal-Pretty Apron

7214

Be one of the prettiest at the party—serve your guests in this flower apron.

Delightful in 2 colors with third shade in outline stitch. Pattern 7214; transfer, directions for making dahlia apron. Perfect shower or hostess gift.

Send Thirty-five cents for this pattern—add 5 cents for each pattern for 1st-class mailing. Send to Medford Mail Tribune, Household Arts Dept., P. O. Box 168, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N.Y. Print plainly NAME, ADDRESS, PATTERN NUMBER.

Send Twenty-five cents more for a copy of our Alice Brooks Needlecraft Catalogue. Two complete patterns are printed right in the book... plus a variety of designs that you will want to order: crochet, knitting, embroidery, huck weaving, quilts, toys, dolls.

by Alice Brooks

Help Yourself To Happiness

This column is one of a series on marriage and family problems which appears weekly in this paper. It presents problems of everyday living and attempts to bring you the most expert opinion in this area. By combining clinical experience, research, and homespun practicality, we hope to assist you to help yourself to happiness.

Readers are invited to present their problems. All queries will receive individual attention and should be accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope directed to Mary Harris Seifert, M.A., Department of Education, The American Institute of Family Relations, 5287 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 27, California.

Does Flirting Re-Kindle Love?

Jane feels that Jim doesn't love her as much as he did when they married five years ago. His compliments are fewer, his kisses more matter-of-fact—and he tends to fall asleep during the most passionate love scenes at a movie.

"I'm going to jog him up a bit," decides Jane. "Just wait until we attend the next party..."

Jim's feet hurt, and is not anxious to attend the party. He is tired, worried about the office—and he enjoys the new television at home. In fact, he enjoys being home, with Jane knitting beside him and the old grandfather's clock chiming off the hours which belong to them.

But he finally agrees to attend the party to please Jane. But his feet hurt, and he will not dance all evening.

At first he does not notice that Jane seems to be dancing with the same man much of the evening. Then he gradually becomes aware of her absence. She is flirting openly, invitingly, outrageously. The flirting takes her through the remaining dances and finally outside, "to look at the moon."

Jim discovers her kissing an old friend with something more than casual interest. He is angry, he feels cheated, and he feels ridiculous.

He takes her home amidst a welter of accusations, explanations, and cross-accusations. The evening is notable for its lack of success. Jane's flirting has "jogged" Jim, but not in a constructive way.

In marriage, says an authority, it is almost impossible to engage in flirtation, even if it seems innocent, without hurting someone.

Some partners feel neglected in marriage and think that

Visiting Player Holds High Score

E. P. Stewart, Salem, was a guest player for Tuesday's meeting of Medford Duplicate Bridge club. He was also one of the winners. Mrs. Al Gilhouse and Mr. Stewart scored 132 points to top north-south players. Other winners in that position were Mrs. E. L. Miller and Mrs. Frank R. Baker, second, 129½; Mrs. Dolph Phipps and Mrs. Sam Richardson, third, 125 points; Mrs. Fred Purdin and Mrs. George B. Dean, fourth, 108½.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Knope led east-west winners with a score of 130 points. Other winners were Leland Clark and Mr. Gilhouse, second, 128; Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Ricker, third, 122 and B. L. Sanderson and Ray Wise, fourth, 108½.

Calendar

Friday 6:30 p.m. — Pocahontas lodge, Redman hall.

Four Irish Rangers Arriving

Arriving in the Rogue Valley Saturday will be four young Irish Rangers, the equivalent of American senior Girl Scouts.

The girls will be in the Rogue Valley for three weeks as part of the exchange program sponsored by the Juliette Low World Friendship fund. Dividing their time between Low Echo, the Girl Scout camp at the Lake of the Woods and visits in private homes, the girls have a full schedule planned for them.

Arriving at 3 p.m. at the Medford airport Saturday, they will be met by a delegation including Mayor Snider, part of the Chamber of Commerce greeters committee and representatives of the Girl Scouts. Sunday they will attend the rodeo at Klamath Falls and Monday will go to the homes of their hostesses, one each going to Grants Pass, Ashland, Yreka and Medford.

Thursday, the girls will return to Medford to visit the Chamber of Commerce "kofe-klatsch" tour the Elk Lumber company plant and appear on Cal-Ore Panorama on KBES-TV.

The girls will leave for camp Low Echo Sunday, August 3 and will return to Medford the following weekend. Plans have been made for them to attend the Shakespearean Festival in Ashland that weekend and they will also tour the Oregon Caves.

Three of the girls are from Dublin and the fourth from County Wicklow. Their ages range from 17 through 19.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Wedding Planned In Central Point

Shady Cove—The marriage of Miss Lois Elaine Evers, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Evers, Shady Cove, to Don R. Claspill will be an event of Saturday, July 26, at Community Bible church in Central Point.

A reception, also in the church, will follow the ceremony.

DAV and Auxiliary Cancel Sunday Event

Jackson County chapter, Disabled American Veterans, and the auxiliary announced this morning that a picnic planned for Sunday has been canceled.

However, the joint installation of officers planned for tonight at 8 o'clock at the Red Cross building will be held as scheduled.

Mrs. Della Tex Circle Hostess

Central Point — Woman's circle of Central Point Presbyterian church held a desert luncheon and meeting at the home of Mrs. Della Tex. Mrs. Marie Disney and Mrs. Harry Tonn were cohostesses.

New members introduced were Mrs. Norman Tully and Mrs. Alma Mallery.

Mrs. A. J. Fliescher gave the program, and Mrs. Lewis Kilbourn gave the devotions.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there is no front-runner for Margarethe's hand. But it is known that the Danish royal family would like the Princess to marry a Briton.

Until she becomes queen, Margarethe will hold the title of Lord Lieutenant of the Realm. She will take over the reigns of state when the king is ill or out of the country, and she will hold a seat in the state council.

The Princess also will receive a sizeable allowance. The Danish parliament recently allocated more than $10,000 to her annually. The allowance will be increased to $24,000 yearly when she becomes 21 years old.

Princess Margarethe May Be Denmark's Queen

Copenhagen, Denmark—UPI—A tall, blonde girl often can be seen shopping in the stores and toting her packages home on the local bus. But the pretty miss doesn't return to a residential district. She goes home to the royal palace.

She is Princess Margarethe of Denmark, who is inclined to shop when the fancy suits her, often without companions and unnoticed in the stores.

An accomplished athlete, the Princess enjoys horseback riding and tennis. She is at home on the dance floor, the ski slopes and behind a fancy foil.

Private Life

Margarethe's personal life is a well-kept secret. The royal family does not believe in publicizing her activities, but now the Danish people will be increasingly interested in what happens to the striking Princess.

Margarethe was named heir apparent to the Danish throne on her 18th birthday, April 16. The eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid is in line to become the first Danish queen since 1412.

At that time, a Queen Margarethe ruled Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. A constitutional reform was passed in 1953 to allow a woman to become Denmark's head of state.

Her new title brings the responsibility of finding a husband. The law says her consort must be of royal birth. Her choice must win approval of both parliament and her father, the king.

Britain Preferred

Apparently there