

LAZY BONES — This half-grown shepherd pup owned by a Medford resident may not be intelligent by human standards, but she is not stupid either. To save her energy these hot summer days she has gotten in the habit lately of eating her meals lying down, as the picture above shows. When evening comes she is as full of mischief as any pup. It could be that she's playing it cool... or that she's just plain lazy.

Fires Sweeping Eastern Oregon Forests, Ranges

By United Press International
Thousands of acres of forest, range and grass lands in Eastern Oregon were aflame today and weary firefighters fought to control the blazes. At Pendleton, Wright Mallory, Umatilla Forest Service officer, said he counted 45 fires in the Ukiah and Umatilla areas.

Blaze 'Bombed'
The biggest blaze, a 450-acre holocaust that licked at the edges of the Umatilla National Forest Tuesday night, was "bombed" with 1200 pounds of borate solution with an airplane flying out of La Grande. Mallory said the solution "calmed the fire down" and kept it from spreading further. A crew of 25 men were working above the fire and expected to get a line around it Wednesday morning, he said.

Reports indicated that there were 20 fires in the Ukiah district 50 miles south of Pendleton, 13 fires in the Heppner area, at least five in the Walla Walla district and several blazes in the Pomroy area.

Rains No Help
There was some slight rainfall reported over the Umatilla forest Tuesday night but Mallory said it "didn't help much."

Fires were also raging in the La Grande area, one a 400-acre blaze on Mt. Harris, visible from downtown La Grande.

Two new fires were reported Tuesday night in the Rock Creek area about 10 miles southwest of La Grande.

Portland — Four Portland firemen suffered burns on their legs and feet here Tuesday when burning chemicals splashed on them as they were fighting a blaze at the American Marietta Company.

Baseball

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Boston 1 7 2
Detroit 2 7 0
Delock and White; Susce and Lau.
Homerun: Stephens.

County Court to Visit Squaw Lakes Thursday

Members of the Jackson county court Thursday will survey Squaw lakes to study their possible use as a recreational area, County Commissioner Ralph James has reported.

Squaw lakes are located eight miles east of the Upper Applegate rd. near Copper. The survey will be conducted in answer to a letter from Cole M. Rivers, district fishery agent of the Oregon state game commission. The letter states the public may lose use of the lakes unless some public agency or group of agencies arrange with present property owners to maintain a recreation area there.

Property surrounding the lake is owned by A. C. Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harr. The Harrs have been using their property as a recreational business, catering to camping, picnicking and fishing. The Harrs are considering closing their property to public use, but are agreeable to a lease, Rivers' letter stated. The lower lake is used for fishing, swimming, boating and camping. The upper lake is primarily used by one-day fishermen. Water-skiing is not allowed on either lake since a 10-mile per-hour speed limit has been established. Use of

Medford Schools to Open September 15; Buildings Visited

The Medford school board has set Sept. 15 as the opening date for schools in district 549C. Teachers are scheduled to report Sept. 9 for in-service training.

The Sept. 15 date was set to give students an opportunity to work in the fruit harvest, since no Mexican labor was brought into the valley to help harvest fruit this year, and to give more time for completion of new additions at Medford High school.

Two new elementary schools, Wilson and Hoover, also are expected to be completed in time for school opening. Board members visited the new school sites yesterday. Bids will be opened Aug. 18 for an addition to a gymnasium-auditorium and cafeteria at West Side school.

The addition will include facilities similar to those at Wilson and Hoover schools.

The board authorized school officials to survey boundaries for Wilson, Hoover and Roosevelt schools and to report on proposed changes at the Aug. 18 meeting.

Physical examinations required by the state for school bus drivers will be financed by the school district, the board decided. The examinations are expected to range between $35 and $50, the board estimated. Recent state legislation requires such examinations, as well as regular academic and driving tests. The district employs six regular drivers and two substitutes.

Bob Raymond, fourth grade teacher at Roosevelt, and Jim Miller, science teacher and coach at Hedrick Junior High school, submitted their resignations. Raymond is moving to California, and Miller plans to go into private business.

T. R. Florey, Medford contractor, was awarded a contract for asphalt paving on a roadway at the rear of Hedrick Junior High school and the play area at Oak Grove school.

During last Thursday's meeting the Medford Pear Shippers' association, the group voted to provide D'Anjou pears for the London and Vienna fairs. The pears will be shipped from this district on Aug. 24, it was announced.

Red Cross Blood Spilled in Wreck

Wolf Creek, Ore. — (UPI) — The Red Cross today reported loss of about 20 pints of human blood when a Red Cross pickup crashed into the rear of a logging truck near here.

A hospital official from Josephine General hospital in Grants Pass salvaged 41 pints of whole blood that did not break when the truck's load was spilled on the pavement.

Big Crowd Due at Democrats' Picnic

Democrats who plan to attend the annual Democratic picnic at TouVelle State park Sunday, Aug. 3, are asked to bring at least one other person interested in the party, according to James Redden, county chairman.

The slogan for the picnic, which starts at noon, is "each one bring one." The party expects the largest crowd in the picnic's history to attend.

A social event, the party has scheduled entertainment and games for which prizes will be awarded, Redden said. Each family is asked to bring food and service for themselves. Cold drinks and coffee will be served at the park.

Rivers suggested a joint program with the county court, the forest service, state game commission and the Harrs. A 100 to 150 foot strip around the perimeter of both lakes in addition to the access roads would be all that is needed for the public, Rivers suggested. The lower lake has approximately 1.5 miles of shoreline and the upper lake 8 miles. The forest service wants a timber-sale access road up Squaw creek by way of Squaw lakes, but has been unable to obtain one so far.

Elections Slated for Thursday In Lebanon Now Seen Doubtful

Faubus Chalks Up Record Majority In Arkansas Vote

Incumbent Receives 69 Per Cent of Vote

Little Rock, Ark. — (UPI) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus today credited the sending of federal troops to Little Rock in the integration crisis for a vote that gave him a third term by the biggest majority in Arkansas history.

Almost complete returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary gave him 69.5 per cent of the vote. The rest was almost evenly divided between his opponents, Little Rock meat packer Chris Finkbeiner, 37, and Judge Lee Ward, 52, of Paragould.

Unofficial returns to United Press International from 2,274 out of 2,330 precincts in the state gave: Faubus 261,101 votes; Finkbeiner 60,017, and Ward 58,438.

The voting was a condemnation by the people of illegal federal intervention in the affairs of the state and the horrifying use of federal bayonets in the streets of an American city and in the halls of a public school," Faubus, 48, said in a victory statement.

He meant President Eisenhower's sending of 1,000 troops of the 101st Airborne Division to Little Rock last September to protect nine Negroes who enrolled in Central High school.

Faubus previously had used two companies of the National Guard to keep Negroes out, on the ground that integration of Central would provoke bloody violence.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the NAACP, declined to comment on Faubus' victory. She led the fight to get the Negroes into the school.

Integration itself was not an election issue, since Ward and Finkbeiner were against it. The issue was what to do if a school were faced with integration.

Faubus said he'd call out the National Guard again if he thought it necessary. Ward and Finkbeiner said they would never use the state militia to defy the government.

Harry S. Ashmore, Pulitzer prize-winning executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, read into Faubus' victory a powerful stimulant to integration resistance throughout the South.

He won the Pulitzer prize for a series of editorials last fall contending that the issue was not the right or wrong of segregation but defiance of the federal government.

"The governor's course of resistance has been overwhelmingly endorsed," he said. "It (Faubus' victory) has set the pattern for other Southern politicians."

He said it will cut the ground out from under moderate Southern politicians.

Haiti Quiet Under Effect of Curfew

Port Au Prince Haiti — (UPI) — Haiti was reported quiet early today under a 12-hour curfew imposed in the wake of Tuesday's abortive attempt to overthrow President Francois Duvalier.

Strict censorship, reinforced by armed guards at the overseas telephone exchange, prevented details of the situation, but there were no immediate reports of new violence.

The curfew order, restricting movement in this island republic between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., was accompanied by censorship of both the local press and outgoing news dispatches.

WEATHER
FORECAST: Fair and warm tonight and Thursday with some afternoon and evening cloudiness. Low tonight 55. High Thursday 92.
Highest Yesterday Temp. 96
Lowest This Morning 55
Our Skies Tonight
Sunset today 7:34 p.m.
Sunrise tomorrow 5:02 a.m.
The unseen stars in the Sun's background are now those of Cancer.
Moonrise today 7:21 p.m.
Moonset tomorrow 6:13 a.m.
Full Moon today 8:47 a.m.
The dim stars in the Moon's background tonight are in the constellations, Capricornus and Aquarius.

Eisenhower Sets Up Outer Space Agency

Washington — (UPI) — The United States is about to embark on a new civilian-directed program for the conquest of outer space.

President Eisenhower signed into law Tuesday a bill establishing a new space agency to supervise the peaceful efforts.

His signature created a new National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The President said in a special statement the measure was an "historic step" pledged to "peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind."

It was expected the President would ask Congress for about $300 million to finance the new agency.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, head of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, estimated NASA would be a functioning unit within two to three months. NASA will supersede Dryden's 38-year-old committee.

There was speculation Dryden might become the $22,500 a year administrator of the new agency. The law charges the administrator with planning, directing and conducting aeronautical and space activities. But it also gives the Department of Defense clear jurisdiction over "activities peculiar to or primarily associated with the development of weapons systems, military operations or the defense of the United States," including research necessary to make effective provision for the defense of the United States.

Dryden said funds would be asked from Congress for these major purposes: — "Manned space," which will be termed "technology of manned space vehicles." This may be a small part of the program at first, but it is expected to grow into the agency's principal preoccupation.

— "Space science" including instrumented artificial earth satellites for scientific purposes, and the development of larger boosters, such as rocket engines with millions of pounds of thrust.

— Improved electronics to advance space technology, communications and meteorology.

The new agency director will sit on an all-powerful "National Aeronautics and Space Council" headed by Eisenhower and including the secretaries of state and defense, the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and four other presidential appointees, only one of whom can be from the government.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

White's own youngsters are too young to know what their father is planning, but his wife, the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., does and she apparently isn't worried about the danger.

"She takes it in stride, like everything else," said White.

Premier Pledges Attempt To Halt Parliament Vote

Beirut Said Still Subject To Violence

Beirut, Lebanon — (UPI) — Premier Sami Solh pledged today to use all his influence to prevent holding of presidential elections Thursday. He promised especially to oppose the election of leading candidate Maj. Gen. Fuad Chehab, army chief of staff.

Solh spoke out less than 24 hours before the balloting was scheduled to start. Shaken by Tuesday's assassination attempt on the Premier, Lebanon was sharply split and observers rated chances of the election being held on time as barely 50-50.

Security Tightened
In the suddenly tense atmosphere, U.S. forces tightened security precautions. Helicopters reconnoitered the port area for possible snipers. Mobile patrols shuttled through the city, Marines at the ready in battle dress.

Solh told United Press International Correspondent George Bitar that he would use "all his influence" to block the election because "Beirut is still subject to violence."

Wants Troops to Stay
He charged that Chehab, the single likely candidate behind whom the various opposing factions seemed likely to unite, had "failed in his duty to clean up the rebellion and should not be president."

Solh also said American forces should remain in Lebanon until "Independence and integrity" are assured. Rebel elements want the Americans out immediately.

Expresses Thanks
Solh also asked Bitar to relay "to the American people and government our thanks for a whole-hearted support in the crisis."

Solh said Tuesday night that he would try to prevent a quorum from attending Thursday's electoral session of Parliament unless Chehab ordered his troops to clean out the rebel forces still dominating large areas of the capital.

Today, the insurgents still were in control of the Basta quarter which faces directly on the Parliament building.

'Bard's Bus' Now Running to Ashland
The "Bard's Evergreen Bus," a special transportation service between Medford and the Elizabethan theater in Ashland, is now in service for the 1958 Oregon Shakespearean Festival season.

Routed on a nightly schedule leaving from the Medford hotel at 7:30 p.m. and from the Jackson hotel at 7:35 p.m., the bus will take audience members directly to the theater entrance. The same vehicle will return passengers to Medford immediately following the plays.

"Play-goers with cars have found that the 'Bard's Bus' is an easy way to avoid the nuisance delays of traffic and parking," William Patton, Festival manager, stated.

Evans Valley Vote Scheduled Aug. 23 For $36,737 Levy

Evans Valley — Evans Valley school district voters will go to the polls Saturday, Aug. 23, to vote on a total levy of $36,737.67 for the new school year, according to School Board Chairman James Martin.

This will be the fourth time this year school district patrons will vote on the new school levy. Voters of the school district, 12 miles north of Rogue River, recently rejected the school levy for the third time.

Some of the major alterations of the school district budget included removal of $7,000 allowed for a new school bus, $2,000 for cafeteria remodeling, addition of $1,170 for repair of a 10-year-old school bus, inclusion of $500 for emergency expenditures and $70 for the bus drivers physical examinations as now required by law.

The Evans Valley school board members met with county officials yesterday to resolve several legal and operating problems. County Assessor Ray Schumacher granted the district an extension of time on the condition the board would revise the budget so any controversial issues are not in it when the levy is resubmitted to the voters. He said the levy must be certified by Aug. 25 so it can be placed on the tax rolls.

Martin said he wished to thank the county assessor, the county superintendent's office and the district attorney's office for work done for the district.

Three Burglaries Are Reported To Police
Three break and entries were reported to Medford city police early this morning, entered during the night were Morse Motors, Sixth and Ivy sts., Ham and Egg'r Restaurant, 301 South Central ave., and Mitchell Paint and Radiator shop, 608 South Riverside ave.

Two of the businesses were ransacked by the burglars, police said, while $164 in cash was taken from Morse Motors. The firm was entered by a rear door in the service department and the money was taken from a petty cash box and the register cash drawer.

Two Medford Boys Establish Carnival; Show Small Profit
Two nine-year-old Medford boys have set themselves up in business and the first performance showed a 24-cent profit.

The two businessmen, Paul Greeny, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Greeny, 36 Myers court, and Tim Bowman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bowman, 29 Summit ave., have transformed the Greeny backyard into a carnival.

For an admission of one-cent, neighborhood children play horseshoes and other games which the boys noticed on several daytime television programs. Prizes were candy, balloons, and toy cars.

Paul, founder of the business, also tells "tall tales" to the children during the hour and a half performance.

The partners report that since the business has proven to be so profitable they may schedule several other performances and add to the variety of games offered.

"... At Night, When You're Asleep, Into Your Tent I'll Creep ..."

