Dollar's Buying Power Shrinks During Past Year

Higher prices and lower incomes continue to squeeze the buying power of the consumer $5 dollar, according to an agricultural extension economist at Oregon State college.

Mrs. Elvera Horrell says it now takes $1.03 to buy what $1 would buy a year ago. At the same time, incomes have slipped somewhat lower than they were at mid-1957. Higher retail prices, that have inched up to the highest point on record this June, combined with these lower incomes, have put a double pinch on the consumer's purse strings.

Although recent reports show that incomes are on the upswing, per capita spendable income is still not quite up to what it was last year at this time, the economist notes.

It cost the consumer more to buy all major living items, and on most she has to pay an all-time high. Food increased the most, clothing increased the least.

According to Mrs. Horrell it now takes a little more than $1.04 to buy the same amount of food that $1 would buy a year ago; slightly more than $1.04 for a 1957 dollar's worth of medical care and reading and recreation; about $1.03 for personal care; nearly $1.03 for transportation; and almost $1.02 for housing.

Final Meeting For Herb Society

The last meeting of the Rogue Valley Herb Society was held at the home of Mrs. Leo Thomas, Calhoun road, Medford. Members and guests toured the garden and greenhouses. Mrs. Thomas specializes in growing perennials and has an extensive collection including many rare varieties.

Mrs. John Ostrander spoke on "Doctrine of Signatures." She explained how the shape of various herbs tell what parts of the body they were used for as medicine.

Plans were made for the annual society picnic which will be held at the home of Mrs. R. D. Abel, Cherry lane, Medford, August 26. Mrs. Thomas served herb cookies and tea at the close of the meeting.

Meeting Friday

Royal Neighbor Juveniles will meet for a sack lunch Friday, August 8, at 12 noon at the home of Art Johnson, Jacksonville-Central Point highway. A business meeting will follow.

Ground-To-Air Test Successful

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—UPI—The Air Force demonstrated today—apparently with spectacular success—how its ground-to-air defense missile can be fired remotely from hundreds of miles away and sent streaking into the skies after an enemy plane.

A Bomarc, now being developed into a weapon capable of carrying a nuclear warhead, was fired at a drone plane over the Atlantic after the aircraft was picked up by radar presumably stationed somewhere along the East Coast.

A technician stationed in a three-story IBM computer center at the Air Defense Command headquarters, at Kingston, N. Y., more than 1,000 miles away, pressed the button that sent the missile up from the cape at a speed of two and one-half times the speed of sound.

The Bomarc was set for a near miss of the drone. The Air Force said information on the test was "classified" but indicated that it was a success.

Joint Venture Into Outer Space Proposed by U. S.

Moscow—UPI—Scientists meeting here have discussed a U. S. proposal which could put Americans and Russians side by side in the first ship that carries a crew into outer space. It was reported today. American sources said the plan, proposing cooperation rather than competition in some areas of space research, was mentioned—but not formally submitted—to the resolutions committee of the International Geophysical Year Assembly at a meeting Wednesday.

They explained the proposal will not be introduced formally here because it is already pending before the International Council of Scientific Unions.

Interest Expressed Foreign delegates expressed some interest in the plan.

"The United States appears to think there are certain spheres of space research where there should be international cooperation rather than competition," one foreigner said.

"I have the impression this would extend even to the first space flights." No Soviet comment could be obtained immediately, but some foreign observers pointed out Russian space pioneer Konstantin Tsiolkovsky urged years ago that the first space ship should carry scientists of all nations.

The Russians already have registered their willingness to cooperate in a continued exchange of scientific information after the International Geophysical Year formally ends on Dec. 31.

The resolutions committee voted Wednesday to extend the scientific exchange for at least a year, under the name of "International Geophysical Cooperation 1959."

Dallas Schools Seek To End Dilemma of Racial Integration

Dallas, Tex.—UPI—Dallas' 141 public schools, under federal court order to integrate and prohibited by state law to do so without a referendum, have filed suit to resolve the dilemma.

In a suit filed Wednesday in 44th Civil District court, Dallas Independent School District claimed it is not affected by two state segregation laws, but carefully pointed out it was not "bringing this suit for the purpose of declaring either of the acts void."

The schools claimed immunity from the state laws because they became effective after the U. S. Supreme Court ordered school integration in April, 1954, and after the New Orleans Federal Appeals Court, in July, 1957, specifically ordered Dallas schools to integrate "with all deliberate speed."

School attorney Andrew J. Thuss said, however, that Dallas schools will not be integrated during the coming school year, no matter what the outcome of the suit may be.

The main law the school district seeks to avoid requires a Texas school district to receive approval in a local option election before it integrates. State law provides that if this procedure is not followed the school district loses state funds, its students lose accreditation and its trustees are liable to a misdemeanor charge.

Parents May Protest The second law stipulates that students may be segregated as to scholastic achievement and other considerations not mentioning race, but that no students may be forced to attend an integrated school over his parents' written protest.

Both laws were passed by the last legislature and became effective Aug. 23, 1957.

Thus, the school board claims since federal courts specifically ordered Dallas school integration before the state laws became effective, the two Texas laws do not apply.

Macmillan Bids To End Fighting On Cyprus Island

London—UPI—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made an all-out bid today to end three years of bloodshed on Cyprus and head off the threat of war between Greece and Turkey.

Macmillan was flying to Athens for emergency talks with Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis on means to halt the costly intercommunal disorders on the strategic island colony in the Mediterranean. About 450 persons have been killed since the underground EOKA launched its anti-British campaign three years ago.

Britain has 38,000 troops tied down on the island because of the fighting between Cypriots of Turkish and Greek descent.

From Athens, Macmillan may fly to Ankara for similar talks with Premier Adnan Menderes, with whom he discussed the Cyprus question during the recent Baghdad Pact meeting in London.

U.S. diplomatic trouble-shooter Robert Murphy also is scheduled to fly from Cairo to Athens today. Sources in Athens speculated Murphy may take part in the talks which they said could remove "a major obstacle to the Western alliance in this part of the world."

The mounting killings since the beginning of July—more than 100—have plunged Cyprus into a state of virtual civil war between the Greek and Turkish communities.

California Pair Held at Portland

Portland—UPI—Robert Dennis McCarthy, 38, was arrested here Wednesday while working as a house painter and was taken before U. S. Commissioner Claire Mundorf on a warrant charging him with unlawful flight from California.

William H. Williams, special agent in charge of the FBI here, said the details of the McCarthy case were meager but that McCarthy apparently was wanted as a suspect in the May 31 death of Aubrey Paul Morgan at Arcata, Calif. The man was jailed pending arrival of a complaint from the U. S. district attorney's office at Sacramento.

Mrs. Mundorf also committed to Multnomah county jail a woman identified as Ethel Lorraine McCarthy, 35. The woman waived preliminary hearing on a charge of violating the Dyer act by driving a stolen car from Eureka, Calif. to Medford, Ore., on May 31.

Federal officers said the McCarthy woman and McCarthy were seen leaving Eureka in the car together shortly after the first flight in which Morgan was killed.

McCarthy and the McCarthy woman were registered at separate hotels when picked up.

Longshoremen Accuse Harvey

Portland—UPI—The longshoremen's union reported here today that union attorneys are studying charges that the Harvey Aluminum Company has violated longshoremen jurisdiction on the Portland waterfront.

The union accused the company of unloading alumina ore from the Canadian ship Lake Pennack with non-union technicians from The Dalles where Harvey operates an aluminum reduction plant. The ship is berthed at the General Ore and Chemical company dock south of Swan Island here.

Longshoremen held a stop-work meeting to discuss the incident earlier but no action has been taken against the Harvey firm which also has had labor difficulties with the building trades unions at The Dalles.
