

Children's Home Has Anniversary

The state's only Protestant home for dependent children marks its 35th anniversary today at its location three miles from Corvallis.

The home was founded and has been maintained by the Oregon Woman's Christian Temperance Union with assistance from a number of service organizations, Sunday school classes, Granges, and private individuals.

The children, from broken homes, are sent to the 285-acre farm home by country courts from throughout the state. As many as 12 to 15 children from Jackson county live at the home at one time, according to reports.

Children between 5 and 21 years old are housed in cottages at the home, with as many as 170 of them living there at one time. The boys are trained in farm and dairy work and the girls are given training in the domestic arts. In 1953 a chapel was built at the home, and a full-time pastor is employed. The children attend grade school at the home but when they reach high school age they commute to Corvallis for training.

For information on how assistance in supporting and maintaining the school may be rendered, interested persons may contact Mrs. G. O. Sanden at SPing 2-7906.

Self Preservation Is Meeting Topic

Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Hicks, county civil defense director, will give a talk and distribute literature on "Self Preservation" in case of radiological fall-out or other unexpected disaster at a meeting of the Fifty Plus club Friday, Aug. 15. The meeting will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Red Cross building 60 Hawthorne street.

Members are asked to bring a sack lunch. Coffee will be served. The regular meeting and games will follow the talk and lunch.

As another community service summer project, the club has voted to contribute reading material to the men fruit pickers who are being housed in the fruit growers labor camp on Table Rock rd., and who are here without families. It is expected that the present number of 125 will be soon expanded to 400.

Women Superior Drivers Says Driving Champion

By JOHN LOWRY
UPI Correspondent

Los Angeles—UPI—A champion woman driver says males become cave men behind the wheel.

"When a man climbs into his car, he automatically puts that Stone Age chip on his gray flannel shoulder. He floorboards the gas pedal and sets out to show the world that he's at least as fast as Juan Fangio and twice as daring," said Mary Davis of West Hollywood, a stock car racer and the only woman to win the Mobilgas Economy run.

Miss Davis led the low-priced car class in last year's contest, and ran again in this year's run from Los Angeles to Galveston, Tex.

A Challenge

"The average man you meet in traffic looks on his car as a symbol of personal superiority," she said. "It's about all he has left to give him the kind of psychological gratification which the Neanderthal man got from contemplating his stone ax."

"He tries to turn tail-light to every car he sees. Every stop-light is a challenge, every car ahead of him a personal insult."

"Let's face it, we'd all be safer if we took their cars away and gave them back their stone axes," she added.

Miss Davis considers women superior drivers because "woman's deepest instinct is to seek security. When it comes to driving, this means she tries to save money. She avoids racing, which wastes gas, and she obeys traffic laws because she doesn't want to pay a fine. She just wants to get where she's going, but as a man wants to make it a race."

Economical Driving

The tall, blonde driver became interested in the sport while watching road races at Pebble Beach, Calif. She bought a foreign sportscar and won the first race she entered, at Santa Barbara several years ago, and now has 35 trophies to her credit—one for every race she has entered.

Miss Davis also is part owner of a restaurant in Beverly Hills, where racing enthusiasts gather. She goes skin diving and aims to become the world's richest woman.

This champion driver, who traces her ancestors to a Cherokee Indian tribe, says the secret of economical driving is good driving.

"If your gasoline budget needs trimming, drive with ordinary care and courtesy. You'll be surprised how fast those bills go down," she said.

Garden Party Planned Thursday

Medford Sojourners garden party will be held in the garden of Mrs. O. A. Eden, 211 Genesee street, Medford on Thursday, August 14, at 12:30 p.m. A card party, including bridge, pinocle, and canasta will follow the luncheon.

Persons desiring reservations should call Mrs. O. J. Crenshaw, SPing 3-4281 or Mrs. James Winslow, SPing 3-4391 not later than Tuesday, August 12.

Women who have moved to the Medford vicinity during the past two years are invited to attend.

Slides Shown At Stamp Club Meet

Miss Mary Pierce spoke and showed slides taken by her father on his trip to Antarctica, and of their tour through New Zealand, Australia, Fiji, Singapore, Hong Kong, Ceylon, India, Siam, and Japan, to members and guests of the Southern Oregon Stamp club at the meeting held August 7.

Guests at the meeting were Miss Elaine Leach, Eric de Place, Mrs. Blanche Motschenbacher, Jerry Bailey, Noreen Norris, Billy Warner, Mrs. A. C. Pierce, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shurtleff, St. Louis, Mo., guests of the Pierces. The Pierce family met the Shurtleffs while visiting India, and invited them to visit Oregon. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jorge Jorgensen and Mrs. Edward Leach.

Townsend Club Plans Picnic

The Medford Townsend club will meet Wednesday, August 13, at 11 a.m. on the south side of Hawthorne park for a potluck luncheon. Each person is to furnish their own table service. Hot coffee and ice cream will be furnished.

At the last meeting a rummage sale to be held early in October was voted on. General news articles were read and commented on from The Townsend Plan National Courier, published at Washington, D. C.

The meeting closed with readings and music by the club's instrumental musicians.

Picnic Planned

The Toastmistress club will hold a picnic meeting Wednesday, August 13, at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wilson, near Talent.
