

New York Shop Markets Elder Craftsman's Work

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York — (UPI) — The records show they're over 60, but their crafts on display at a unique Manhattan shop show they're young in heart.

"I'm talking about the senior citizens whose works from needlepoint to wood-carvings are sold through the older craftsmen shop."

"I find most of our consignors are full of vim and have more real zest for living than some of the teenagers I know," said Eugenie D'Arzi, its director.

Which is exactly what she and others interested in this project wanted when they opened the shop in November, 1955.

Miss D'Arzi said the idea grew from the annual New York hobby shows for older persons. There were so many who were skilled, it just seemed logical there should be a place for them to sell their wares.

Long Time Developing

"It took some of them nearly half a century to develop some of their hobbies," she said. "Once retired, there is the possibility that all the practice and creativeness will go to waste."

"Through this shop, they're working toward a goal... they're not put on the shelf." They're also working for money.

Consignors get 75 per cent of sales. The rest goes to operation of the shop. Last year's gross was $30,000, Miss D'Arzi said, and this year it will be higher. Individual consignors earn anywhere from $5 and $10 on up. One retired banker who makes unusual brief cases earned $1,200 during the peak of the Christmas shopping season last year.

"One thing we insist on," said Miss D'Arzi. "The product must stand on its merit. We don't want people to buy just to be kind."

The director and a volunteer advisory committee screen each potential new item for its quality as well as sales appeal. Some consignors bring samples directly to the shop. Others, the far away to come in mail samples.

First In Nation

Miss D'Arzi said the shop was the first in the nation to serve as outlet for hobbies of the over 60 exclusively. But it promises to be copied in other cities — she has had inquiries from all parts of the country.

Some 325 elderly citizens — 25 per cent of them — consign a variety of products: dolls, purses, hand-painted trays; pictures done with applique of fabric; aprons, samplers, wood-carvings, toys, leather goods, hooked rugs,

Supper Planned By Mineral Club

Members of Roxy Ann Gem and Mineral club will hold a potluck supper Wednesday, August 13, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Reneker. It is located in an area which is an extension of Barnett road.

The club announces that the birthstone for August is sardonyx or peridot, and members having specimens of these are asked to bring them to the meeting.

At the last meeting of the club, Delmar Smith showed slides taken during a trip to Yellowstone park.

The club display now at United States National bank is of shells from the private collection of Mr. and Mrs. J. Duckett, 32 Washington street, Medford. It replaced one from the Hodge-Podge shop of Grants Pass owned by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jacks.

needlepoint, paintings, jewelry and assorted novelty items. They come from 27 states, 141 cities and two foreign countries — France and Canada.

Tournament Set For Thursday

Plans are being completed for entertaining the 150 women who will participate in the Willamette Valley-Southern Oregon Golf Association tournament at Rogue Valley Country club Thursday, according to the general co-chairmen, Mrs. Warren Lesseg and Mrs. Richard Finch.

Mrs. Floyd Somers is the social chairman and her committee includes the Mesdames R. Ren Taylor, Earl Nelson, Edward Kliever, Donald M. McGeary, Robert DeLorme, Jerry Olson, B. D. Mitchell and Ralph Barclay. A dinner and social hour are planned at the clubhouse on Wednesday evening, preceding the Thursday golf meet.

A snack bar will be in operation for the golfers the next day.

Assisting Mrs. H. E. Nulton, tournament chairman, will be James Dunlevy, and Robert P. Corbin as starters; Virgil Martin and Gene Ricker as scorers; and committee members, Mrs. Dorothy Conrad, Mrs. A. Orin Schenck, Mrs. R. T. Anderson, Mrs. Ralph Barclay, Mrs. William Kalibak, Mrs. Miles Doran, Mrs. Richard Remington, and Mrs. Laverne Watrud.

Members of the Willamette Valley Southern Oregon Golf association sending teams to the tournament include Eugene Country club, Laurelwood Country club, Eugene, Roseburg, Coos Bay, Corvallis, Grants Pass, Klamath Falls and Bend Country clubs.

Woman Editor Visits Medford

Mrs. Clarence A. Meeker left Medford last Thursday after a brief stay. Mrs. Meeker, formerly a Medford resident, now makes her home in New York City and is editor of Methodist Woman, magazine devoted to the interests of women members of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Meeker was in the west to assist with the annual summer schools of missions for the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church. She attended the schools in Caldwell, Ida., and Tacoma, Wash., and one at the Lazy F Ranch near Ellensburg, Wash., before coming to Medford.

En route home she will visit relatives in the mid-west states.

During her stay here Mrs. Meeker will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Faber, Freeman road, Central Point. Mrs. Meeker is the widow of the late Mayor Clarence Meeker in whose honor Meeker memorial chapel of First Methodist church is named.

No Need To Stew Over Meat Dishes

Chicago — (UPI) — The housewife who complains she can't think of anything to fix for dinner has no basis for her worry, according to the National Live Stock Board.

The board said there are enough meat products available to provide a family with a different meat dish every day for an entire year.

To meet overall table wants, more than 6,000 new food items are offered annually.

Luscious desserts of gourmet origin are these crunchy flaked coconut macaroons nesting in a fruity mixture. Easy to make, too, using this recipe that is "cake and dessert" all in one, but with the added advantage of being divided. In other words, the flaky coconut macaroons are perfect as an accompaniment for ice cream... while the delicious fruit mixture may be used on cake or a hot cottage pudding. But why bother with other suggestions when the combination given here is so perfect in itself!

Macaroon Nests
2 cups (1-pound 1-ounce can) applesauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
1 teaspoon almond extract

3 cups Angel Flake Coconut
2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine coconut, condensed milk, and vanilla, mixing well. Drop by heaping tablespoonful on brown paper which has been placed on a baking sheet. Shape into 2-1/2-inch rings. Bake in moderate oven (350°-F.) 17 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove from paper at once.

Mix together applesauce, lemon juice, strawberries, and almond extract. Spoon about 1/4 cup filling into each serving dish, top each with a baked macaroon ring, and garnish with additional strawberries, if desired. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Ship's Can-Opener Saves Woman From Time in Galley

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press International

New York — (UPI) — The can-opener aboard the sloop Galatea ought to have its own life-preserver.

It's that important to hostess-cook Mary Conover when she and her husband, Jack, put out from Larchmont Harbor, N.Y., every week end during the sailing season. The Galatea is a 28-foot boat which sleeps four. And they always have guests.

"I'm a great promoter of canned goods," Mrs. Conover said. "They're easy to store and prepare. I don't do any cooking at home in advance."

It's hard to see how she could find the time for advance preparations while holding a full-time executive job.

"I don't need to cook at home," she explained, "because I have a menu system. Before each trip, I make a chart showing the complete menu, plus things to be taken from home and groceries to be bought."

This kind of efficiency is essential for young working couples like the Conovers, who spend every week end and vacation aboard their small boat. He is executive director of the Corset and Brassiere association and she is its fashion director.

Not even bad weather keeps them ashore, Mrs. Conover said, but in really rough seas, Galatea stays at anchor in harbor. And on any trip, she added, she doesn't light up the two-burner portable stove until the anchor has been dropped.

An Iowa-born landlubber until three years ago, Mrs. Conover finds cooking in a tiny galley less of a problem than making sandwiches while the craft is underway.

"Imagine trying to make sandwiches while you're standing a right angle in a boat that's heeling. You have to brace your feet against the bulkhead on the opposite side of the cabin," she said, laughing.

Whether cooking aboard or picnicking ashore, the Conovers keep the meals simple. Hamburgers or hot dogs at sea, and charcoal-broiled steak on land are among their favorites. Sometimes, there's also foil-wrapped grilled corn on the cob, but most of their vegetables come from cans.

Frozen foods have been shunned by this sea-going cook ever since her early sailing days when she stored some in a portable ice box, only to discover the packages awash in melting ice water just before meal time.

The galley chef's trick of using both parts of a double boiler to heat food has been adapted by Mrs. Conover for a drip coffee pot. While water boils in the bottom for instant coffee, rolls or doughnuts heat in the top section.

Other equipment she considers essential includes a small round top-of-stove oven and a circular wire holder with disposable foil pans that substitutes for a skillet.

Breakfast and lunch are apt to be served on paper plates, but at dinner... out comes the china.

Real china? On a small boat? "Yes," said Mrs. Conover, "and we've had no breakage in our three years. We pack things in very neatly, nesting as many dishes and cups as we can or storing them upside down."

Jennings Family Returns to City After Vacations

Dr. and Mrs. George S. Jennings and their two daughters, the Misses Nancy and Melissa Jennings, have returned to Medford after vacation trips. Dr. and Mrs. Jennings were in Canada where they were a part of the Wally Byran Trailer tour of western Canada for four weeks, while the Misses Jennings were in the east.

Miss Nancy Jennings, who taught the fourth grade in Oswego, Ore., last year, first attended the annual convention of National Education association in Cleveland, Ohio, before continuing east to meet her sister, a student at Brigham Young university. The two were joined by a cousin and the three young women then visited New York City, Boston, Washington, D.C., and other eastern cities. They attended performances of "The Music Man" and "Bells Are Ringing" in New York.

Miss Nancy Jennings will remain here until the opening of school in Oswego in September.

Dr. and Mrs. Jennings report that 185 trailers made up the caravan for the tour of western Canada. The travelers met at Glacier National park and visited Banff, Lake Louise and made the Fraser River canyon trip. In Revelstoke they joined the crowds which were in that city during the visit of Princess Margaret.

For between city driving the caravan members are grouped in order that the traffic is not impeded, and most cities provide police escort through town, the Jennings report. The next tour planned by the trailer owners is to Africa and Europe, and those on the tour will be away for a year.

The caravan represented 30 states and two Canadian provinces, and numbered about 500 persons.

Small white onions take on extra flavor when cooked in boiling chicken or beef stock until almost tender. Drain and saute in melted butter or margarine, add a few tablespoons of fresh orange juice, a pinch of salt, ground black pepper and a dash of ground mace or nutmeg.

Lettuce wrapped in foil will not turn brown in the refrigerator, and will stay crisp longer.

Color Can Appear To Change Rooms

New York — (UPI) — Women should choose paint colors to enhance their homes as they would pick clothes to flatter their figures, say decorators for the National Paint and Varnish association.

The correct use of colors can make rooms appear larger or smaller, or seem to take on a different shape. To decide on tones, consider current color trends, your own preference, the exposure, and the room's dimensions and faults.

Cool colors—blues and blue-greens—seem to recede and add a feeling of spaciousness. Warm colors—the reds, yellows, pinks and oranges—give a cozy, intimate quality to large rooms. But they make small rooms seem smaller. Green is considered neither warm nor cold, but if it's a yellow-green, it is not suitable for a southwest exposure.

Using this color knowledge, you can change the apparent shape of the room. A far wall in a long, narrow white room can be painted a dusty-rose to make the room appear square. Deep colors have the "advancing" quality of warm colors, so painting the ceiling of a green room in a deeper green tone would make the ceiling appear lower.

None Miss Plane

The 400-seat dining room was designed by Florence Knoll, in a blue, beige and gold medley of simple modern styles.

Anthony Q. Nardin, the manager, takes his job so seriously that he's been known to stay with it around the clock.

"I spent a week end here late in February when a 'blatant hit,'" he explained. "That

Contrasts

Lightness or darkness of color is accentuated by contrast with adjoining colors. White will seem whiter against a deep hue, and vice versa. Colors also are affected by lighting, so study a painted sample in daylight and at night.

If you plan to paint one wall to match drapery fabric, remember that a rough-textured fabric has depth. When draped, this material will appear deeper in color than a smooth, flat-surfaced paint. Therefore, choose a paint color that appears deeper in tone than the fabric.

Smooth-surfaced fabrics are the opposite. Glazed chintzes will reflect light, so the color of the fabric will appear lighter.

Another trick is to paint the baseboard to match wall-to-wall carpeting. This adds visually to floor area.

An "all-over" treatment also gives the illusion of space. Paint fireplace, door frames, window and other trim in the same shade as the walls.

Remember that color, when seen in a large area, appears more intense than the same color in a small paint chip or color sample. Try painting a piece of wallboard and moving the piece around the room to make sure the hue blends with the rest of the furnising.

Back-to-school wear will put the emphasis on raccoon. Look for raccoon collars on suits and coats. Other long-haired furs, such as fox and lynx, will be popular, especially when combined with mohair fabrics.

TALKING long distance from Beverly Hills, Calif., Actress Marilyn Monroe hears that husband has been acquitted of contempt of Congress by appeal court.

Chipped Beef and Kidney Bean Burgers

2 jars (2 1/2 ounces each) chipped beef
1 can (16 ounces) kidney beans, drained

3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/2 cup sweet pickle relish
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
4 hamburger buns
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese

Cut chipped beef into thin strips with scissors. Combine beef, kidney beans, onion, pickle relish, mustard and mayonnaise or salad dressing. Split buns in half and toast cut side. Spread beef mixture on toasted bun halves. Sprinkle grated cheese over top. Place on broiler rack and insert broiler pan so that the top of buns is 4 inches from heat. Broil 4 to 5 minutes or until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Yield: 8 sandwiches.

Here is something new for sandwich enthusiasts... it's called a Chipped Beef and Kidney Bean Burger. This new combination has been especially planned for August, National Sandwich Month.

"Coming up! One Chipped Beef and Kidney Bean Burger." The children will be asking for seconds... no doubt about it. This recipe is the answer to your problem of how to use hamburger buns with a new meat treat.

Reba Staggs, meat expert, mentions that more and more chipped beef is being used by American homemakers at all meals and in various combinations.

This Chipped Beef Burger idea is just one. See how many others you might create for yourself.

HERTZ
RENT-A-CAR
SYSTEM
LICENSEE

Daily's U-Drive
Medford Airport

Air Terminals Increase Stress on Gourmet Meals

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press Correspondent

New York — (UPI) — To hungry travelers, the new Golden Door restaurant at Idlewild International Airport opens on a world where you can dine like the leisure class, even if there's only an hour between planes.

The Golden Door is the latest in a growing list of fine restaurants at major air terminals in the United States—a welcome change from the early days of commercial flying. Then, a grounded airlines passenger was lucky to get a luke-warm blue plate special or an overdone hamburger in a drab lunchroom.

By contrast, the continental cuisine of the Golden Door is attracting not only travelers but also hundreds of customers whose homes are near the airport.

They lunch and dine luxuriously in a glass-walled penthouse atop the three-story International Arrivals Building.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

Keep a chart of stain removal techniques near the laundry area, together with a batch of flexible plastic material samples, each with a safety pin attached. While sorting the wash, "ticket" the articles which will need special handling.

Do not store woolens in plastic bags in a closet with a window. Sunlight filtering through the bags may fade the clothes.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

Enter another variation of the chemise: the harem chemise. It flares in side pleats to a short hem, barely covering the knees. The skirt turns under at the hemline.

Cook rice in pineapple juice for extra flavor when serving it with curried pork or veal.

The flaming sword entrees come in three varieties—lamb, beef and seafood and there's a selection of steaks, chops, poultry and seafood prepared in the manner of several countries.

To prevent language problems for foreign passengers at the international port, the management has had the menu printed in English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek.

The restaurant's name has an international flavor. It's from a line inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, in New York bay, only a few moments' flying time from Idlewild. Freedom's symbol lifts her lamp "beside the golden door."

Nevertheless, the temptation exists. You sit comfortably on a chair or foam-rubber cushioned banquettes, and you don't feel insulted if you're offered a table near the kitchen. In this restaurant, it's a desirable location for diners more interested in food than flying.

They lunch and dine luxuriously in a glass-walled penthouse atop the three-story International Arrivals Building.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

Keep a chart of stain removal techniques near the laundry area, together with a batch of flexible plastic material samples, each with a safety pin attached. While sorting the wash, "ticket" the articles which will need special handling.

Do not store woolens in plastic bags in a closet with a window. Sunlight filtering through the bags may fade the clothes.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

Enter another variation of the chemise: the harem chemise. It flares in side pleats to a short hem, barely covering the knees. The skirt turns under at the hemline.

Cook rice in pineapple juice for extra flavor when serving it with curried pork or veal.

The flaming sword entrees come in three varieties—lamb, beef and seafood and there's a selection of steaks, chops, poultry and seafood prepared in the manner of several countries.

To prevent language problems for foreign passengers at the international port, the management has had the menu printed in English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek.

The restaurant's name has an international flavor. It's from a line inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, in New York bay, only a few moments' flying time from Idlewild. Freedom's symbol lifts her lamp "beside the golden door."

Nevertheless, the temptation exists. You sit comfortably on a chair or foam-rubber cushioned banquettes, and you don't feel insulted if you're offered a table near the kitchen. In this restaurant, it's a desirable location for diners more interested in food than flying.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

Keep a chart of stain removal techniques near the laundry area, together with a batch of flexible plastic material samples, each with a safety pin attached. While sorting the wash, "ticket" the articles which will need special handling.

Do not store woolens in plastic bags in a closet with a window. Sunlight filtering through the bags may fade the clothes.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

Enter another variation of the chemise: the harem chemise. It flares in side pleats to a short hem, barely covering the knees. The skirt turns under at the hemline.

Cook rice in pineapple juice for extra flavor when serving it with curried pork or veal.

The flaming sword entrees come in three varieties—lamb, beef and seafood and there's a selection of steaks, chops, poultry and seafood prepared in the manner of several countries.

To prevent language problems for foreign passengers at the international port, the management has had the menu printed in English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek.

The restaurant's name has an international flavor. It's from a line inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, in New York bay, only a few moments' flying time from Idlewild. Freedom's symbol lifts her lamp "beside the golden door."

Nevertheless, the temptation exists. You sit comfortably on a chair or foam-rubber cushioned banquettes, and you don't feel insulted if you're offered a table near the kitchen. In this restaurant, it's a desirable location for diners more interested in food than flying.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

Enter another variation of the chemise: the harem chemise. It flares in side pleats to a short hem, barely covering the knees. The skirt turns under at the hemline.

Cook rice in pineapple juice for extra flavor when serving it with curried pork or veal.

The flaming sword entrees come in three varieties—lamb, beef and seafood and there's a selection of steaks, chops, poultry and seafood prepared in the manner of several countries.

To prevent language problems for foreign passengers at the international port, the management has had the menu printed in English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek.

The restaurant's name has an international flavor. It's from a line inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, in New York bay, only a few moments' flying time from Idlewild. Freedom's symbol lifts her lamp "beside the golden door."

Nevertheless, the temptation exists. You sit comfortably on a chair or foam-rubber cushioned banquettes, and you don't feel insulted if you're offered a table near the kitchen. In this restaurant, it's a desirable location for diners more interested in food than flying.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

Keep a chart of stain removal techniques near the laundry area, together with a batch of flexible plastic material samples, each with a safety pin attached. While sorting the wash, "ticket" the articles which will need special handling.

Do not store woolens in plastic bags in a closet with a window. Sunlight filtering through the bags may fade the clothes.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

Enter another variation of the chemise: the harem chemise. It flares in side pleats to a short hem, barely covering the knees. The skirt turns under at the hemline.

Cook rice in pineapple juice for extra flavor when serving it with curried pork or veal.

The flaming sword entrees come in three varieties—lamb, beef and seafood and there's a selection of steaks, chops, poultry and seafood prepared in the manner of several countries.

To prevent language problems for foreign passengers at the international port, the management has had the menu printed in English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek.

The restaurant's name has an international flavor. It's from a line inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, in New York bay, only a few moments' flying time from Idlewild. Freedom's symbol lifts her lamp "beside the golden door."

Nevertheless, the temptation exists. You sit comfortably on a chair or foam-rubber cushioned banquettes, and you don't feel insulted if you're offered a table near the kitchen. In this restaurant, it's a desirable location for diners more interested in food than flying.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.

Enter another variation of the chemise: the harem chemise. It flares in side pleats to a short hem, barely covering the knees. The skirt turns under at the hemline.

Cook rice in pineapple juice for extra flavor when serving it with curried pork or veal.

The flaming sword entrees come in three varieties—lamb, beef and seafood and there's a selection of steaks, chops, poultry and seafood prepared in the manner of several countries.

To prevent language problems for foreign passengers at the international port, the management has had the menu printed in English, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek.

The restaurant's name has an international flavor. It's from a line inscribed on the Statue of Liberty, in New York bay, only a few moments' flying time from Idlewild. Freedom's symbol lifts her lamp "beside the golden door."

Nevertheless, the temptation exists. You sit comfortably on a chair or foam-rubber cushioned banquettes, and you don't feel insulted if you're offered a table near the kitchen. In this restaurant, it's a desirable location for diners more interested in food than flying.

College girls go for the high-waisted look when it comes to fur coats, say 25 young women from 13 schools across the country. The students, members of a youth fur fashion panel, submitted designs for coats and small fur pieces in a contest, sponsored by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry.

Keep a chart of stain removal techniques near the laundry area, together with a batch of flexible plastic material samples, each with a safety pin attached. While sorting the wash, "ticket" the articles which will need special handling.

Do not store woolens in plastic bags in a closet with a window. Sunlight filtering through the bags may fade the clothes.

For the woman who cooks outdoors, Haymaker has created a group of cotton gourmet costumes with aprons. One version is a chemise-inspired shirtwaist in orange and white striped cotton with an orange apron. Another type is a slim-skirted black dress with a printed apron.

Females on the fairways can tee off with purses which are fashionable as well as practical. An oversized money purse comes fitted with a loop to slip on a belt. It is large enough to hold cosmetic, hankies, and other items.