

Clayton Powell Gets Demo Nomination

New York — (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Negro congressman - minister who was dumped by Tammany Hall because he supported President Eisenhower in 1956, swept to a resounding victory over Tammany-backed candidate Earl Brown Tuesday to win a Democratic renomination for an eighth congressional term.

Returns from 120 of the 143 districts in New York's 16th District (Harlem) which Powell has represented in Congress the past 14 years gave him 11,796 votes to 4,138 for Brown, a city councilman who is also a Negro.

The overwhelming victory by the 49-year-old Baptist minister was a severe blow to Tammany Hall, the New York County Democratic organization, and to the prestige of its leader, Carmine G. De Sapio, one of the nation's most influential Democrats.

Some observers had expected Powell's recent indictment on charges of income tax evasion would affect his vote-pulling power. But the indictment by a federal grand jury was not an issue in the campaign and apparently had no bearing on the primary election.

Walla Walla Boy Drowns in Oregon

La Grande — (AP) — State police here reported late Monday that a 17-year-old Walla Walla, Wash., youth, Dan Igstad drowned while swimming Sunday at Horseshoe lake in the Wallowa mountains.

The body was brought out of the isolated area Monday and taken to Joseph. Igstad's companion, Jim Lamott, told officers that Igstad apparently got a cramp in the cold water. The area is about 50 miles east of here.

The death boosted the Oregon week end death toll to 15. Two other persons drowned, eight died in traffic accidents, and four other were claimed in other mishaps.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Rose E. — My sister is making a fool of herself over a man.

Gertrude F. — I can't help it — I love him.

Rose E. — I am 26 and have been married eight years and I feel well qualified to give a little advice to my 23-year-old sister, who is making a fool of herself over a man who doesn't give a hoot for her.

Gertrude has been in love with Arnold for nearly two years. She went through every trick in the bag before she managed to get a date with him. Finally she got one. They had been going steady for about a year and a half, but nothing seemed to be coming of it.

At last Gertrude decided to take the plunge and do the proposing herself. I advised her against it, but she went ahead anyway. The answer was something like "Well, I'm not sure yet. Give me time to think it over."

I told Gertrude she should have her head examined when she insists upon seeing him after that. That girl doesn't know a slap in the face when she gets it.

Gertrude F. — Maybe I am a fool, I don't know. I just can't help myself. I have never been so drawn toward any man and I don't think I could ever feel this way about anyone else.

Arnold has explained to me that he has a lot of responsibilities in his family. His father is dead and he is the oldest. Maybe it is just an excuse, but I can't help realizing that he does have a difficult problem and he has to think things through.

I am very sorry if what my sister says is true — that I've made a fool of myself and cheapened myself by doing the proposing. But I wanted so much to know where I stood. I feel that Arnold likes me very much and could love me if he gave himself a chance, but he is afraid of the responsibilities of marriage.

I am willing to work for several years after we get married, but Rose says I'd be making a worse fool of myself.

The Council: No we don't think Gertrude has made or is making a fool of herself by pursuing the man she believes she loves, but possibly she is wrong to put all her eggs in this fragile basket.

Anyone who proposes — man or woman — runs the risk of being refused or getting an indecisive answer. This is not an insult or a slap. Many women have done the proposing and gotten affirmative answers and gone on to happy marriages.

But a woman who is hardy enough to do the proposing must also be hardy enough to accept a rejection without too much bitterness or suffering. She has no reason to feel she has "cheapened" herself.

Since Arnold feels he needs time to think things over, Gertrude might as well make good use of this time herself. She ought to think things over and consider what it would mean to be married to a man who is rather reluctant about taking the plunge.

Such a man is likely to feel he has been trapped into marriage. Instead of appreciating the sincerity and strong character of a woman like Gertrude, he might feel resentful of her when the ordinary and inevitable problems of married life arise.

These are only possibilities. We don't know Arnold. Gertrude does. She should try to study him a little more through the cool eyes of reason instead of the rosy glasses of love. She should, at the same time, take another look around at other men she knows. If she gives it an honest chance she may find someone more worthy of her love. Arnold's desire for a chance to think may be for the best for both of them.

Motorists Reminded Of Turning Right

Vernon Thorpe, city public works director, reminded motorists today that according to state law cars northbound on Riverside ave. with the intention of turning east on Main st. could make this turn on the red light after first stopping at the intersection.

However, he added, cars eastbound on Eighth st., intending to turn north on Riverside ave., could not make that left turn on a red light.

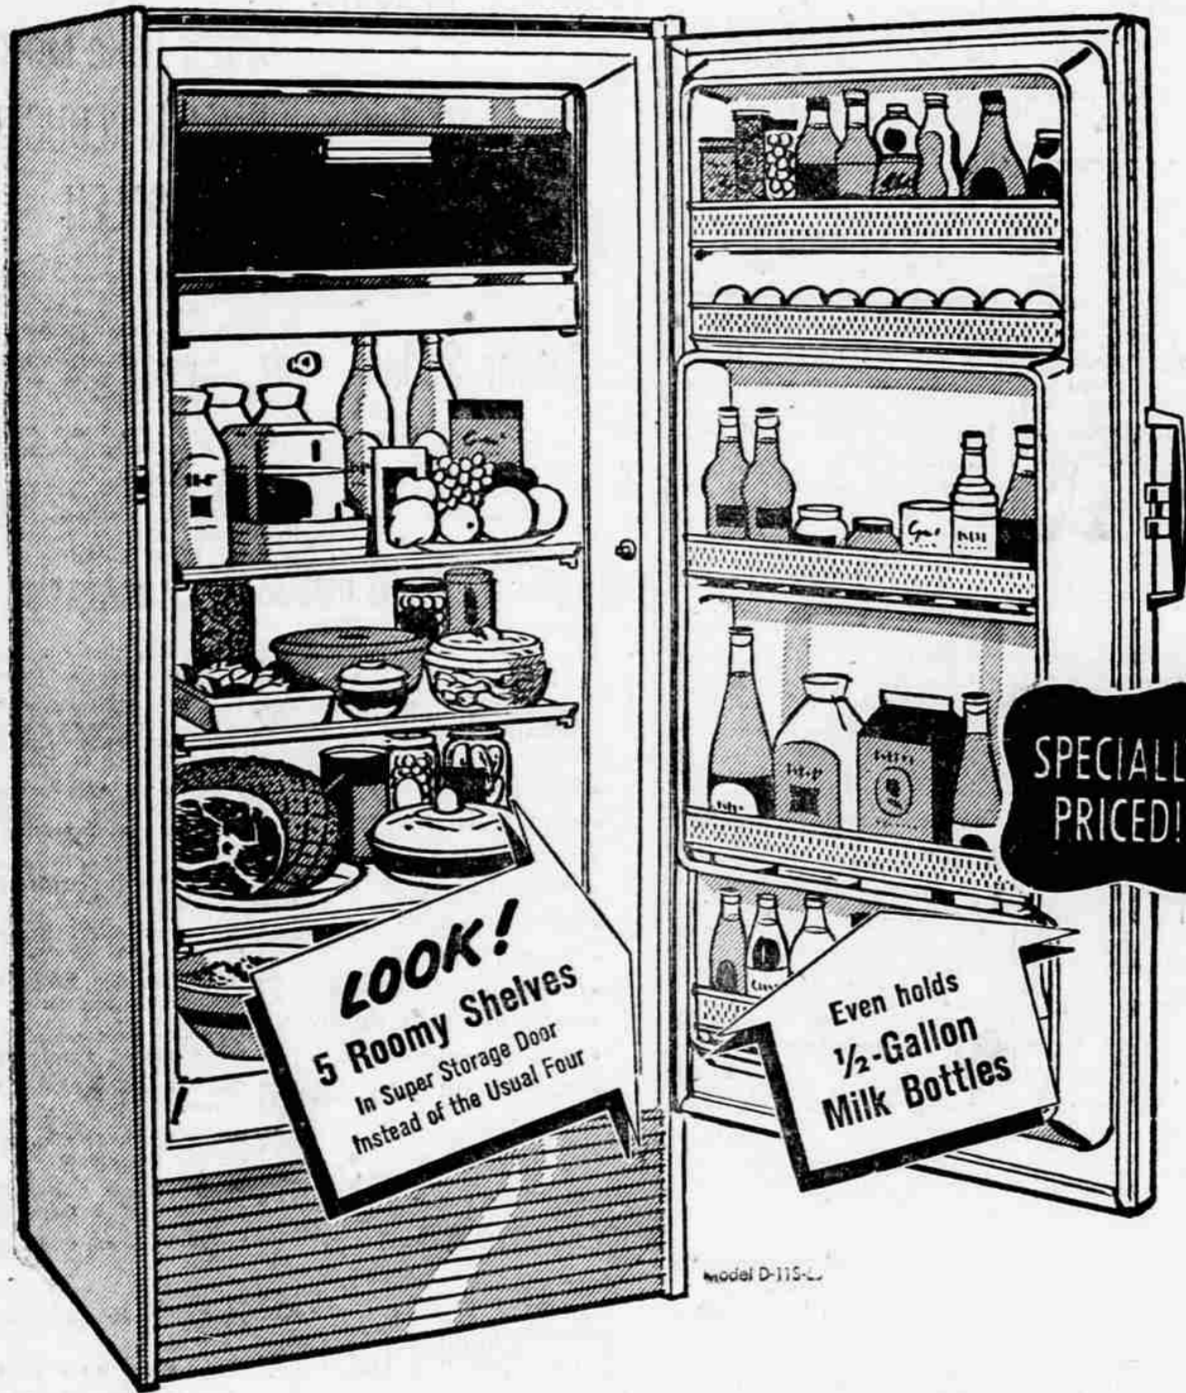

Thorpe announced that a timing device is now in effect at the Main st.-Riverside ave. intersection to allow a longer green light for Riverside ave. traffic between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. He said the green light would last 37 seconds for Riverside ave. during this period, and 17 seconds for Main st. Normally the green light lasts for 26 seconds each.

He said a yellow stripe would be painted soon to indicate the right turn lane from Riverside ave. onto Main st. He said he had decided against a sandbag barrier there for the time being.
