Search Resumes For Bodies of Two Youths in River

By United Press International
Search resumed this morning for the bodies of two Ontario, Ore., youth who were among four persons drowned in the treacherous Snake river near here Wednesday. The four drowned in two separate tragedies.

Skin divers from Idaho and Oregon began a search at dawn for the bodies of Martin Maillion, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maillion, and Charles Thomas, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Thomas, who drowned while swimming in the waters of the muddy Snake on the Idaho-Oregon border.

Skin divers Wednesday night recovered the bodies of Boise contractor Earl Allen, 44, and his business associate Gerald Zimmerman, 35, also Boise. They were swept to their deaths late Wednesday near Nyssa, Ore., when their small boat capsized. Two other Boise men accompanying the victims were rescued from the river. They were Mike Cahoun and Tom Doyle.

See Youths Disappear
Barry Belisle, a 10-year-old Ontario youth, said that while swimming near Dobbs island about a mile north of Ontario's city limits he saw the Maillion and Thomas youths disappear under the water. Oregon state police reported that the youngsters apparently stepped off a 30-foot underwater shelf and were swept to their deaths in the undertow.

After the bodies of Allen and Zimmerman were recovered, skin divers turned to the search for the bodies of the two youngsters. However, the search was called off at 10:30 Wednesday night because the divers were having trouble seeing despite the fact that the area was lighted by emergency power.

Allen and Zimmerman lost their lives when their boat capsized and they were pulled under the water by undercurrents. Doyle also was pulled under but was saved by a Caldwell boater, Robert Beement. He dove from his boat and pulled Doyle to safety. He said he could not locate the other two men under the water.

The four Boise men had life preservers in the boat with them, but they had not put them on when they started downstream in the small craft.

RESIGNING effective Sept. 1, Arthur Larson, special White House assistant, says he will continue as special consultant to President.

Dr. Wilson Named YMCA Director

Dr. Frank Wilson, 34 Portland ave., was selected to serve on the Young Men's Christian association board of directors at the monthly meeting this week.

Wilson, a Medford dentist, has been active in YMCA affairs for the past year. He was co-chairman of the "Y" fireworks show and is chairman of the boys club work committee.

An active member of the Crater Lions club, he has served them as chairman of the sports fair and is the current president of the club. Other positions he presently holds are chairman of the United Medford Crusade professional division, and secretary of the dental society.

A graduate of Oregon State college and University of Oregon, Wilson is married and has three children. He has resided in the Rogue valley for three years.

In other action, the board decided that the employment
