

1st Nazarene Church Schedules Activity Programs for Youth

"The Nazarene Answer to Delinquency" will be the subject of consideration in the closing assembly of the Sunday school at First Church of the Nazarene, 520 North Holly st., Sunday.

This presentation will be the Fall kick-off for the boys and girls week day club acttivity program sponsored by the local church as a part of the nation wide Caravan program throughout the denomination.

Following Sunday's presentation three week night training periods will be conducted to acquaint parents of the church with the Caravan program. Mrs. O. L. Tompkins is local Caravan committee chairman. Mrs. Lowell Shepard, Christian service training director will speak in each of the sessions, presenting the duties of the guides, and the general program of the Caravan.

Indian Theme

The Caravan program follows an Indian theme, with Indian Brave troops for boys ages 8 through 12 and Indian Maiden troops for girls. Older groups, aged 13 through 16, are Trailblazers and Pathfinders.

The program is divided into four phases, spiritual, physical, mental and social, with each phase covered during the club week day meetings of each group. Each group has an advancement program with awards for their achievements.

The general public is invited to attend these workshop and study sessions to be held at the church Aug. 18 and 25 at 7:30 p.m.

First Church of the Nazarene voted to broadcast the regular Sunday morning worship service, beginning Sunday, Sept. 7 over station KDOV.

The church has carried the "Gospel Hour" program on KMED continuously for the past 16 years. It was the unanimous opinion of the governing board that the church ministry should be broadened to provide this service to the community.

The pastor, the Rev. Raymond W. Hurn, is currently presenting a series of sermons from the book of Revelation. The sermons are presented at the 7 p.m. worship hour each Sunday. The third in the series will be given Sunday evening, Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

The Christian Youth Fellowship party will be held at the home of Boyd Henry, 3119 Hanley rd. at 7:30 p.m.

The Chi Rho Fellowship will hold a party on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM—Five young people of Free Methodist church, Medford, are the championship quiz team members in the Oregon Conference of the Free Methodist church. The team members, who left the valley Wednesday for Winona Lake, Ind., to compete for the international championship title, won their title on questions from the book of Genesis. The event was held during the annual Oregon conference in July. Each year a different book of the Bible is selected by the church for the youth's quiz

THE REV. J. M. MCCRAW
Here from Texas

Southern Baptist Pastor Arrives

The Rev. J. M. McCraw arrived in Medford last week to assume duties as pastor of First Southern Baptist church here. Prior to his arrival he was pastor for three years of the First Baptist church, Clint, Texas.

Mr. McCraw, who has been a minister for the past 20 years, has served churches in both Texas and Arizona. He also has conducted revival services throughout the Southwest.

He attended Howard Payne college, Brownwood, Texas.

Mr. McCraw, his wife, Wanda, and three boys, Wayne, Don and Ray, are making their home at the parsonage next to the church on Lozier lane.

The new pastor succeeds the Rev. Claude Allen Miller who resigned June 1 to return to college in California.

The public is invited to attend all services.

Young Christian Workers Group Started in 1925

The Young Christian Workers, of which the Medford group is a chapter, had its beginnings in Belgium about 30 years ago.

The movement was started by a Belgian priest, Father Joseph Cardijn, as a method of training workers as Christian leaders. He would leave the young workers in their environment with their friends, at their jobs, and use this as their mission field.

Having begun in Belgium in 1912, the Young Christian Workers was officially recognized as a national organization in Belgium in 1925 by the Roman Catholic church. Today the YCW exists in 37 countries and is organizing in 25 others. Over one million young workers throughout the world make up its membership.

Began Before War
The American Young Christian Workers had its beginnings in the years shortly before World War II. Isolated groups, called "sections" began in New York, San Antonio, San Francisco, Chicago, and New England.

Then in 1947, the International YCW held its Third World Congress in Montreal, Canada, and several delegates from these isolated sections attended this meeting. At the Congress, Pat Keegan, International Secretary of the YCW, and these individual delegates helped to outline plans for the united development of the movement in the United States.

Headquarters Setup
Immediately following this meeting the men's sections representatives to a study week end at Chiderly, Ill. During this week end, the plans outlined at the international meeting and the needs of the country were discussed.

It was decided to establish a general headquarters which would have direct contact with the international office and would be responsible for the development and extension of the American YCW.

Monsignor Reynold Hillenbrand was selected as general chaplain, and Tony Zivalich, a young steelworker from Chicago, was elected the YCW's first National President.

At a similar meeting at Syosset, N. Y., the American girls' YCW was organized, and Miss Edwina Hearn, a Chicago office worker, was chosen the first girls' president.

Today the Young Christian Workers has taken its place as one of the youth movements in the United States, training worker leaders.
