

Red Sanders Dies Of Heart Attack

Los Angeles—UPI—Henry (Red) Sanders, acknowledged coaching genius who became the center of the self-consuming Pacific Coast conference controversy, was dead today—victim of a heart attack.

Sanders, whose nine fabulous years as UCLA's head coach was a thorn in the side of many of the PCC's less successful members, died Thursday in a downtown Los Angeles hotel room.

With him at the time was a friend, W. T. (Pop) Grimes and a friend of Grimes, Ernestine Drake. Grimes said Sanders and he were talking "baseball and the upcoming football season" when the 53-year-old coach was stricken and collapsed.

For more than a half-hour, while hotel employees sought vainly to locate a doctor, Sanders lay unattended on the floor. Then the police and the Emergency hospital were called but when police arrived Sanders was dead.

Sanders amassed a nine-year total of 66 wins, 19 losses and 1 tie. This included three consecutive PCC titles, and a national championship in 1954.

Chicago—UPI—Wilbur Johns, UCLA athletic director, said today he had no immediate plans for selecting a successor to football coach Henry (Red) Sanders, who died Thursday of a heart attack.

Johns was here for the college coaches' meeting and tonight's 25th annual all-star football game.

"I'm in a state of shock," Johns said when informed of Sanders' untimely death. "I'm trying to collect my thoughts. I can't even put into words my feelings on Sanders."

Other college athletic officials expressed similar sentiments on the death of the highly respected coach who collapsed in a Los Angeles hotel room.

One of Sanders' greatest rivals and closest of friends, Jess Hill, athletic director and former football coach at the University of Southern California, said he was "profoundly shocked." "This left me with a feeling of great personal grief," Hill said.

Big Ten Commissioner Kenneth (Tug) Wilson lauded Sanders as "one of the greatest coaches of our time."

"He was colorful, inventive and a credit to the game," Wilson said.

All assignments were subject to last minute change.

Coach Lee Gustafson of the State squad has named a tentative lineup of Tim Bullard at tackle; Hardy Spurgeon at fullback; Bob Belleisle at tackle; Denny Pieters at guard; ends Mike Sparlin and Gred Willener; guard Doug Austin and center Jim Funston; John Wilson at quarterback; Ricki Lamb and Val Barnes at half.

The supreme court ban on school segregation affects the District of Columbia and 17 states where segregation was compulsory and four states where it was optional.

Chicago—UPI—The Detroit Lions, champions of the National Football league, and the 1958 College All-Stars tangled tonight in the 25th renewal of the annual pro-collegian struggle.

As usual, the play-for-pay squad was a solid favorite. Only seven times in 24 games have the collegians been able to win, the last time in 1955 when they gained a narrow 30-27 decision over the Cleveland Browns.

But nearly 70,000 fans were expected to jam Soldier Field, despite an anticipated daytime temperature in the high 80's, to see whether the new crew, coached by Otto Graham, can upset.

"We're going to play an open game," Graham said, "because you're not going to beat a pro team on the ground. We'll run a regular pro offense."

The game will be both broadcast and televised nationally.

sell, Medford, was first low net with 76, and Mrs. John Day, Medford, second low with 78.

A tourney sidelight was the explosion of a ball hit by Mrs. Milo Marlatt, Eugene, on her approach to the first green. The ball had performed odd antics on the way down the fairway and Mrs. Marlatt took a nine on the hole. There was considerable discussion on how the trick ball got into her bag.

Tebbetts Would Quit Anyhow

Cincinnati, Ohio—UPI—Birdie Tebbetts, who unexpectedly resigned his post as Cincinnati Redleg manager Thursday, said today he would have quit the job "even if the club had been going well."

The one-time catching star with Detroit and Boston of the American league said he planned to stay in the game but doesn't know whether he will stay on the field or move into the front office.

"It was a helluva job," he said as he sat packing his gear, "but in one way I guess I'm as interested in the success of this club as anyone else."

"If I'd have continued, I would have hurt the entire organization. I didn't want to do that, as they gave me my start."

Coach Jimmy Dykes took over for Tebbetts and will run the team until a successor is named. General Manager Gabe Paul will confer with owner Powell Crosley, who is currently on a vacation cruise.

Giant Turning Point Possible

San Francisco—UPI—Just when the experts had consigned the Giants' pennant dreams to the ash heap, the unpredictable mixture of youth and age looked today like a contender all over again.

Old Marv Grissom came out of the fire house in the ninth inning Thursday to quench a rally by the St. Louis Cardinals and insure the Giants a 4-3 victory.

"This could be the turning point," Manager Bill Rigney said afterward. "It looked as if we were going to blow it in the ninth, but we held them. And that means a lot."
