

Engineers Return to Jobs in Portland

Portland—(UPI)—The operating engineers' union today and Thursday "cut loose" members of the Portland local who had voted 3-to-1 for a settlement of their labor dispute with the Associated General Contractors and they returned to their jobs in the Portland area and in southwest Washington.

Results of ratification votes in other parts of the state were not expected to be completed until Saturday and if union members approve the AGC offer, work could begin immediately. It was expected that projects will be manned throughout Oregon and at full strength by Monday morning.
