

SUCCESS — This cowboy got the bull by the horns in the team roping contest yesterday afternoon in the final rodeo performance of the Rogue Valley Roundup. It was one of 12 events in the three-day rodeo.

Low Attendance Noted for Rodeo

A total attendance of approximately 3,000 persons was reported for the three days of the Rogue Valley Roundup rodeo over the week end, according to representatives of the sponsoring Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Event Winners

Winners of the various events were: Bareback riding—Jack Middleton, top man for first day; Sonny Turman, top man for second day, and Sammy Flynn, high average score for all three days.

Federal Airport Grant Received

The federal government's grant for its share in the improvement of Medford airport's runway light system arrived at city hall today, according to Richard Hogan, airport manager.

Federal Airport Grant Received

The amount of the grant is $35,241. Its purpose is to cover 75 per cent of the cost of installing high intensity lights for the main runway, and 55 94/100 per cent of the cost of shifting the present medium intensity lights from the main runway to the secondary runway.

Bulletin

St. Louis—UPI—The U.S. Court of Appeals today reversed an order by U.S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley of Arkansas which would have deferred school integration in Little Rock until 1961.

Plans Being Made For Second Try to Fire Moon Rocket

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—UPI—The Air Force—its first moonshot effort a failure—made tentative plans today to try again in four weeks to fire a rocket around the moon.

There was speculation Russia might make a similar attempt several days in advance of the second U.S. effort. Meanwhile, the Army was reported ready to shoot for the moon.

Disintegration of the U.S. rocket after it had traveled less than 10 miles of its projected 220,000-mile journey into space Sunday was cited by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas as a "grim warning" to Americans this country is behind Russia in missile development.

But most officials stressed there had been little expectation of success in this nation's first effort to probe the mysteries of the moon at close range. They maintained the failure was not significant.

European newspapers, meanwhile, expressed disappointment at the U.S. failure. But most expressed confidence the U.S. would succeed in the near future.

Space research chief Roy Johnson said after the explosion of the rocket Able I that the Air Force probably also would get the next moon shot chance. It cannot be attempted before Sept. 14 when the moon's perigee again brings it relatively close to the earth.

Because of the moon's position, Russia could make an attempt a day or so earlier. The Air Force had three moon shots assigned and the Army two.

A completely successful flight would have given the earth its first crude pictures of the moon's eternally hidden dark side. This picture would have been reconstructed by scientists from radioed data from a television-like "scanning device" in the moon satellite.

Plans for a nominating convention Thursday to name a candidate for Jackson county district judge are progressing, it was reported today.

A telephone committee, composed of members of the Jackson County Bar association, will begin functioning this week in an attempt to obtain sufficient attendance at the convention to name a candidate. A minimum of 250 persons is needed to nominate.

The convention is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 21, in the Esquire theater.

Meanwhile, three persons have been discussed as possible candidates, according to Bar association spokesmen. (The candidate must be a lawyer, under state law.) They include Gerald J. Scannell and James Anicker, both deputy district attorneys, and O. Hilding Bengtson, former state representative and a frequent candidate for elective office in the county.

The convention is sponsored by a group of attorneys and others who are concerned that there should be a nominee for the office, regardless of the outcome of current legal proceedings involving the two candidates who ran for the nomination in the May primary election.

Those candidates are E. Roy Bashaw, Medford city attorney, and Robert G. Danielson, formerly of Ashland. Danielson received the most votes, but his eligibility as a candidate has been challenged on the grounds of his moving from the county prior to the election.

RESOLUTION PROPOSED TO SETTLE SITUATION

900 Youngsters Participating in 4-H, FFA Fair

Event Officially Opens Tomorrow

Over 800 head of livestock and 900 youngsters will be entered in the 4-H and FFA county fair which opens today at the county fair grounds, Glenn Klein, Jackson county 4-H agent, estimates.

Today is the first of the six-day event which officially opens to the public tomorrow, Klein said. It is the forerunner of Medford Kiwanis club's county fair which opens at 5:30 p.m., Thursday for a four-day run here.

First stage presentation will be held Thursday evening, with other shows reported scheduled nightly through Sunday. In addition, matinee performances scheduled for Saturday and Sunday afternoons, starting at 3 p.m.

100 Exhibits

More than 100 different demonstrations, exhibits and events are included in the show, a spokesman said.

Included will be commercial and non-commercial exhibits, concessions, games, stage shows, food, textile, floral and land products exhibits and a number of other events yet to be announced, it was reported.

Home Ec Judging

The 4-H and FFA events started today at 8 a.m. with the home economics exhibit judging and agriculture demonstrations at 9 a.m.

Tuesday will feature home economics judging and style revue and agriculture demonstrations, both starting at 9 a.m. The afternoon's events will show poultry judging and contest and rabbit judging and contest, both starting at 1 p.m. A showmanship contest for rabbits and poultry follows at 4 p.m.

Wednesday's events get underway with crops and forestry judging contests at 9 a.m. Other events of the day include livestock judging, beef fitting contest, beef showmanship contest and announcement of the beef showmanship championship at 7 p.m.

Thursday at 9 a.m., swine will be judged. Other events include sheep showmanship, dairy judging contest, beef and sheep judging, and swine showmanship.

Dairy judging will fill two rings starting at 9 a.m. Friday. The livestock auction will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday, the final day for the 4-H and FFA events, will start with sheep judging and include dairy showmanship, tractor driving and sheep shearing contests, a style revue and finally, a special awards program.

Washington — UPI — The House today killed the Senate-approved Kennedy-Ives labor reform bill.

"Who Says I'm Not Interested in Cleaning Up?"

AFL-CIO Executive Council Cancels Pacts With Hoffa

Unity House, Pa.—UPI—The AFL-CIO Executive Council today slapped hard at James R. Hoffa's teamsters by cancellation of all pacts between AFL-CIO affiliates and the union.

Federation President George Meany said the crack-down would bar participation by AFL-CIO unions in Hoffa's plan for an alliance of land-sea-air transportation unions.

Except for AFL-CIO Vice President Joe Curran, the council voted unanimously to order termination of the pacts. Meany said Curran agreed to abide by the majority's wishes.

Barred Under Policy

Meany said even "gentlemen's agreements" would be barred under the AFL-CIO's new policy. While enforcement of its directive was not discussed, Meany said he expected compliance from the affected unions.

The AFL-CIO chief was in a jovial mood as he reported adoption of his get-tough proposal by his "cabinet" on the first day of a four-day session at this union-resort in the Poconos.

United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther swung his powerful support behind Meany Sunday night, saying it was not right for AFL-CIO unions to tie up with an organization expelled on corruption charges.

Meany and other labor chiefs met today at this Pocono mountain playground owned by the International Ladies' Garment Workers.

Three Nations Submit Mid-East Proposal

United Nations, N.Y.—UPI—Norway, Columbia and Canada today proposed a resolution for U.N. General Assembly consideration asking Dag Hammarskjold to take steps to settle the Middle East situation.

The draft resolution would empower Secretary-General Hammarskjold to go personally to the Middle East on another of his "quiet diplomacy" peace missions, informed diplomats said.

The three-power measure was expected to be more public officially later today.

Qualified diplomats said it would be possible for the assembly's emergency session to vote on the resolution by Thursday and for Hammarskjold to be in the turbulent Middle East by this week end.

The resolution, designed to make possible the withdrawal of American and British forces from Lebanon and Palestine, calls upon Hammarskjold to conduct a study for the establishment of a U.N. peace force.

Economic Program

It also would allow him to begin negotiations on the setting up of an Arab development institution in a Middle East do-it-yourself economic program as suggested by President Eisenhower.

Norwegian Deputy Foreign Minister Hans Engen did most of the negotiating work on the measure. A stiffening attitude by the U.S. against having the Eisenhower plan watered down too far cost Engen the support of several sponsors.

One Eisenhower proposal was for measures to end propaganda warfare by radio and for setting up a clearing house for complaints of such activities. This was stricken entirely from the measure.

India refused to accept any reference to Eisenhower's proposal for a stand-by peace force, and Moscow Radio asserted today it would oppose such a force. The Indians also had other objections to the Norwegian draft and were reported pushing their own ideas for a separate resolution.

Council Tours Dispute Scenes

Mayor John W. Snider, members of the city council and other city officials visited Friday the scenes of two current disputes involving Medford citizens.

At Medford airport, they inspected the site of a proposed relocation of the Avis car rental desk in the lobby. James H. Daily, Hertz agent, protested the shift at the Aug. 7 council meeting.

Observers reported that council members gave consideration during the inspection to an alternative location for the Avis desk. The original plan called for placing Avis across the aisle from Hertz. The alternative would place Avis beside its competitor.

The official party then visited Speedway Auto Parts, 1395 Hillen rd. A petition bearing 128 signatures was filed with the council Aug. 7 requesting that it not renew approval of Speedway's operation. The petition charged Speedway with being unsightly, causing smoke and odors and preventing development of property in the area.

Speedway has denied the charges.

Six Persons Die In Accidents in State on Week End

Traffic accidents took the lives of four Oregonians during the past week end and two others died accidentally.

Robert M. Riley, 36-year-old Eugene man, was killed early Sunday when the prowler car in which he was riding collided with another auto, cartwheeled through the air and snapped off a power pole some 12 feet from the ground, throwing him from the car.

Riley was working as a merchant patrolman for the Springfield city police at the time. He was a nationally-known inventor, and had developed a mechanical duck decoy that won nationwide acclaim.

A 51-year-old Troutdale man, Earl J. Heeb, was dead on arrival at a Portland hospital early Sunday after a car he was driving ran off the road and overturned at Orient.

A one-car crash on Highway 36 east of Florence took the life of 22-year-old Barbara Ann Mead Saturday as her car struck the Wolf Creek bridge.

In northeast Portland Saturday, O. K. Sims, 50, of Portland was fatally injured when his car rammed into an overpass abutment on the Banfield freeway.

Dennis Pullen, 12-year-old Portland Little League baseball player was fatally injured Saturday when an unanchored official stand at the quarter midget auto race track in Alpenrose park toppled onto him, breaking his neck.

Frank Thomas, 7, of Grants Pass was electrocuted Saturday while fixing a television antenna. A broken wire flipped onto a high tension line and killed him.

There were showers of varying intensity around southern Oregon yesterday although on a trace of precipitation was reported at the airport weather station. At the southwest district office of the state department of forestry, not far away on Table Rock rd., .03 of an inch of rain was recorded. Scattered rain was reported over southern Oregon forests. Rainfall was .02 of an inch at Grants Pass and .03 at Klamath Falls.

Only other rain in the Medford vicinity this month was a trace on Aug. 2. Last measurable rainfall at the Medford airport was .62 on July 17.

Low humidity reading at the weather station yesterday was 43 per cent after registering in the 20 per cents last week. Humidity was dropping below the 43 figure today.

Hall Withdraws From New York Race

New York —UPI— A battle of millionaires—Gov. Averell Harriman against Nelson A. Rockefeller—was virtually assured today for the New York governorship, with the withdrawal of former Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall from the race for the GOP nomination.

Hall, meanwhile, loomed as a strong possibility for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator.

Naples, Italy —UPI— Fourteen U.S. 6th Fleet destroyers, which dropped anchors in Naples last Thursday, steamed out of port today.

Cooler Day Of Month Noted

Yesterday, with scattered precipitation, was the coolest day so far this month for the Medford vicinity but the humid 83-degree temperature offered little respite to the current hot dry spell in the Rogue river valley.

Mercury at the U.S. weather bureau station at the Medford municipal airport was expected to rise to 90 degrees this afternoon and a maximum of 95 is forecast for Tuesday.

The 83 reading yesterday marked only the second time this month that the high temperature here has dropped below 90 degrees. Second low maximum was 86 on Aug. 3.

Shady Cove — Mrs. Max Hawks, 44, of Shady Cove, had spent over 30 hours in the rugged Huckleberry lake area last Friday and Saturday while search parties looked for her, her daughter, Mrs. Orville Stone, Days Creek, explained today.

She had become lost when she met a bear on the trail leading back to the car, Mrs. Stone said.

Mrs. Hawks went to the lake Friday morning to pick huckleberries with Mrs. Ray Briggs and Mrs. Dolf Larson, also of Shady Cove.

Badly bruised and scratched, the berry-picker is now resting in bed at her home. She is reported otherwise in good condition, her daughter stated.

Mrs. Hawks did not require medical attention. She had eaten nothing during her ordeal and suffered bruises from two falls one from 25 feet and another from 20 feet, the daughter said. Mrs. Stone first learned her mother was lost through a radio report and she came to the family home at Shady Cove.

Last Friday, Circuit Judge Edward C. Kelly enjoined the county clerk from placing any name on the ballot, pending the outcome of legal proceedings in two cases. These include a request by Bashaw's attorneys for a declaratory judgment naming him the candidate, and a citizen's suit which, in effect, seeks the same outcome.

A convention nominee would appear on the ballot if neither Bashaw nor Danielson are found eligible.
