Meanwhile, the Kiwanis county fair opened officially at 5:30 p.m. yesterday with an estimated 800 persons attending. Fair officials consider this about average attendance for an opening night.

Julie Joy, Medford, young vocalist took top honors last night during the Oregon state fair talent search program. The first portion of the Miss Jackson county pageant was held also last night with the girls entering the evening gown competition. The 14 contestants are to be judged in bathing suits tonight. Saturday night the contestants will be judged on their talent during the two shows—one at 8 p.m. and one at 9 p.m. Sunday night the finalists will be judged.

Charges Denied On Fair Grounds By County Court

Members of the Jackson county court yesterday denied charges by members of the county fair board that they have been repeatedly requested to sprinkle the fair grounds to lay the dust, and to supply gravel for the main road and around the wash stands.

Commissioner Chester Wendt said the first time he heard that gravel had been requested was Tuesday afternoon when the Mail Tribune asked him if gravel would be supplied. The other two members of the court said they knew nothing of a request for gravel until they read about it in the newspaper yesterday.

Court members also said that the first request that they had to sprinkle down the grounds was Monday when Bill Bigham, chairman of the fair board, met with them.

A load of gravel was delivered to the fair grounds this morning for use around the wash stands. The court has also arranged for use of a water wagon and driver from the Kogap Lumber company.

County Engineer Paul Rynning explained this morning that the county has only three water wagons and the nearest ones are at Butte Falls and at the head of Thompson creek. He also noted that the pile of weeds which Bigham charged the county court has failed to dispose of was formed when his department cut the weeds as a courtesy to the fair board. He said that at the time the weeds were cut it was explained they would be removed if and when equipment was available.

Busy Time of Year

Rynning concluded that this is the busiest time of year for his men and he couldn't be expected to stop road work to help at the fair. "I wouldn't want them (fair officials) to stop the fair to help me either," he said.

Members of the court said that the county road program is behind schedule in many respects because of the late rains.

Judge Rodney Keating said that there is no allocation in the county budget for the fair but that the county court has always assisted when requested to do so.

County Treasurer Karl Janouch explained that racing fees and a state millage tax for county fairs are earmarked to support the fair. Last year, he said, the racing fees brought in $12,661.36 and the millage tax another $4,023.56, bringing the total money allocated for the fair to $31,215.61. The fair board spent $11,260.78 last year and left a balance for this year of $19,954.83.

Bills are submitted by the fair board and must be approved by the county court.

Fires Reported Under Control

All 61 fires which broke out since last Tuesday in the state department of forestry's southwest district or in the Rogue River National forest were under control and in the mop up stage today.

The blazes included the 400-acre burn in the Sardine creek district north of Gold Hill, which is listed now as man-caused, and 60 ignited by Tuesday and Wednesday night electrical storms. Fifty of these were on state patrol-protected land and the other 10 in the Rogue Forest.

Curt Nesheim, southwest district warden for the state forest agency, said that a pile of broken bottles has been listed as possible origin of the Sardine creek blaze which broke out on private land shortly after noon on Tuesday. It is speculated that magnified sun's rays may have touched off the fire.

Forty men were patrolling and mopping up in the burn area today. Nesheim said that no trouble is anticipated. "Everything is in pretty good shape," he remarked.

Eleven "smokes" were reported to Rogue forest fire control officials but one reported blaze in the Seven Lakes region could not be found by ground crewmen. It was surmised that the fire had gone out.

No Negroes at Central High

Little Rock, Ark. — (UPI) — No Negro students appeared at Central High school today as some 900 white students started registering for the fall term.

Virgil T. Blossom, superintendent of Little Rock schools, warned Negroes Thursday that Central will not allow them to register for the fall term.

The pressure has been removed, at least temporarily, from Little Rock and shifted to Washington where the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People prepared a last-ditch appeal to the Supreme Court that would permit Negro children to reenter the Arkansas school.

Teamsters Enter Third Day of Talks

San Diego — (UPI) — Teamsters, bolstered by a decision that they were entitled to jobless pay benefits from California, today entered the third day of talks to end a paralyzing freight strike-lockout in the West.

Assembly Favors Peace Plan Drawn By Arab Nations

One of Strongest Resolutions of UN

United Nations, N.Y.—(UPI) U. N. Secretary general Dag Hammarskjold announced today that he will leave Monday for Jordan to put into effect the all-Arab Middle East peace plan approved unanimously by the emergency session of the General Assembly.

Hammarskjold told a new conference that the measure accepted by an 80-0 vote in the assembly early Thursday evening was "one of the strongest resolutions" ever passed by the U.N.

Hammarskjold said if it is agreeable to the governments concerned he would leave for Amman Monday and spend a week at the Jordanian capital. He planned to spend the following week end in Geneva for the opening of the second International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy. He then will return to Amman, and then go to Cairo.

Plans Vague

From that point on, he said, his plans were "vague, but they will cover Beirut and, I guess, also Baghdad."

He said he was not certain whether he would visit Saudi Arabia or Israel.

Most western diplomats hailed passage of the all-Arab plan, but the United States apparently still had some doubts.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles insisted the future of the Middle East still would be settled by deeds and not by the words of the resolution putting it up to the Arabs themselves to keep the peace.

But the United States believed greater good had been done for the Middle East at this session than would have been achieved at the summit conference originally wanted by Russia.

Rare Example

The rare example of Arab unanimity — the resolution was written by 10 Arab nations — caused major surprise in Lebanon.

The resolution provides: — A reaffirmation by the Arabs themselves of the Arab league principles of mutual respect, non-aggression, non-interference and mutual benefit.

— Directs Hammarskjold to consult the governments concerned and make practical arrangements in Lebanon and Jordan facilitating the early withdrawal of foreign troops.

— Asks Hammarskjold to study with the Arab countries the establishment of a do-it-yourself economic program for the Middle East.

— Invites Hammarskjold to report progress by Sept. 30. The regular fall session of the General Assembly begins Sept. 16.

President Seeks Inspection, Arms Control Systems

Action Depends on Russia Agreement

Washington — (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today the United States is ready to suspend nuclear weapons tests for one year starting Oct. 31 if Russia doesn't resume its tests and agrees to negotiate on a world test ban.

The President said that as a result of the recent East-West technical talks at Geneva this country "is prepared to proceed promptly to negotiate an agreement for permanent suspension of tests and establishment of a control system recommended by the experts."

The President said: "If this is accepted in principle by the other nations which have tested nuclear weapons, then in order to facilitate the detailed negotiations the United States is prepared, unless testing is resumed by the Soviet Union, to withhold further testing on its part of atomic and hydrogen weapons for a period of one year from the beginning of the negotiations."

Wants Inspection System

The U.S. will be ready to open such negotiations Oct. 31, the President said in a special statement.

Eisenhower also said this country would be prepared to extend its suspension on a year by year basis upon two conditions. They were that an agreed inspection system was installed and working effectively and that satisfactory progress was being made in reaching agreement on and carrying out substantial arms control measures such as the U.S. has long sought.

The President's statement was sent to the U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow to hand over to the Russian Foreign Office.

It also was sent to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council in Paris.

The President noted his long-standing position that suspension of nuclear weapons tests "is not, in itself, a measure of disarmament or a limitation of armament."

U.S. TO SUSPEND TESTS

NOMINATING CONVENTION—A crowd estimated at 133 persons attended the unsuccessful nominating convention for candidates for district court judge here. To make the nomination legal 250 registered voters had to attend. The convention was held in case current candidates E. Roy Bashaw and Robert G. Danielson, now involved in litigation, are ruled ineligible to appear on the November general election ballot. The scene above was snapped just outside the Esquire theater building, where many of those attending stood in the open to escape the warm heat.

Restraining Order To Remain, Judge Kelly Rules Today

The temporary restraining order issued against County Clerk Bereth Hopkins, prohibiting her from entering the name of any candidate on the November ballot for district judge in Jackson county, will continue in effect, Judge Edward C. Kelly ruled this morning.

Judge Kelly heard arguments this morning for continuance and dismissal of the order and then ruled that in interests of justice to all parties concerned the order would continue.

Attorney Sidney Ainsworth had argued that if the order was not withdrawn and it develops that Robert G. Danielson is the rightful nominee, he will suffer irreparable damage.

Entered Sept. 4

The names of candidates must be entered by Sept. 4 if they are to appear on the ballot.

Judge Kelly set Wednesday, Aug. 27, as the trial date for the Bashaw vs. Danielson complaint in which E. Roy Bashaw seeks a declaratory judgment from the court naming him the rightful nominee for district judge here.

In still another action involving the disputed primary, the trial of House vs. Danielson was still in progress this afternoon.

Richard J. House, Medford, has contested the nomination of Danielson as district judge on the grounds that Danielson was not, and is not eligible for the position.

The trial began this morning and Ainsworth, defending Danielson, immediately moved for a dismissal of the proceedings on the grounds that a hearing had not been set within 20 days after the return date fixed in the notice, and that written notice of the hearing had not been submitted to all parties concerned five days prior to the trial, as is required by Oregon law.

Meeting Fails To Get Enough Voters To Attend

An estimated 133 persons—far less than the 250 needed—showed up last night at what was to have been a nominating convention to select a district judge candidate.

As a result, the meeting was never called to order and those persons who did turn out were told about 9 p.m. the meeting had failed in its purpose and they could go home.

The meeting was scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Esquire theater, and at that hour a few more than 100 people had showed up and signed a register. By 8:45 p.m., many attending had become discouraged and had started to leave.

The convention had been called to provide a "standby" candidate for the district judgeship, pending the outcome of legal proceedings designed to determine the status of the disputed nomination, involving E. Roy Bashaw and Robert G. Danielson. First phases of proceedings were being heard in circuit court this morning.

Gerald J. Scannell Jr. and Jim Anicker, both deputies in the district attorney's office, had planned to seek nomination for the district court position last night. An interesting sidelight to the issue over the district court judgeship is that an interim committee will recommend to the state legislature this year that the district court judge's salary be set at $10,000.

Prineville — (UPI) — Two persons, including a top rodeo performer, were killed and two others were injured near here early today when a car went out of control and struck two logging trucks.

'Interim' Ordinance Approved by Council

The city council last night approved an "interim" zoning ordinance for the Berrydale area with two qualifications:

First, that a joint meeting of the council and planning commission be called to seek a decision on the proposed light-industrial zoning of a lot which William Doernbach and other citizens contend should remain single-family.

Second, that owners of property not conforming to the new zoning be allowed the right to appeal for zone changes.

The motion to approve the ordinance with the qualifications was made by Ed Hall and seconded by Fred Robinson. Both are councilmen from Ward 1 where Berrydale is situated. Approval was unanimous.

Purpose of Meeting

The purpose of requesting a joint meeting with the planning commission was described today by Mayor John W. Snider as an attempt to better understand the issue. Doernbach said at last night's meeting that deed restrictions on the lot in question limited it to residential use. Hall said he did not think the city should involve itself in a dispute over such restrictions.

Mayor Snider today said he planned to investigate the deed restrictions himself. He and members of the council visited the lot July 31. They were shown the area by Doernbach and by Harold Farr, who owns it and plans to expand his adjacent trailer court onto it if the light-industrial zoning is approved.

"If you set a precedent," Doernbach said, "you'll have real estate men and subdividers here worried."

Joint Meeting

Calling for a joint meeting has a second possible significance, under a policy announced last week by Mayor Snider. By this policy, a joint meeting would be called for whenever it appeared that members of the council disagreed with a planning commission recommendation. Rather than reversing the commission outright, the council would vote for a meeting.

A joint open meeting on the Farr property had been called for previously, at the July 17 council meeting. The two groups subsequently met in closed session as a "joint policy committee." But the open meeting was not held. Instead, Mayor Snider announced the policy.

In describing the zoning ordinance approved last night, City Manager Robert A. Duff said it "generally fits existing uses. It's possible some things might be changed."

Duff presented letters from two property-owners desiring a change of zone. The properties in question are the Berrydale Flower farm, 2231 Table Rock rd., and the Corner grocery, Berrydale ave. at Table Rock rd. Both are zoned single family under the plan adopted last night.

The council referred the matters to the planning commission for public hearings. Nick Grier, proprietor of a trailer park and trailer rental and sales concern at 2902 North Pacific highway, said he too planned to request a change from single family for his property.

Petition Filed For Robinson

A petition nominating incumbent Fred E. Robinson for reelection as city councilman representing Ward 1 was filed at city hall yesterday, according to Darel Huson, city recorder.

The 46-signature petition makes Robinson the third candidate for the seat. Petitions for Roy Wilkes and William Doernbach were submitted previously.

Donald Hansen, incumbent Ward 2 councilman, announced last night that he has definitely decided to seek reelection. A petition in his name is currently being circulated, according to Huson. Deadline for filing petitions for the four city council seats and the office of mayor is the end of this month.

Attendance High At Afternoon Play

Ashtland — Yesterday afternoon's performance of "Troilus and Cressida" in the Shakespearean Festival theater was so successful that afternoon matinees may be held next year, a festival spokesman said.

Such performances, however, would be held possibly only when seats for a certain play are sold out for some time or when weather forces cancellation of a night performance, the spokesman explained.

A total of 321 persons attended the play yesterday afternoon as the cast dripped perspiration from under their heavy costumes. The mercury stayed at 94 degrees.

Evans Valley To Vote Again

Evans Valley school district voters will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a total levy of $36,737.67 for the new school year.

This will be the fourth time this year the school district patrons will vote on the new school levy. Voters of the school district, 12 miles north of Rogue River, had rejected the school levy for the third time.

The new levy proposed is $7,422.50 less than the previous total of $44,160.17. The cut had been made previously by the school board just before it met with the district budget committee last month.

Some of the major alterations of the school district budget include removal of $7,000 allowed for a new school bus, $2,000 for cafeteria remodeling, addition of $1,170 for repair of a 10-year-old school bus, inclusion of $500 for emergency expenditures and $70 for the bus drivers' physical examinations as now required by law.

County Assessor Ray Schumacher has granted the district an extension of time on condition the board would revise the budget. The levy must be certified by Aug. 25 so it can be placed on the tax rolls.
