

Stengel's Scouts Watch Milwaukee

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press International.
New York — (UP) — Secret espionage report from your Yankee Stadium private eye-Yankee Manager Casey Stengel already has his spies watching the Milwaukee Braves pick up World Series tips.

SPORTS

Stengel, with an 11½ game lead and only 27 games left to play, still won't admit publicly that his New York Yankees have wrapped up their third straight American league pennant. But plans for the World Series, not the pennant race, are buzzing around in his brain these days.

Your secret agent can report that Stengel already has dispatched scouts to watch the Braves with specific missions in mind.

No Surprises
He wants to know whether certain Braves' players are doing things exactly the same way they did in the 1937 series. Ol' Case was caught by surprise last year by a couple of things — chiefly the good fielding of third baseman Eddie Mathews and outfielder Wes Covington — and he doesn't intend to get surprised again.

He wants to know all about the Braves' players who are unknown to him. He has heard a lot of praise about "them two young pitchers who look real good," an obvious reference to Carleton Willey and Joey Jay.

You can bet that these two youngsters and the rest of the Brave's pitching staff will be studied carefully by a platoon of Yankee scouts and that Stengel will receive a detailed report on each.

What a World Series manager wants to know about the other team's pitchers includes not only a description of every type pitch each has to offer but specific information on what each pitcher is likely to throw in certain situations — chiefly what pitch he usually goes to in a jam.

Watch For Changes
The reports on batters are just as complete. The Yankees still have their 1937 reports on the Braves' batters, of course, but hitters change their pattern often between seasons. A batter will correct one weakness and perhaps develop a different one. The pitch that got him out last year may be his "meat" this year.

Stengel, it was learned, also is very interested in the defensive positions each Braves' player adopts against certain types of hitters.

Casey wants "the full book" from his spies. The old man didn't much like losing the last World Series and he doesn't want it to happen again.

Shasta College Coach To Issue Gear On Tuesday
Redding, Calif. — Coach Bill Rhyne, intent on improving on last year's fine record, will open his 1938 football campaign next Tuesday, Sept. 2, with a general issuance of equipment. Rhyne said that he will be in the Shasta college gym at 9 a.m. and will issue equipment all of that day.

Practice for the Shasta college Knights football team will open Wednesday, Sept. 3 on a two-day basis. Rhyne said that he will set the times later, depending on the schedule for registration and entrance exams.

The Knights last year had the best record in the state, eight wins and one loss. They won the Shrine Lumber bowl game from the Washington state champions Olympic, 20-19. Rhyne said he expects a turnout approaching 70.

Krause's Double Wrecks Hanson's No-Hit Chance

United Press International
Stu Hanson had a no-hitter in reach last night but Mel Krause of Eugene spoiled things.

Hanson had not allowed a single hit in Wenatchee's 7-0 Northwest League victory over Eugene until Krause came up with one out in the ninth. He promptly ruined things with a double.

Hanson, a former Central Washington College athlete, finished up without any more trouble for a brilliant one-hitter for his ninth decision of the year.

Yakima spurred for six runs in the ninth to take Tri-City 7-3. The league leaders got six markers on five hits and two errors.

Salem and Lewiston split a twin bill. Salem took the opener 12-3 and Lewiston the nightcap in 12 innings 5-2.

The Senators swarmed all over 22-game winner Thornton Kipper in the opener with a 13-hit attack.

In the nightcap, Arnie Hallgren belted a homer in the 12th frame for the Lewiston victory.

Pride Wins In Harness Contention

By ED SAINSBURY
Du Quoin, Ill. — (UP) — A trim, brown filly with a thoroughbred's heart, Emily's Pride, ranked today with the great names of harness racing.

The three-year-old daughter of Star's Pride first trotted the fastest Hambletonian heat ever by a filly, 2:00 1-5, and then shook off the shock of banging into a rival's sulky to come back and win the 33rd Hambletonian, harness racing's classic stake, with a record speed of 1:59 4-5 in the third heat.

The win was not unexpected since previously she boasted of the best time of the field for a mile this year, 2:00 2-5, and was an even money co-favorite to win, although no pari-mutual betting was allowed, and only friendly wagering occurred.

Class Tails
But after her stellar first heat performance, there came the opportunity to show her heart. She was moving well in the back stretch, challenging last year's two-year-old champion, Sharpshooter, for first place when her foot whacked into the wheel on Sharpshooter's sulky. She broke stride and finished 12th in the 14-horse field.

Thus, when the field went off in the third heat, she was in the second tier. That's when the heart, and the savvy of her driver, 64-year-old Flick Nipe, told the tale of the race.

He let the field settle down and in the back stretch moved her smartly into the middle of the pack. When the way was clear ahead, with 3-8 of a mile left, Nipe moved Emily's Pride outside and she took over.

Emily's Pride trotted the final quarter in :30 1-5 to win by a half-length over another filly, Sandalwood.

Second Biggest Purse
The victory paid Emily's Pride, owned by Castleton and Walnut Hall farms, Lexington, Ky., the second biggest Hambletonian purse in history, $62,750.

Little Rocky, owned by S. A. Camp Farm, Shafter, Calif., and a 12-1 outsider, took the second heat. But Little Rocky's best behind Emily's Speed in the third heat was fourth, and he wound up with second money of $26,146.
