Portland — Operations of the bureau of land management in Oregon, Washington and California showed a ratio of $3 of income for every $1 expended during fiscal year 1958, James F. Doyle, Portland area administrator, has announced.

The BLM in the three states had an operating fund for management of lands and resources of $6,776,000 and an allotment of $5,022,000 for access roads, $93,000 for range improvements and $45,000 for forest disease control, a total of $11,936,000. Income totaled $35,276,640.

The greatest portion of the income was from sales of timber on the Oregon and California reversioned railroad grant. Last year the income from this source totaled $22,451,028, of which $3,280,332 was collected from forest service administered O and C lands.

Mineral leases accounted for the next highest share, $9,667,961. Public domain timber sales accounted for almost $2 million, and grazing fees brought $383,517 and miscellaneous receipts accounted for $526,627.

The total income is an increase over the $31,969,620 in fiscal year 1957 despite a drop in timber sales income on Coos Bay Wagon road land and public domain lands and a slump in the lumber market.

A large portion of the income of the bureau is distributed to the states and counties from which it was derived.

Senior Citizens Center Planned By Valley Council of Aging

Plans for establishing the first "senior citizens center" in Oregon were made last week when Frank Glonning, chairman of the Rogue Valley Council on Aging, received permission from the city to use a city building for council purposes.

"We are most grateful to the city," he said, "for the permission received by the Rogue Valley council to use the building at the corner of Hawthorne and Jackson streets, to establish a varied program of education and recreation for retired people on a daily basis."

Obtaining use of the building has been a goal of the council since it was organized in January this year, Glonning noted, and added that it "will be a big challenge to all of us to work out plans to open such a center in Medford on a volunteer basis when it is usually done by a professional staff."

Section of Warehouse
The section of the building which the council will use is a room in one corner of the warehouse, he noted. It was used by the Junior Red Cross during the Korean conflict.

The room includes shelving and a large table, and will accommodate only about 25 persons at a time. Glonning and other council members, including members of the 50 Plus club, agreed that with planning and by starting in a small way to promote hobbies and new interests among older people, a good program can be developed.

Program planning was assigned to the recreation committee of the council, of which Dr. Frank Roberts is chairman, and management of the room to the housing committee, of which William Hoxie is co-chairman.

Members of the Rogue Valley council and the 50 Plus club cleaned up the building late last week. Those who participated in the work-day included Mrs. Scott Davis of the Girl Scout board, Mrs. C. A. Thatcher of the Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. Harry Fuller, secretary of the council, Mrs. S. D. Earhart of the Council of Church Women, Miss Margaret Ossenbruge, artist and music teacher, Mrs. Fred Rankin of the State Council on Aging and representative of the Altrusa club, Edward Eich, vice president of the 50 Plus club, Clarence Evans, Hans Jepson, Mrs. O. A. Edin and Dr. Roberts.

The executive board of the council will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Red Cross building on Hawthorne avenue, to complete some plans for the building.

Offense Best In Drills By Medford Grid Team

Offense stood out substantially over offense yesterday morning as the Medford high football squad completed its first week of drills with a high geared scrimmage.

In the scoring tabulation the Grays came out on top of the Reds 33 to 25.

The Grays scored on an option pass, Ken Durkee to Fred Funston, a pass from Durkee to Mike Hood for 25 yards, a 12-yard shove by Al Funston, a short plunge by Mike Murray and a punch by Ken Durkee. Murray added three extra points from placement.

For the Reds Gerry Lyons ran 70 yards and Skip Bennett crossed from 20 yards out and scored on two short-runs. Don Harrison converted once and recovered a fumble on a Gray pass play to set up one touchdown.

Coach Fred Spiegelberg characterized the session as a "real good scrimmage" and said that offense was good for so soon after workouts started. He commented on good line play, but pointed out that downfield blocking needs much improvement.

In speaking of individuals the mentor pointed to the fine showing of several sophomores, some of whom surprised the coaches. The Sophs included, Bob Quinney and Jerry Winetrot, ends; Terry O'Sullivan, tackle; Doug Kliever, center; Dick Ragsdale and Mike Hood, halfbacks, and Al Funston, fullback.

At end Spiegelberg also commented on the play of Jerry Anderson. Medford has suffered two blows at the flanks with Lowell Dean out because of a hernia operation and Pete Rasmussen Friday again injuring a knee he hurt in basketball. Dean is out for at least several games. Rasmussen could be back sooner.

Others cited for their play yesterday were Harrison, Gary Winetrot, Gordon Pathman and Monte Penwell at tackles, George Ice, John Frohmayer, Don Mann and Blake Taylor at guards, Pat McLoughlin and Dennis Barr at center and Lyons, Peck, Durgeon, Bennett, Jim Clark, Bob Pond, Fred Funston, Ron Reich, Harvey and Hood in the backfield.

Spiegelberg remarked that Peck passed well and that
