

Jane Schnittger, Richard Graham To Be Married

Ashland - The wedding of Mrs. Jane Schnittger to Richard Graham is set for Saturday, September 6, at St. Mark's Episcopal church, Medford. The Rev. John Thompson of Trinity Episcopal church, Ashland, will officiate for the ceremony, set for 10 o'clock in the morning.

Only relatives and close friends will attend and the ceremony will be followed by a small reception at Mon Desir inn, Central Point.

Mr. Graham has been with the Oregon Shakespearean festival for 11 years, both as a staff member and as a leading actor, and has made his home in Ashland in recent years. Mrs. Schnittger was on the secretarial staff of Southern Oregon college last winter, and this summer has been box office manager for the festival.

The engagement of the couple was announced during the annual party given for festival company members at the Talent cafe earlier this week.

Bridge Session Winners Named

Camp White - Mrs. Frank Baker and Paul Hatton, and the Jack Barrs of Grants Pass headed winners for the last meeting of Camp White Veterans Bridge club.

Mrs. Baker and Mr. Hatton scored 79 points to lead north-south winners, and second place in that division went to Eugene Ricker and Tom Randall for 76 points. Mrs. Hatton and Tom Munds were third with 75 1/2 points.

The Barrs score of 75 1/2 points won them first place east-west, and the Howard Boyds were second with 64; third went to Miss Enid Holmes and Walter Humes for a score of 62 1/2 points.

Susan Boals, 11-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David C. Boals of Glenn Oak court, wasn't one of the winners in the 1958 Southern Oregon Golf tournament, but she earned an award. Susan caddied for her father during the tournament and was so helpful that Dr. Boals, runner-up to champion Lynn Creason, presented her with a golf bag when the tournament trophies were handed out Monday afternoon at the Rogue Valley Country clubhouse. (Knackstedt photo)

AFS Student Returning From Norway on Sunday

Miss Roberta Sleeter, Medford High school student who spent the past several weeks living with a Norwegian family at a summer home, will arrive back in Medford Sunday, September 7. Miss Sleeter, daughter of Mrs. Robert W. Sleeter, 39 South Berkeley way, made the trip to Norway under the American Field service program. She is expected in New York Thursday, will cross the continent by train and fly from Portland to Medford.

Excerpts from the student's recent letters follow:

I guess I haven't made it too clear about my surroundings, family, etc., so I'll try to describe them. Mr. and Mrs. Haneberg are both very nice. He's the rugged type, while she is very lady-like. She has arthritis quite badly, and often has to spend about half the day in bed.

Ragnhild will soon be 14. She's quite a tomboy, very much like I used to be. Inger, who is 12, is the only one who doesn't speak English, but she has been the one who has taught me the most Norwegian. She's the cuddly type and sometimes walks up to me and puts her arms around me. She's also loaded with patience.

Evy is very strong and a good swimmer. We get along very well although lately her interests have been centered on Rayder, the boy who owns the boat. Norwegians are very shy as far as relations with the opposite sex are concerned and I love to tease her.

This island is beautiful and the country is varied as far as landscape goes. Down by the shore and around our cabin it is typical coastal country. It is very rocky, with several pine trees and small bushes. However, about one-half mile inland it becomes covered with big evergreen trees and when I walk through, it is like the forests at home would be if there were no lumber mills and logging trucks. It is dense and very green and beautiful. The family owns a car, a 1957 Opel. It's German, made by a plant of General Motors and is comparable to the Chevrolet.

Shops Small Norwegian stores are actually just small shops, and to look at the town from a distance you wouldn't even know there were shops because they are very few big display windows and no signs that stick out from the roof telling what store it is. Inside, the shops aren't much different than any place else.

You asked about my laundry. As you know, there is no electricity or running water, so not much washing is done. My clothes for the most part are just getting a little grimmer every day. When I finally do wash, I don't know how I'll ever iron. I guess I have the right clothes. If I had it to do over, I'd have brought more old sport clothes such as shorts and jeans and sweat shirts and fewer dresses, but I have plenty to last me.

I'm gradually learning a little more Norwegian, but I definitely let Evy do all my

As for Norwegian kitchens, ours only consists of a little 2-unit gas stove plus a few cupboards. There is no refrigerator, only a cellar that keeps food pretty well. There's also grocery delivery, so we don't have to keep a lot of food stored in it.

Life is continuing in the same slow, even pace. Last Tuesday a friend of Evy's came to stay with us, and she's leaving tomorrow. She was an AFS student at Palo Alto during the year 1956-57. Her name is Greta Andersen and though she is nearly 20, she certainly doesn't look or act any older than Evy or I. However, I've noticed that the kids here grow up slower than at home.

Saturday morning Tom Segall, the American AFSer and his Norwegian brother, Arne, came over to see us. The Hanebergs were planning to go over to the island in the new boat on a picnic, so we took them with us. It was lots of fun. First we went swimming, briefly, in the icy water, then spent the afternoon lying around talking, eating and listening to the radio. When we came back they stayed for dinner and didn't leave till around 8:30 p.m. Arne was an AFS student the same year Greta was, so they knew each other. I knew Tom from the boat.

I'm peeling all over, so will have to start all over again to get a tan. It's very maddening. The time is going very fast for me. I rarely get homesick, although I miss everyone, and hamburgers, very much.

Thought I'd better keep you posted as to future events. August 16, Evy and I will leave Oslo to go up in the mountains for a week with all the other AFSers. I gather that we'll catch the train from Arendal on the 15th to go to Oslo. Then on the 22nd we go from the mountains to Oslo and will have all the next day for shopping and sightseeing. Early in the morning of the 24th we'll leave Oslo, arriving in Rotterdam the next day.

Evy and I went to town a few days ago and I looked around trying to find a birthday present for Ronald, but the toys here are the same as those at home.

It's been pouring all week, although that doesn't keep us inside. I decided however, that when we go to Arendal next I'm going to break down and buy a suit of oilskins. That's a good name for the big yellow raincoats, but at least they keep out the rain. You should see the huckleberries that grow around here. They're all over, just like weeds, and grow really as big as marbles. We go out and pick them, then smother them with powdered sugar for dinner. They're very good. There are also lots of cherry trees and lots of raspberries.

The weather finally decided to clear up and it's been beautiful the last three days. A few nights ago a group of us went out fishing and didn't get in until 2:30. It was fascin-

Roundup Time Dinner Planned

A "roundup time" potluck dinner will be the first event of the fall season for Scottish Women's club. The dinner will be held Monday, September 8, at 6:30 p.m. in Medford Masonic temple.

Members with names beginning with A through G are asked to take salads; H through K, hot vegetables; L through R, meat dishes; S through W, dessert.

Ashland and Grants Pass members are to take cakes. A business session will follow dinner.

Wives, widows, mothers, daughters and sisters of Scottish Rite members are invited to attend.

Shady Cove Club To Meet Monday

Shady Cove - Shady Cove Garden club will hold the September meeting Monday, September 8, at 12:30 p.m., at Our Lady of Fatima Parish hall, Shady Cove.

Mrs. Edward Houston and Mrs. Edgar Vanderlip are in charge of refreshments.

Mrs. William Shepherd will give a report on the Oregon Federation of Garden clubs' convention. Plans for the fall flower show will be discussed.

ating the way they fished. A real bright light was hung over the end of the boat so that we could see down into the water to the bottom - we were in quite shallow water. Then if a crab comes along you pick him up with a special net. We didn't get any, but we did get two lobsters, which is very illegal at this time of year. We also caught three cod by spear fishing. Evy said that this method of fishing is very typical of Norwegian fishing.

We had a "very typical" Norwegian dinner last night which I must describe. It was really different than anything I've had yet. It consisted of pickled herring, a type of dilled potatoes, chopped cucumber, tomatoes and onions, and pickled beets. Everything was cold. We then mixed a lot of mayonnaise over it all. It was delicious, but I wouldn't want to eat it very often.

It makes me sad to think that after today, I'll only have three full days left here. It seems like there are still so many things left to do.
