The coming general election is "the most important in years" and is "for the control of Oregon," according to Fayette Bristol, Republican representative from Josephine county who spoke for the September meeting of Jackson County Republican Women's club held yesterday noon at Girls' Community club.

Mr. Bristol and E. A. Littrell, Jackson county representative to the Oregon legislature, both spoke for the luncheon and reviewed the record of Robert Duncan, Democratic member of the Oregon House of Representatives from Jackson county.

Mr. Bristol charged that Representative Duncan was a "young man with a glib tongue who doesn't keep his campaign promises," and "the worst holdout in the last legislature." He charged that Oregon will be run by "all-powerful small groups with a figurehead for a governor" if the Democrats win the coming election. He said that conservative Democrats in the state are as worried as the Republicans, and that "we need to return to representative government and common sense in Oregon."

Both Representatives Littrell and Bristol reviewed events of the last regular session and the special session of the legislature, particularly the course of tax bills, and charged that Duncan had "voted with the wild-eyed clique in the legislature." Representative Littrell said that Mr. Duncan had concerned himself unduly with trying to pare down the budgets of commissions not operated at taxpayers expense, and then voted "yes" on all the bills which increased the state's budget.

He added that the Jackson county Democrat had voted "no" on the compromise bill in the special session which would have set the tax reduction at 21 per cent, mid-way between the 10 per cent which Governor Holmes had proposed and the 30 per cent proposed by the Republicans. He also told his listeners that Duncan had voted in committee against the bill which would have done away with the property tax clause in Oregon law, and said the Dem-

Extension Coordinator Announced

Corvallis — Oregon State college extension service has announced the appointment of Esther A. Taskerud as coordinator of its state program in home economics.

The appointment announced this week by F. L. Ballard, associate director of OSC extension service, is subject to approval by the state board of higher education.

Miss Taskerud fills a vacancy created last month by the resignation of the former Frances Clinton, now Mrs. S. B. Hall of Portland.

The statewide extension education program in home economics extends college teaching and research to both adult and youth groups throughout Oregon. County extension agents help homemakers and 4-H clubs develop local programs and train leaders to take information to others.

Expansion of the home economics program to more young families, and more training for Oregon's 4,200 voluntary 4-H club leaders are objectives of this year's program, Ballard said. More family-centered programs including family finance, housing, gardening, legal assistance and consumer buying will be offered.

Miss Taskerud has been an OSC staff member since 1947 as an assistant state 4-H club leader and, for the past three years, a district supervisor of extension home economics.

She is a graduate of South Dakota State college and holds a master's degree from Columbia University Teachers college. Before coming to Oregon, she was an assistant state 4-H club leader in Iowa and South Dakota and earlier taught school in South Dakota.

Last spring, Miss Taskerud was awarded the Superior Service citation by the U. S. department of agriculture for outstanding contributions to extension education.

Window Dummies Changing

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
New York—(UPI)—Let a drastic style change come along and window dummies as well as our wardrobe are dated.

This year's high-waisted, empire silhouette has produced a brand new girl underneath those clothes on display. The bosom is a little higher than last year; the waist not quite as nipped in. The shoulders are natural. The hair-dos are modifications of those worn in the era of the Empress Josephine. And the bony, gaunt face of the last few seasons has given way to a softer, rounder look.

"It's a good thing skirts got shorter instead of longer," said Mary Brosman, whose company makes the high-style mannequins staring from windows of some of the nation's best stores.

Can't Be Chopped
Miss Bronson, in the design business since 1941, explained that either her own production lines or the stores could just add waistline "extenders" or inserts. These make the figure of the mannequin longer, and skirts on her look almost to the knee.

"A lot of mannequins were put right out of work in 1947 when the new look hauled hemlines down," she said. "We can make 'em taller, but we can't chop them down."

Keeping dummies in style calls for trips to Europe to see what fashion leaders there are doing, and a constant check with American designers and retailers, she said.

"We know what'll be new as soon as the manufacturer does," said Ralph Adler, vice-president of the D. G. Williams Co. His firm, which his wife, Dorothy, headed until her death August 31, has an interest in Miss Bronson's and acts as her sales agent and distributor.

Today's model in the window may be a $150 or $200 copy of one who's making

Doctor Recommends Rocking Chair As Cure For Colic

New Orleans—(UPI)—A Boston doctor says the rocking chair is one of the best cures for baby's colic.

Dr. James Marvin Baty, professor of pediatrics at Tufts University school of medicine in Boston said use of drugs is a new way to fight the bothersome ailment. But the rocking chair is a much older remedy.

"I'm trying to bring back both the rocking chair and the pacifier," Dr. Baty said. He said the rocking soothes the baby and the pacifier helps him satisfy a desire to nurse.

Dr. Baty spoke at the 21st annual meeting of the New Orleans graduate Medical Assembly.

Colic is most often caused by startling a baby, he said. Babies under three months function as reflex animals, and anything is liable to set them off.

When startled, they cry. When they cry they swallow air and that causes intestinal disturbances and makes them cry more. So they swallow more air.

It's like a dog chasing his tail," Dr. Baty said. "The thing to do is break in on this little cycle."
