Standards of Children Different From Parents

Washington - An increasing number of children today are evolving standards and personal values that differ sharply from those of their parents, a group of social workers told the Children's Bureau at a recent meeting.

The group urged that this be one of the important areas of study at the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

The emerging moral and social values among many of today's youth often result in a breakdown of communication between children and their parents the group noted.

Both parents and community welfare organizations are finding it difficult to keep pace with the needs and interests of today's children, the social workers said.

One member of the group observed that while physical changes in the world have been progressing geometrically, social changes have been advancing only arithmetically.

Third in Series

The meeting was the third in a series by Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger, chief of the Children's Bureau, to obtain suggestions of various professional groups concerning the forthcoming conference.

Specific questions that the group, composed of 25 social work leaders from private and public agencies and schools of social work, proposed that the 1960 Conference consider, included:

What steps should be taken

Women Claim Headaches Caused by Money, Kids

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor

New York - (UPI) - This probably will come as a blow to the male of the species, but it is mostly worry over money and kids instead of men which gives us women headaches.

So reports a lady researcher, after talking to 6,500 women on a subject which long has bothered medical science, the "why" of throbbing temples.

Marguerite Rittenhouse, 35, whose doctorate is in business administration and not medicine, made the study among housewives in urban and suburban parts of the nation.

Only three per cent of the women reported complete freedom from headache. And most of the victims said they are the worrying kind - 35 per cent of them fretting over money, another 35 per cent over the kids.

Few Blame Husbands

Only 10 per cent blamed headaches on husbands, and here the problem seemed to be the family argument rather than the "other woman."

Another 10 per cent blamed noise of their own children and only rarely the noise of neighbors, traffic and factories. Other headache causers were health, jobs and friends.

Miss Rittenhouse holds a Ph. D. from the Graduate School of Business Administration at Fordham University and heads the home research staff for makers of Bufferin, which underwrote the study.

She said the questionnaires showed women in suburbia are more frequent headache victims than their sisters in cities. Women 24 years and younger seem to have more headaches from fatigue and worry than older women, and develop them during the day or evening. The older women are more apt to wake up with headaches. The researcher didn't go into the reasons for this.

Reasons Vary

The Rittenhouse study showed the ladies' sense of humor intact, even if their heads hurt.

"I'm a teacher - 'nuff said," replied one woman, when asked what she believed caused her headaches.

"It's my own nasty disposition," said another. "Raising whoopee," replied a third. Still another said, "trouble with husband's relatives."

Women claimed "too little sleep," "worry," "TV," "nerves or sinus, whichever is working at the time," and "my three wonderful angels, God bless 'em." One woman listed "circumstances in my home - they're unusual. We try anything once and it can be trying."

My own favorite answer came from the woman who said headaches occurred "if I'm late and have to rush, so it's probably nerves. Besides, I live in Brooklyn."

More Women Finding Jobs In Radio, TV

United Press International Job opportunities for women in radio and television are increasing.

So says Edythe Fern Melrose, veteran Detroit broadcaster and president of the "American Women in Radio and Television."

"This is an emotional type business," says Melrose, "and women's emotions make them better able to interpret public needs. Besides, women are practical in their approach to advertising - and there's a top advertising sales job for a woman at nearly every station."

The Detroit broadcaster, an executive of stations WXYZ-TV, thinks there soon may be more programs on home design, decorating and family living.

"One woman on the staff of every station who concentrates on this field can perform a real service," she says.

Miss Melrose who suggests that radio stations could use women commentators on public affairs.

Girls who'd like to wind up as commentators should start as secretaries, she advises. And she believes girls aiming for radio and TV careers should have college backgrounds.

Taste in Wallpaper Undergoing Change

Chicago - (UPI) - Modern wallpaper designers are seeking "timelessness" in design, according to Midwest decorators Denst and Soderlund, Inc.

"Doodle modern" is a thing of the past, say the trend-setting designers.

"The public taste - changing gradually the last few years - has definitely turned to the softer, subtler art form in wallpaper."

The textured look, say Denst and Soderlund, continues to rise in popularity.

When buying eggs, look for a carton that has small slits on the bottom. The slits allow a broken egg to run out and prevent the consumer from "getting stuck" with hidden breakage.

Newcomers Invited To Party

Welcome Wagon club of Medford invites newcomers to the community who have lived here two years or less to a patio potluck dinner-dance to be given by the club tomorrow, Saturday, September 20, at 7 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Dee Wood, 1517 Jasper street, will be hosts for the evening.

A charge will be made and reservations should be made tonight by calling either Mrs. Louis Mahar, SPing 3-1454, or Mrs. C. E. Brain, SPing 2-8381.

Dress for the evening will be casual sports wear; skirts and sweaters for the women and slacks and shirts for the men, the committee states. Comfortable jackets to wear while eating if the weather is cool are also suggested.

Each couple is asked to bring two contributions for the potluck dinner, something for a relish tray, and any one of the following items - a hot dish, salad, desert or rolls.

A variety of music for dancing, from tangos to waltzes is planned, and the party will provide opportunities to make new acquaintances.

Americans Said Spending Half-Billion Dollars Each Year To Raise Dogs

By ANTHONY ZECCA UPI Correspondent

Philadelphia - (UPI) - America is going to the dogs to the tune of a half-billion dollars a year.

That's how much it's costing us to let dogs lead a dog's life, said Harry Miller, one of the nation's leading canine connoisseurs and Director of the Gaines Dog Research Center.

Miller pegs the nation's pooch population at 25 million, which includes 113 recognized breeds, one-third of all there are.

"There's no recession in the dog industry," said Miller. "It's thriving, with 40 per cent of the nation's homes having one or more dogs. We figure the total gross last year, including sale of puppies, food, shows, medical expenses and otherwise, was well over $500 million."

Biggest item, he explained, was $325 million for dog food, the likes of which Mother Hubbard's Cupboard never imagined. There are canned foods, meal types, baked goods, frozen foods and special prescription foods. Then there are diets aimed at reducing obese dogs, those to aid the kidneys of aging dogs, other high protein diets for dogs who are under stress, and menus for just about every condition imaginable. Nervous dogs get tranquilizing drugs; listless ones get energy foods.

"For the most part," said Miller, "dogs are treated as members of the family. They get sick and old like humans, and they get medicine and hospitalization in the same manner."

Miller's book "Puppy and Dog Care" is a best-seller among dog owners, and its proceeds go to the Cornell Research Laboratory for Diseases of Dogs. But there are as many varied publications on dogs as cross-breeds.

National Listing

You can, for example, get a national listing of hotels and motels which do not discriminate against dogs if you're traveling. There's a pamphlet on dog names; there's one that tells you how to enjoy a dog show, another on how to groom your dog, and one entitled, "Our Dog's Health Record," in which you record all his shots, treatments and visits to the veterinarian, a counterpart to the "Our Baby" book. It even has a space for the pooch's picture.

Dogdom, in brief, is enjoying a boom, said Miller. "We know that two out of every five homes being set up will have a dog," he stated. "In a great many cases, the dog comes before the child. If the couple raises the dog right, chances are they'll do a pretty good job with the child."

Debt of Average American $16,000

New York - (UPI) - The average American family is almost $16,000 in debt.

That figure is the family's share of the gross public and private debt which now exceeds $850 billion. It is an amount roughly triple the average family's annual income.

Since 1953, the per family share of the total debt has grown by $2,500. The sharpest increase has taken place in the private sector, principally reflecting sharp increases in mortgage and consumer debt.

The Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization, estimates that the average family's share of the gross government has grown from $6,375 in 1953 to more than $6,600 at present. It estimates that the per family share of the total private debt, including corporate debt, has swelled from $7,161 to $9,318.

The Tax Foundation noted that a $4,500-a-year income family pays out $1,393 each year in direct and hidden taxes. In the six years 1953 through 1958 this family has paid a total of $8,500 in taxes, the foundation said.

Interstate Bridge Pattern Restored

Vancouver, Wash. - (UPI) - A familiar traffic pattern at the north end of the Interstate bridge was restored at 9 a.m. today and will remain in effect for the next year-and-a-half, until remodeling is completed on the old span.

For three weeks, heavy traffic between Portland and Vancouver has been channeled into two narrow lanes at the north end of the new bridge while construction work progressed. Resumption of the old pattern will mean that four-lane traffic on the Vancouver freeway will be restored and the Camas approach will be reopened. A speed zone of 25 miles per hour at the north end of the bridge remains in effect and police said it would be rigidly enforced.

Preliminary OK of Dammasch Grant Told

Washington - (UPI) - The Department of Health, Education and Welfare today granted preliminary approval for a federal grant of $741,000 for the F. H. Dammasch state hospital at Wilsonville, Ore., the office of Sen. Richard D. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said.

Contract bridges dates to 1925.

New Algerian Exile Government Could Upset Plan

Paris - (UPI) - Creation of an Algerian government-in-exile could upset French Premier Charles de Gaulle's peace plans for Algeria, informed sources said today.

They said it could also bring France's relations with Morocco and Tunisia close to the breaking point and embarrass the United States as well.

The Rebel National Liberation Front was expected to announce establishment of a "free" Algerian government in Cairo today.

Government officials here have been hoping Algerian participation in the Sept. 28 referendum on De Gaulle's new constitution would ease the conflict over Algerian demands for independence.

United States on Spot

But establishment of a rebel government in Cairo would mean Algerian leaders were ready and willing to continue the struggle indefinitely, in the opinion of some observers here.

As for the United States, it would be placed in the position of having to recognize or ignore the new regime, recognition would severely strain relations with France, and Paris officials considered this course extremely unlikely.

Ignoring the "free" government, on the other hand, would risk losing more ground in Washington's efforts to woo Arab nations in the Western camp.

Arab experts pointed out Morocco and Tunisia probably would be forced to recognize the new Algerian regime. They said this could lead to a rupture of diplomatic relations between France and the former protectorates.
