

LAKE POISONING SET

Fish Lake Operation Set Oct. 1

Poisoning of Fish lake for trash fish will start Oct. 1, it was decided yesterday afternoon during a meeting at the Medford irrigation district office on Barnett rd.

The decision followed a meeting of representatives of the Medford and Rogue River Valley irrigation districts, the U.S. Forestry service and the State Game commission.

Four-mile lake waters which flow through the Cascade canal and into Fish lake will be poisoned in the underground basalt basin Sept. 26 to make sure the coverage is thorough, it was explained.

The lake was poisoned in 1951, but trash fish have since become a serious problem.

The water level in Fish lake will be maintained temporarily at 3,500 acre feet which is the maximum level at which the lake can be treated. This is about 1,000 acre feet more than originally figured on by the forestry service and the game commission. Raising the level to more than 2,500 acre feet will mean an additional cost of $1,600. Total cost estimated by the game commission before for the seven-day treatment of Fish lake and of Four Mile water was $8,000, according to Bob Boravicka, Portland state game commission biologist.

To Request Funds
The biologist said the additional funds would be requested from the game commission which must approve allocation of any funds over $500. The commission will keep an extra man and a Snot-Cat at Fish lake to help the irrigation districts' crews with any emergencies which may arise during the poisoning, it was explained.

The biologist said that skin-divers would use pressure hoses to shoot the rotenone chemical into the springs at Fish lake. Jack Hoffbuhr, Medford Irrigation district manager, said the gates on the Cascade ditch from Four Mile lake into Fish lake could be closed any time to cut off the flow of water for the poisoning operations.

Harold Thomas, Ashland district ranger, said Fish lake had been famous for its fishing in 1910. Biologist Boravicka stated that Fish lake could be very productive in both quantity and quality of fish. This is because of the quality of water and the basin in which it is, also the nutrients or fish food existing in the lake waters. The trash fish variety now in the lake is native to the Klamath drainage, he explained. These have gradually crowded out the trout.

Plan 100 Per Cent Kill

Boravicka said he is hoping for a 100 per cent kill through poisoning for trash fish. Depending on variable conditions it is some time before the toxicity from the poisoning chemical wears off so trout may be planted, he explained. If the poisoning isn't done soon it will be impossible to plant trout this season and there will be no fishing in Fish lake next year.

Lloyd Morris, owner-operator of the Fish lake resort, said he has an $80,000 investment at the lake. During two years the rapidly dwindling fishing due to the trash fish has cost him an estimated $40,000, he stated.

The Ashland district ranger said during 1955, 21,000 people used Fish lake. This dropped to 10,000 in 1957. The resort owner estimated 1,000 people visited the lake during the 1958 season.

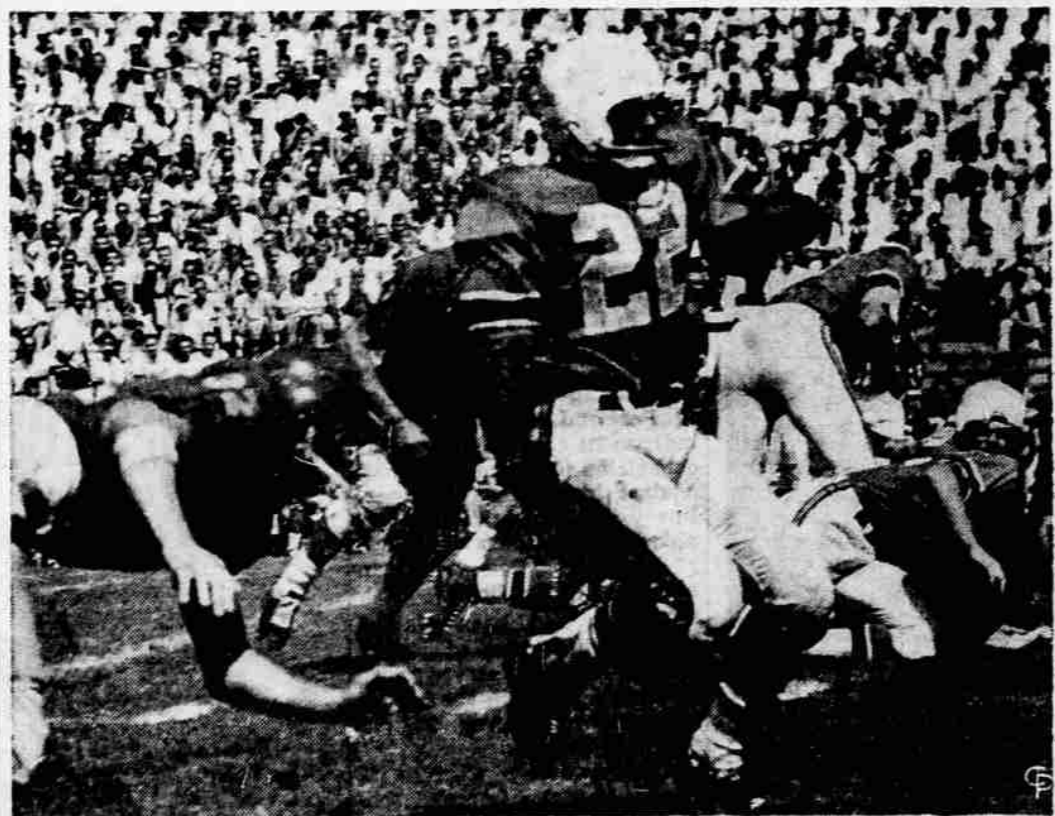

8th Graders Look Good

Philip Lowry, attorney for Medford Irrigation district, explained that Fish lake and Four Mile lake come under the jurisdiction of the Medford and Rogue River Valley Irrigation districts. Approximately 14,000 acres of irrigated lands come under the two boards, the attorney said.

Boards Responsible

The water boards of both districts are legally responsible to their customers to see they get the needed water, the attorney said. Both boards desire to cooperate in the poisoning operation, he said. The 3,500 acre foot level is as low as Fish lake should be drawn off in order to give a minimum protection to the water users, he said. Weather conditions are so variable that precautions must be taken in advance to ensure a good water supply, Lowry said.

The district already has held back the normal flow of water from Four Mile lake for 70 days hoping to reach an agreement and have the BREAKING AWAY FOR A 20-yard gainer, College of Pacific's fleet left halfback Dick Bass, No. 22, had his efforts nullified in first quarter when penalty called back the play. Bass scored on another run in the first quarter, and so did California's great passing and running back, Joe Kapp. Both players were standouts in the clash.

Ohio State Tops First Weekly Poll; Oklahoma Team Rated No. 2 Choice

New York—UPI—Ohio State, defending national and Big Ten football champion, topped the first weekly major college ratings of the United Press International Board of Coaches today although it does not open its season until Saturday.

The coaches gave coach Woody Hayes' Buckeyes, 1958 Rose Bowl champions in victors in 24 of their last 26 starts in the powerful Big Ten, 17 first-place votes and a total of 275 points. The Buckeyes open at home against Southern Methodist Saturday. Ohio State narrowly edged Auburn for the mythical national championship in the final 1957 ratings.

Seven of the teams in the top 10 have yet to open their schedules. Besides Ohio State, they are Oklahoma, Michigan State, Notre Dame, Auburn, Navy and Wisconsin.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma team, which rebounded to defeat Duke in the 1958 Orange Bowl game after Notre Dame snapped its 47-game winning streak last season, was second with four first-place votes and 230 points. Notre Dame was third with four first-place votes and 198 points.

Michigan State was next with three first-place votes and 192 points. Texas Christian, which opened with a 42-0 triumph over Kansas last Saturday, was fifth with two first-place votes and 167 points. Auburn was sixth with one first-place vote and 160 points.

Pittsburgh, which opened one of the nation's toughest schedules with an impressive 27-6 victory over UCLA, drew two first-place votes and 97 points for seventh place. Navy with 63 points, Wisconsin, 59 and Mississippi, 44, rounded out the first 10.

Each coach votes for 10 teams, listing them in the order in which he rates them. Points are distributed on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first through 10th place.

Army, which opens its campaign Saturday against South Carolina, headed the second group with 40 points. Washington State, Louisiana State, Kentucky, Southern California, Clemson, Purdue, Wake Forest, South Carolina and North Carolina rounded out this group in that order. Wake Forest and West Virginia, which was 21st with 16 points, divided the remaining two first-place votes.

In all, 39 teams received votes in the first ratings.

Boxer Fails To Show Up

Providence, R.I.—UPI—Lightweight Gordon Parker of Athol, Mass., still was unheard from today after failing to show up for a 10-round main bout at Arcadia Ball Room Monday night.

Parker was present for the official noon weigh-in Monday but did not appear for his scheduled bout with Pat McCoy of Galway, Ireland.

BOWLING

MEDFORD JUNIORS
Medford junior bowlers took all four games Saturday in a match with the previously unbeaten Lorenzo Shell team of Arcadia, Calif. The match was at Medford lanes with Doug Williams of the victors gaining high individual honors with a 190 game and 545 series. Medford won out 2480 to 1933.

Medford—Doug Williams, 545; T. Bortis, 503; M. Davis, 417; L. Little, 486; D. Bauman, 529.

Lorenzo Shell—B. Bullman, 389; W. Simas, 377; Rust Brim, 415; G. Sunquist, 380; Al Lorenzo 370.

British Delay Race For Lack of Breeze

Newport, R.I.—UPI—Britain's challengers for the sailing championship they lost to America in Queen Victoria's day decided today to wait for a breeze stiff enough to move their boat.

The British contenders begged off racing again today after Monday's deflating contest for the America's Cup ended with the race called off because neither boat could finish within the required five and one-half hours.

Both the American Columbia and Britain's Sceptre had been hoping for a real blow off Newport Harbor in September. So far, the wind has been scarcely enough to wait a feather, let alone a 70-foot sloop.

U.S. Leads

The United States still led by a 1-0 margin in this World Series of sailing with the victor taking the first four of a possible seven races.

Helmman Briggs Cunningham on Columbia was walking away with a second race Monday but he wasn't walking fast enough. When the race was cancelled, the American boat led by about the same half-mile margin by which it won the opener Saturday.

The Redcoats made a battle of it for a time though. They grabbed the lead after being outmaneuvered at the start. Then skipper Graham Mann had to witness the painful sight of Columbia once again overtaking his boat and going ahead.

SPORTS

Hedrick Jr. High Scrimmages

Fundamentals are being stressed in drills at Hedrick junior high school as the team prepares to travel to North Grants Pass junior high school Friday.

Coach Barney Riggs says the spirit is good and the team has more all-around size than ever before.

8th Graders Look Good

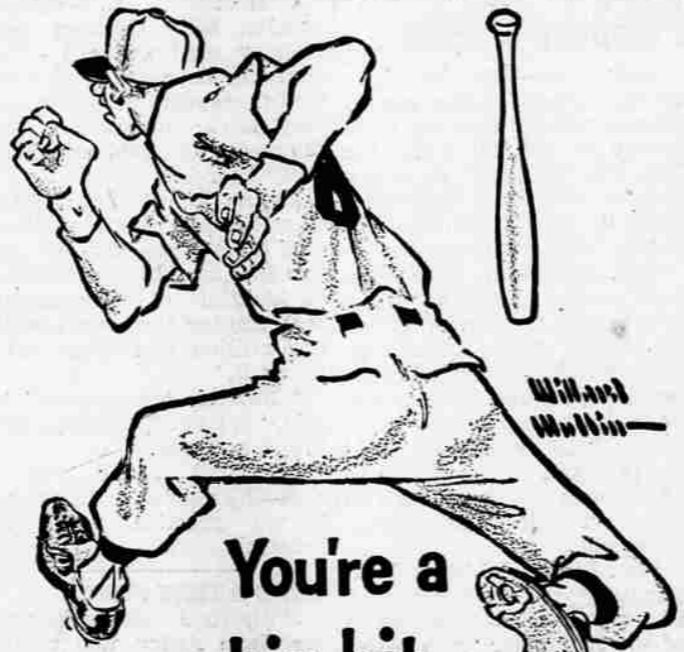

Hedrick eighth graders are preparing to meet North Grants Pass at Hedrick Oct. 3, according to Coach Don Stroh.

He reports a total of 26 boys out with a few doing stand-out jobs. These include end Roy Shaw, tackles Glen Dean and Dick Johansen, center Darryl Stockton, halfback Gib Mitchell, quarterback Danny Miles and fullback Jim Dandy.

For speed Dandy is rated high by Stroh. His 145 pounds is considered fairly heavy for an eighth-grader and gives him punch behind his speed, Stroh added.

The eighth graders anticipate a fair season with overall average weight and speed.

poisoning operations finished, it was pointed out. Because of variable factors game commission representatives could not set a definite date before for the poisoning, it was explained.
